The Weakly Bulldogger

MONDAY, APRIL 3, 1916.

For What We Have Let Us Be Thankful.

Sam Thompson is still walking with a cane as a result of a recent illness but nobody ever hears him whine about his affliction. He looks upon the silver lining of the cloud. For instance he was in Portland not long ago and went to the Orpheum theater. In a little bit a chorus of plump ballet girls attired in pink stockings and wonderful smiles came skipping airily on to the stage. Sam sat up with a jerk. "Thank God," he said, "it is my leg and not my lungs that's on the bum."

Or Maybe a Ping Pong.

A. V. Wells, the Bushong man, is up from Portland—East Oregonian. Funny, we thought he was a Hop Sing.

W. W. W. W. W. W.

W. W. Wasser, young banker of Milton, was here last week. If we were he we would move just over the Washington line into Walla Walla and thereby add three more W's to our address.

A Reel Joke.

"It's been lawful to catch fish of a certain size all winter," said Sam Paine yesterday, "but the reel season didn't open until Saturday."

A Natural Doubt.

Jack Horton is a forest ranger and he comes to town only once in a while. Therefore, he gets a little out of touch with the world. Last week he came down from the mountains and stopped at the La Dow home. He overheard Mrs. La Dow discussing a little party she was to have in the evening. She mentioned something about having "shrimp wiggle" and Horton inquired whether that was something to eat or a new dance.

Too Much Money.

They say that Carl Cooley rode 48 miles and paid five dollars for a few hours' sleep in the Keylor Grand theater in Walla Walla the other night. We know that it is easier to sleep in Walla Walla but we believe in keeping the money at home.

The Sins of the Unregistered.

Harry Dycbe hung up a new bicycle record between Main street and the court house last week. Fear of prison bars is a great accelerator. Harry had been signing candidates' petitions and hadn't taken the time off to get registered. Someone whispered the word to Deputy Sheriff Jim Estes, Jim, who is the residuary legatee of Jolo the Jobber, called up Harry, told him that complaint had been made against him and advised him to appear at the court house. Harry rushed from his store, borrowed a bicycle and two minutes after Estes had hung up the pone, Harry appeared, puffing and steaming, before the registration clerk. And he had to pay fifty cents for the use of the bicycle.

Just An Offspring.

"Dr. Best Puts Rollers Under Prize Fighting at Pendleton," says a big black headline in the Freewater Times. The funny part of it is that the story appears in the midst of a bunch of political stories and one would be almost justified in inferring that the occurrence is somehow related to politics.

A Mere Matter of Names.

There is a man named Hollenghren living just below the Walters mill. A man was down that way looking for him the other day when he met a man driving a load of grain. "Par-don me," said the stranger, "but I'm looking for a man named Hollenghren. Can you tell me where I can find him?"

"Yes," said the man atop the load. "I'm Hollenghren."
"You don't understand," said the other. "I know you're hauling grain, but I'm looking for a man whose name is Hollenghren."
"And I am he," said the driver.

Stung.

Bert Jerard was in Walla Walla last week and was deliberately black-mailed. However, if it had been an honest blackmail he wouldn't have complained. He went into the Book Nook and spying a pretty maid behind the counter and trade at a standstill, he seized the opportunity to pass out a few flippant pleasantries. As he was thus engrossed, in came Art Means of Umatilla, Herb Strohm of Hermiton and Ed McCulloch of Portland, all of whom were in Walla Walla with Jerard. They asked Bert something about his wife and agreed not to repeat to her what they had seen if he would buy. When he refused they took a vote among themselves, decided unanimously that it was his treat, ordered up some drinks and walked out, leaving him to pay the bill. And the worst of it was that the girl not only collected but showed by her actions that she believed he had a wife in Pendleton.

Take Him to the Dye Shop.

