Industrial Freedom of America Depends on Work of Chemists

(By John Corrigan, Jr.) Independence for America, financial and industrial, as complete as the political independence we now enjoy, is the dream of many scientists and business men of the United States. In accomplishing this result much will depend on the skill of our chemists.

Present events have demonstrated the important position of the chemist in peace and war. Our industries are now crippled for want of dyes because American chemists have not had the individual aggressiveness and the governmental backing that the Germans have had. We have, therefore, been dependent upon Germany for a vast number of chemical products.

Big changes are certain to follow the war. They will affect business as well as boundary lines. How to meet them, prepare for them, discount them, if possible, is now engaging the attention of all thoughtful men. One of the biggest things to be guarded against is dependence upon foreign sources of supply for things vitally needed for our industries.

"The lesson has come suddenly and brusquely, like a blow in the face," said Professor Thomas H. Norton, expert in chemistry of the United States department of foreign and domestic commerce, and formerly consul general at Chemnitz, Germany. "Time is required for the application of the lesson, but on every hand are evidences that it has been well learned.

"The organized productive activities of this land, agricultural and industrial," he continued, "are gradually forming the iron resolve that never again shall they be exposed to the anxiety, the uncertainty, the loss, re-

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

During the past week Mrs. E. B. Haslop has been substituting for Miss Arlie Rouanzon, teacher of the seventh grade of the Lincoln school, and yesterday afternoon after school hours she was given a pleasant surprise by her pupils. They had sent to the city for ice cream and cake and all enjoyed the refreshments.

Mrs. Clinton E. Roosevelt returned yesterday evening from Walla Walla where she had been visiting relatives.

An afternoon of music and Maternity was enjoyed yesterday afternoon by the ladies of the Thursday Afternoon Club at the home of Mrs. Roy T. Bishop on Jackson street. Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Wilson D. McNary being hostesses. The musical part of the program consisted of a piano solo, Debussy's "Moonlight" by Mrs. Frank E. Boylen and vocal solos by Mrs. Carl Power. A paper on Maternity was explained by Mrs. Benjamin S. Burroughs. Miss Olive Gwinn gave a reading from the "Blue Bird." A social hour and refreshments followed the program.

scores of minor industries, originated chiefly in Germany." After discussing the artificial dye situation at some length he predicted that 1917 will see the bulk of colorants used in our divers industries, made in our own factories from American raw materials. For our annual supply of potash, which costs $17,000,000, we have as a source of raw supply the help of the Pacific coast, the feldspar of Utah and the brine of our western lakes.

"Of still greater importance for agriculture, for the arts and notably for military preparedness," he continues, "is the factor of nitrogen. We send abroad annually $20,000,000 for nitrogenous materials, $17,000,000 going to Chile. Civilized life is unthinkable, national defense against invasion impossible without an adequate supply of nitrogen in a combined form. The complete conquest of the invisible medium in which we live and breathe into the handmaid of a modern industry, is the grand problem now confronting our nation's chemists."

COOPERATIVE PLAN PROVES SUCCESSFUL IN EXTENSION WORK

ARRANGEMENT WITH DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE SHOWS RESULTS.

Duplication of Effort Is Prevented in Educational System of the Oregon Agricultural College; Outline of Work Is Given by Director R. D. Hetzel.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, March 24.—The cooperative arrangement with the U. S. department of agriculture by which all extension work in Oregon is administered through the extension service, has gone far to eliminate duplication of effort and has brought about a more economical and effective working plan and a more sympathetic understanding between the department of agriculture and the college officials," says Director R. D. Hetzel in discussing college-extension work. "The funds used in this cooperative work supplied by the department of agriculture were distributed so as to aid in support of several lines of work as follows:

"Teaching and distributing publications; movable schools and farmers' courses, including farmers' and home-makers' work; boys' and girls' club work; lectures, field demonstrations and personal advisory work; salaries, postage, stationery and small printing, labor, telegraph, telephone, freight and express, supplies, tools, machinery, and appliances; scientific apparatus, and traveling expenses.

"Extension work in Oregon has become firmly established. Its service is called for by a large part of the farming population of the state, and some of the officers of the strongest farm organizations have expressed themselves in favor of this work."

College Extension Farmers' cooperative agreement with the U. S. department of agriculture helps Oregon farmers.

WONDERFUL TALE OF AN ACTRESS

Struggled with Sickness and Discouragement; How Relieved.

Dayville, Killingly, Conn.—"I shall be glad to have every woman know what I know now, after using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Although I am only 24 years old, I have suffered for the past eight years. I hated the doctors, for a doctor told me to give up the stage where I was playing with my husband.

I had bearing down pains, my health failed me, and I could not work on the stage, and wasn't able to tend my baby or even get around myself. I was always downhearted and discontented with the world, and only lived for the sake of my little girl. The doctor said to move to some quiet little town away from the noisy city, and I might be able to live and feel well, so I went to Dayville in November. At that time I was so sick I could not walk around, and my husband kept house and I stayed in bed. One day in January I read your advertisement in a newspaper, and I sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and started taking it. Within two weeks time I was a different woman, could get around, and felt so good that it was a pleasure to do my housework. I felt contented and happy, and now am the picture of health, and am tempted to return to the stage. We appreciate my health as the most precious thing on earth."—Mrs. H. L. KLEWERT, Box 85, Killingly, Conn.

Cottolene

"The Natural Shortening"

Foods cooked with Cottolene come to the table with their natural goodness improved with a better flavor. Biscuits shortened with it delight by their taste, their lightness, their whiteness and their wholesomeness. Pie crust shortened with Cottolene has that flaky goodness which perfects the whole pie. All foods fried in it are better-tasting and digestible because Cottolene does not soak into them. There is no substitute for Cottolene—nothing "just as good." Try Cottolene—try it in your biscuits, for example, then in your other cooking. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply. It is packed in pails of various sizes.
