Burgess Some Prophet.

In the light of the developments in Chicago this morning, J. N. Burgess of this city, who is one of the Oregon delegates, stands pretty high as a prophet. On the opening day of the convention he wired to Chairman Frank Carl that Hughes would be nominated Saturday on the third ballot and the action this morning fulfilled his prediction.

Clarence Pierce at Summit.

Clarence Pierce of this city writes from Summit that everything points to great activity in the mining industry there this summer as many old properties are opening up. O. E. ### Spierman Has a Chance.

The condition of George Spierman, the colored cowboy shot Thursday by C. E. Runyan, is such today that his physicians express a hope that he will recover. He has a rugged constitution and his vitality is holding out well. He is making a strong fight and declares he will not die, and, unless complications set in, he may successfully pass the crisis.

Averill Given Assistant.

E. F. Averill, district inspector for the United States biological survey, this morning received word from A. K. Fisher, in charge of economic investigations, that he had been given an assistant in the person of Stanley C. Jewett of Portland. The news is most pleasing to Mr. Averill as Mr. Jewett is generally recognized as perhaps the best authority living on birds and animals of the northwest. For some time past he has been making a biological survey of the state for the fish and game commission and prior to that was a collector for the scientific department of the U. S. biological survey. His title will be predatory animal inspector and Pendleton will be his headquarters. Mr. Averill has just returned from a three weeks trip into western and southern Oregon where he established hunters on the Santiam, Cascade, Umpqua, Crater Lake and Siskiyou national forests.

AMERICANIZATION IN CALIFORNIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Below is a copy of a letter sent out by State Superintendent Hyatt to the school superintendents of California, under date of May 5, 1916. The California State Education Department is thus the second to attack the problem of the education of the foreign born from the state-point of view.

"Please let me call your particular attention to a phase of public education that has not engaged much of our attention heretofore, but that is surely going to demand it in the near future—that is, the education and the Americanization of the adult foreigner.

"Among thoughtful people and among lawmakers is growing up the conviction that the presence of the illiterate foreigner is a danger and a menace to us and to our institutions. Under present conditions he may be among us twenty years or more, knowing nothing of our language, open to none of the influences that tend to good citizenship. He can be guided and moved by the intriguer and the boss of his own nationality, but can not be touched by Uncle Sam. Thus, in time of stress or danger, he may become dangerous and threatening in the extreme to the very life of the republic.

"It is coming about that the burden of teaching and Americanizing the foreigner is to be laid upon the educational forces of the commonwealth. That means US.

"The commission of Immigration and Housing has been created. This body can investigate and plan and recommend—but it is the school people who must teach. There are 75,000 illiterates reported in California. There are over half a million foreign born residents. These classes are becoming so large, as compared with our school population, that the state is taking cognizance of the matter and is moving toward assuming responsibility.

"At present, the most definite way to reach our adult foreigners is through the night schools. The machinery for organizing night schools is at and in every district. Any school may establish a night school by action of its own board of trustees. It must provide for housing and maintaining the night school itself, as it will get no additional public money until its additional attendance gives it additional apportionment during the following year. Free textbooks are furnished by the state, however.
