LONDON, July 21.—Haig reported that the British drove the Germans from the Fournieux woods north of Lonnueval. The report indicated that the Germans counter attacked last night following a new British advance. They temporarily occupied portions of the woods.

PARIS, July 21.—It was announced that the French heavily repulsed German counter attacks against the positions won yesterday. The Germans disorderly retreated. French bayonets routed a German patrol attempting to penetrate lines in the Chaulnes region.

An official statement indicated that the heaviest fighting is in the sector where the French aimed yesterday on a ten mile front. Between Soissons and Bapaume, French patrols entered German territory and ousted the Germans from their defenses. There are heavy artillery duels at Chantcourt. Heavy fighting is going on in the Vesnes where the Germans are violently shelling the French. North of Wiesenbach the French counter attacked, shattering the German attacks.

Recruiting Officer Here is Anxious to Get Enlistments for Duty on Mexican Border

"We want some eastern Oregon men on the border. This section of the state should be represented. As matters now stand there is not a single solitary man from eastern Oregon with the troops in Texas."

Captain Lee M. Clark, recruiting officer for the Oregon national guard, spoke the foregoing this morning shortly after his arrival in the city. The Commercial association rooms have been turned over as a recruiting station and Captain Clark, assisted by Sergeant Harley K. Wickham will be in charge to receive those who desire to join. Captain Clark will recruit for the Third Infantry, Battery A, field artillery, and Troop A, cavalry.

There are a large number of young men wanted but they must be unencumbered. No married man will be considered and no single man who has a mother or others depending upon him for support. Captain Clark made this plain this morning in discussing the situation.

"We want young men, who can go foot-free," he declared. "They will be given the best of care and attention and the least that will be paid them is $15 a month and everything found. Those who show marked aptitude in their duties will receive as high as $45 a month. They will get plenty of good, wholesome food, have excellent training and will lose no time in being sent to the border to fill the gaps that are being made by the dismissal of married men and those who have relatives depending upon them.

"The boys who are accepted in Pendleton will be sent at once to the concentration camp at Chackama, where they will undergo a physical examination, be outfitted and start in on drill. The boys will drill two hours a day, one in the morning and one in the evening. They will have regular guard duty and otherwise be trained in the soldier's life.

The preliminary training will not last very long as the officials at the concentration camp have orders to rush the men to the border as soon as possible. So any one going from here can be assured or getting into the activity of real army life on the Mexican line. The boys who are already in Texas are right up on the front boundary and are expected to remain there for several weeks yet. Uncle Sam is anxious to fill up the ranks so all recruits need have no fear of having to stay in concentration camps far from the scene of activity.

Captain Clark says that young men with mechanical ability will be doubly welcomed. The more a young man knows about automobiles, motor cycles or other gasoline-driven vehicles, the more valuable will he be as a soldier.

