MOONSHINERS BUSY IN OREGON NOW SAYS GOVERNMENT OFFICER

INTERNAL REVENUE DEPARTMENT MAY TAKE ACTION TO GET VIOLATORS.

Reports Have Been Received of Illegal Manufacture of Liquor—Others Getting Ready to Establish Hidden Still—Dope Smugglers Are Also Reaping Harvest.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 25.—Moonshiners are doing business in Oregon, and others are getting ready to establish hidden stills, according to information that has come to L. W. Elliott, special agent of the internal revenue department for the Oregon and Washington district.

"Indications of moonshiners have been called to our attention," said Mr. Elliott. "It appears that they will require our attention in the near future, and we certainly do not intend to let them do business very long in this state."

Dope Smuggling Problem.
But the most difficult work the special agents of the internal revenue service have to perform is in running down dope smugglers.

"In my opinion the illegal traffic will never be eradicated until the government changes its method so it can get positive evidence against those handling the dope. We now get perhaps one of 10."

He said he thought the government should authorize the employment of men who can mix with dope-users and get direct evidence against the smugglers. If this were done, he said he believed the Pacific coast could be cleaned up in a comparatively short while. The fact that the few persons now being caught with the dope nearly always have large quantities on hand convinces him that the illegal traffic is doing on to a surprisingly large extent.

Light Sentences Given.
Persons caught with dope in their possession are usually given comparatively light sentences by the courts. Mr. Elliott pointed out, because it has been impossible to produce evidence other than the mere possession of the stuff. He contends if men could be employed to get evidence of actual traffic in the dope, much more severe sentences could be obtained. He said the regular revenue agents can not get this direct evidence because the courts from upon a government official participating in the commission of a crime in order to catch the other fellow.

"More money is being made out of smuggling dope than any other kind of smuggling that has ever been attempted on this coast," declared Mr. Elliott.

Men Who Buy Stein-Bloch Suits Buy More Than Mere Garments

In every STEIN-BLOCH garment, no matter what the price, is put 100% of STEIN-BLOCH workmanship. Every stitch must be right—and every stitch must be there.

This is to tailoring as cement is to concrete—it is the "binder" which insures permanence of form and stability of worth.

DONOVAN WILL PLAY BAKER AT THIRD

J. FRANKLIN BAKER

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—J. Franklin Baker, one time Athletic idol, who has signed with the New York Yankees will play third base, according to Manager Donovan and Masei, the regular third baseman, will be shifted to the outfield.

Baker signed a three year contract, which is said to call for $6,000 a year. The purchase price is understood to have been $25,000.

Among the professions Baker is known as the "clean-up" hitter. His long drives, which are usually made when men are on base, makes him feared by all batters. Outfields always move back when the "Home Run King" comes to the plate.

While relating about his baseball past recently Baker gave Charles Herzog the credit of starting him on his diamond career. Baker had been playing as an amateur in his home town Trappe, Md. in 1908 when he was nineteen years old. Herzog was with a semi-professional team at Biddeford, Me.

Baker at the time was playing in the outfield, and Herzog was so impressed with his hitting that he offered Baker a job for $5 a week.

"I jumped at the offer," says Baker in telling of it. "It sounded like a million dollars to me, just a plain farmer boy."

Herzog found that Baker was better fitted for the infield and played him at third, a position he has stuck to ever since.

Baker's next engagement was with the Cambridge Club in Maryland. He remained there until the fall of 1907, when he got a flattering offer to play with the Reading club of the Tri-state League. On September 1, 1908, he joined the Athletics in Chicago. He started as a regular the following spring, the same year as Collins.

His first season as an Athletic regular found Baker hitting .305, and he led the American League in triples, with nineteen, and stole twenty bases. In 1910 he fell below the 300 mark. That season he had fifteen triples, twenty-five doubles and two home runs. In the world's series against the Cubs he batted .409.

Baker became a diamond hero in 1911. He made forty doubles, fourteen triples and led the league with nine home runs. He was the home run leader in 1912. Baker quit the Athletics after the season of 1914, and last year played with a semi-professional club in Maryland.

DEAR LITTLE DEER RAN UP A RATHER DEAR BILL

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 25.—Detective Johnny Price took Patrolman

Stone's brace of tame deer to Tacoma yesterday, expecting to lead them in the Elks' parade, but when he tried to fling them from the stable to the club rooms in the tonneau of a borrowed Ford, they revolted and the buck put himself hors de combat.

Price saw at once that the deer couldn't march, but he didn't want to rob the procession of his own presence, so he thought very fast for a place to leave them. He spied a florist's shop.

"Oh, joy! The very place," he said.

"Certainly, you may leave them, the little deers," said the obliging florist lady.

When he got back the deer were all right, but where, oh where, were the lovely hyacinths, the fragrant carnations, the flaming poinsettias? Where, indeed?

(Note—The florist's bill has been settled.)