"Red" Trask is proprietor of the Hotel Pendleton barber shop. The other day a man brought his little son into the shop and, speaking to the proprietor, said, "Cut his hair Red." Said Mr. Trask, "We cut hair in all shapes and fashions but we can't cut in colors."

Might Have Been Fishing for Mud Dogs.

Perhaps there is no great significance in the finding of a fishing license, bearing the name of E. E. Geiss, by the side of a giant mudhole between here and Echo yesterday. Taken, however, in connection with the tracks about the hole we believe any jury would convict the professor of casting a line in that hole. That's what comes of taking out a license on April 1.

Or Draw Straws.

Henry Taylor is president of a Umatilla County Good Roads association and so is Jack Robinson. Henry claims the right of priority and Jack claims it for his right of activity. If it were not for Mayor Best's recent edict we would suggest they settle the dispute with the gloves. Perhaps a game of checkers would suffice and meet with no official objection.

We Know the Feeling.

Smoky Nolf was among those going over to the grand opera at Walla Walla. Smoky says he would have saved time and money if he had staid home and let Gene Molitor sing him to sleep.

Nor Dollars.

Judge Marsh and Roland Oliver are beginning to complain because their names have not been in the Bulldogger for several weeks. We used to give them a good bit of advertising but found out that they didn't have the cents to appreciate it.

DR. JAMES B. ANGELL, NO-TED EDUCATOR, DEAD.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 7.—Dr. James Burrill Angell, president-emeritus of the University of Michigan, is dead here at the age of 83 years. He retired from active service as the head of the university in 1910 and for the past few years has been in poor health. For several months before his death he was almost blind. Dr. Angell was born of sturdy New that I'd never be smoke-wise until I got wise to "Tux." And now life is just one joyous pipe-dream! For "Tux" is packed so full of smiles and brightness that every luscious, long-drawn puff makes a fellow happy as a lark at sun-up.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

There are three reasons for the brisk, bracing, hustling vigor you get out of Tuxedo—(1) Choicest leaf; (2) Slow, perfect ageing; (3) "Tuxedo Process."

And it's the last that brings out the best that's in the other two!

For it's the "Tuxedo Process" that removes the final trace of harshness from the leaf and makes Tuxedo the mildest, wholesomest tobacco in the world.

Millions of dollars have been spent in vain attempts to imitate the "Tuxedo Process." But not one of the imitations has ever approached—much less equalled—the "Tuxedo Process," which was discovered by a doctor. Tuxedo never bites your tongue, irritates your throat, or bothers your nerves—as a week's trial will prove to you.

CARUSO
World Famous Tenor says:
"Tuxedo completely satisfies my tobacco taste. It is mild and has a delicious flavor. Most important of all, from a singer's standpoint, Tuxedo does not irritate my throat."

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

England parents in Scituate, R. I., on January 7, 1828. He entered Brown University at Providence, at the age of 17 and at 24 was appointed as a professor of modern languages in the school.

While pursuing his work at Brown he also wrote editorials for the Providence Journal and later became editor of the paper.

In 1866 he received a call to become president of the University of Vermont and in 1871 accepted the presidency of the University of Michigan, which then numbered slightly more than 1,000 students and 29 professors. Under his guidance the University grew to enormous proportions and now numbers more than 5,000 students and more than 400 professors.

Dreaded An Operation More Than Anything

TRIED FRUITOLA AND TRAXO AND HAS NEVER SINCE BEEN TROUBLED WITH GALL-STONES.

Mrs. Mary E. Franse, whose address is West Point, Neb., Box 411 has written to the Pinus laboratories a very strong endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In her letter Mrs. Franse says: "About ten years ago I was about to undergo an operation for gall-stones when I heard of your medicine. Dreading an operation above everything, I determined to try Fruitola and Traxo and have never been sorry I did so, as I have never been troubled with gall-stones since."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs and one dose is usually sufficient to give ample evidence of its efficiency. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering, and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient.

Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has been weakened and run down by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Pendleton they can be obtained at Tallman & Co.