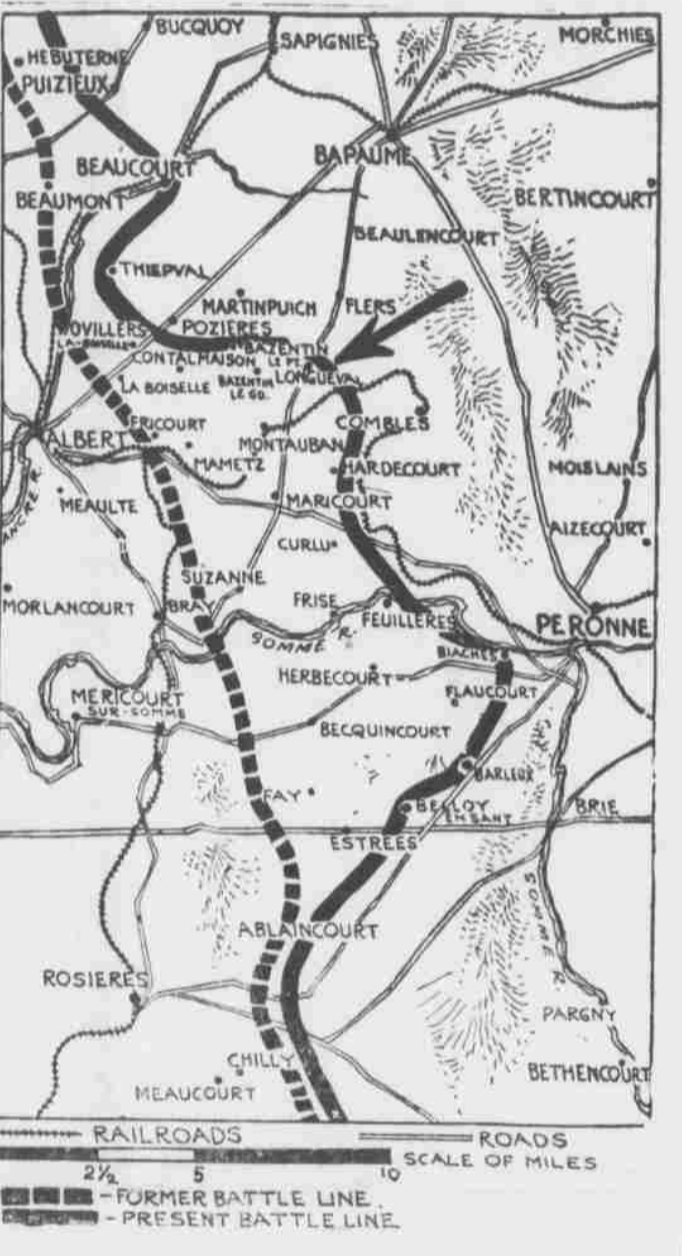

Captain Clark thinks that Pendleton, La Grande, Baker and other eastern towns should provide a large number of recruits.

"You boys in Pendleton will have a chance to boost your town and the Round-Up," the captain said. "You will be enabled to go in squads and remain together as the government has no intention of separating men who go from one district if such a thing can be avoided. All Pendleton boys will be together in one company and will have a fine opportunity of spreading news of their city and the great annual outdoor show. With a good bunch of Pendleton boys on the border, they could hold a Round-Up that would make the other fellows take notice.

"Besides good clothes, food and quarters, the boys enlisting will be given a chance to see some of the country. This is an opportunity they may never have again. The railroads will furnish excellent cars in which to travel and there will be no hardships on the trip."

Captain Clark will be in the city all tomorrow evening so today and tomorrow are the only times recruits can enlist. While he anticipates there will be a general response, he declares that the more men who volunteer for service the better, and can take care of any number.

Portland School Official is Booster for Normal Measure

O. M. Plummer, member of the Portland school board and secretary-treasurer of the Portland Union Stockyards Co., has come forward as a worker for the Pendleton normal school measure. In the following letter to the secretary of the Commercial Club, Mr. Plummer points out reasons that make him an earnest champion of the move.

upon the country children, securing there the experience which they should have had at a good normal school.

I think one of the biggest things which could be done for rural education in the state of Oregon at the present time, would be the addition of another strong normal school, having a standing equal to that of the present one at Monmouth and when this new school shall have been established and in good running order it will not be too soon to establish another one. In fact it looks as if there should be one normal school for every quarter of a million population in the state.

Normal School Bill Popular in Portland

That the initiative measure for the Pendleton normal school will carry is the belief of T. C. Taylor, who is up from Portland on a business trip.

Four Sons Pallbearers

ALBANY, Ore., July 21.—With her four sons acting as pallbearers, the funeral of Mrs. Toetje Ohling, honored pioneer resident of Linn county, was held at the United Presbyterian church.

Normal School Bill Success is Assured

"I am judging by what I hear on the streets and in the homes of Portland," says Mr. Taylor. "Almost every one who talks of the subject is friendly to Pendleton and where they have given any thought to the matter they are convinced that a normal school is needed in eastern Oregon and that the logical place for it is in Pendleton. They are convinced that Pendleton has the proper accommodations for the school and that it will be successful if located here."
