TWO CONVICTS ACCUSED OF PENITENTIARY FIRE

INCENDIARIES SAID TO HAVE BEEN THE CAUSE; PROBE TO BE MADE.

SALEM, Ore., May 31.—Evidence showing that two convicts at the Oregon penitentiary set the fire which destroyed four of the industrial buildings at the prison May 18, will be presented to the next Marion county grand jury, when it meets here in July, District Attorney Ringo announced.

That the fire which caused a loss of approximately $12,000, was an attempt to destroy the entire flax plant of the prison because of personal malice on the part of two convicts, was disclosed to prison officials, it is said, by other prisoners.

Officials would not divulge the names of the convicts accused nor their accusers. They feared if the names of the informers were known, sympathizers with the alleged guilty ones might wreak vengeance on those who had told. The district attorney would not disclose the names of the suspected convicts.

According to information available the two convicts poured oil on the flax straw in the dryer and then set fire to it. It is declared that a number of other prisoners saw the incendiary act, but for a time feared to tell because of threats that they would be killed if they told. One of the accused prisoners is said to have attempted to kill a fellow convict some time ago during an altercation. Both accused convicts also are said to have threatened to set the flax plant on fire some time ago.

It is said that the convicts who have divulged the names of the two incendiaries will be recommended for pardon.

When the emergency board met last week, it authorized the installation of fire fighting equipment in the buildings which are to be repaired.

Tuxedo Nights

by Walt Mason

When the day's work's done, and the good old sun has sunk in the well known West, then I stretch my form by the fireside warm, I sit at my ease and rest. Then I take my pipe which is mildly ripe, as the pipes of good smokers are, with a chortling soul then I fill its bowl from my glass Tuxedo jar. And I smoke at ease, and my trouble flees to the place where dead troubles go; and my worries seem, in my waking dream no longer to have a show. And I say, "Indeed, it's a noble weed that drives all the ghosts away, and clamps the lid on the cares that skid around through the busy day. The worries and woes and such things as those in the daytime leave their scar, but there's rest at night and a calm delight in my glass Tuxedo jar."

Baker's Output is Large. BAKER, Ore., May 31.—A grand total of $9,947,950 was the value of Baker county products for the past year, according to a compilation just completed by Walter E. Meacham, secretary of the Commercial club. Cattle show the highest values, totaling $2,000,000; with minerals next, valued at $1,800,000, and lumber third, valued at $1,200,000. Thirty items were included in the report which was formulated to show the diversification of paying industries in the county.

MEN FLOCK TO BAKER HOPING TO GET WORK

BAKER, Ore., May 31.—Baker is being overrun with men searching for work, in some way, the word having gone out that this was the best place in the northwest for the jobless. As a result hundreds of laboring men have arrived here for the past week or ten days, only to be disappointed. There is much building going on here, and local contractors have been advertising for carpenters and masons and many will be employed when construction starts on the new high school, Kleinschmidt warehouse and other buildings, but the skilled labor required for construction work is not represented by those now coming into the city. The chief of police is posting notices about the city in public places, advising laborers who stop in hope of securing work that it is practically useless.
