COAST ARTILLERY IS IN CAMP AT STEVENS

FORT STEVENS, Ore., July 20.—The coast artillery corps, O. N. G. arrived at Fort Stevens in a heavy Oregon mist Sunday night and immediately eight companies began their two weeks' practical training in camp.

Much action is seen about the beautiful old fort guarding the mouth of the Columbia river.

More than 100 men and officers came to camp on the special train. On account of troops taking tents and equipment to the border from the fort, it was a puzzle for the commanding officer to place all these companies. Seventh and Eighth companies are quartered in the Ninth third barracks. First, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth are in tents at Battery Plat, while the Second and Third are in tents near the barracks. In spite of the rainy weather the work has been enthusiastically engaged in as if the sun smiled brightly from the blue sky on the brave soldier lads. The encampment will continue for two weeks. The regular training course, in addition to infantry drill, will consist of a thorough instruction in all gun practices.

GERMANY IS RESUMING SUBMARINE WARFARE

LONDON, July 20.—That Germany is determined to resume her submarine war on the allies shipping and in fact, has already done so, is indicated by reports reaching here of the sinking of three British vessels by torpedoes.

The three, The crews of all three were rescued and landed. The Exchange Telegram company announces that the sinking of the Bute and Ben Aden, while Lloyd sends out a dispatch stating that the recorder has been sent down. In no case is the locality of the attack made public.

ENTOMBED MEN SAVED AFTER HOURS IN MINE

WERNE CITY, Mo., July 19.—Rescuers today saved four miners who were entombed without food and water in the Babcock mine for 56 hours. Two thousand spectators watched the rescuers digging in 15-minute shifts. The victims' shouts were faintly heard. For three hours before reaching the victims the rescuers drilled a hole into the subterranean chamber, admitting air. The miners walked out. They said the fear of death had scopped their hunger pangs and they lost all sense of time.

Ecclesi is Torpedoed

ANGIERS, Algeria, July 20.—News of the torpedoing of the British steamship Ecclesi, registering 2714 tons, by a Teuton submarine in the Mediterranean sea, was received here. The captain and 18 members of his crew are known to have been rescued. Another boatload of sailors is reported to have been saved. The Ecclesi was built in 1914.

PRACTICAL CURE

"Why have you pitched that tent in your back yard?"
"Well, I have a large family and I'm persuading them to take turns sleeping out there. By the time I get through nobody will want to go camping this summer."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Oliver P. Martin and children, Gertrude and Patricia, left yesterday for their home in Los Angeles after visiting here for several weeks at the home of Major and Mrs. Lee McPherson.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Robinson, Mrs. Henry Dixon Jones, Miss Belle Tall and Harold Smith left yesterday in an automobile for a trip to Spokane. They will return early next week.

Mary Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark, went to Vancouver, Wash. today to visit with her grandparents.

Sheriff T. D. Taylor went to the south end of the county today on civil business.

T. C. Taylor, former well known Pendleton man, now a resident of Portland, is in town on business.

Library News

The following new books are now on the shelves at the public library:
Adams—Women at The Hague. A sober, reserved account of the purpose of the congress and its results. Emily G. Bach records her impressions on the journey and at the northern capitals and discusses "The time for making peace." Alice Hamilton tells her experience at the war capitals. Jane Adams gives the information which came to her concerning the revolt against war, and discusses Factors in continuing the war and Women and internationalism.

Bozwick—Making of an American's Error. The public library has sometimes been accused of contributing to the decline of the private ownership of books. Dr. Bozwick does not believe that private ownership has declined and shows how the public library, by fostering the reading habit on a large scale, encourages individual book buying. The five essays in the volume, reprinted from the Bookman, are: Books are doom-mates; The art of browsing; A literary laboratory; The boy and the book; Recreative bibliography.

Cross—American country girl. "Just what is the everyday life of a girl on the farm?" is she happy? Why this exodus to the city? What is being done and what remains to be done about it? The writer attempts to answer these questions, partly from the testimony of the girls themselves. There are many sane and helpful suggestions on health and dress, labor saving devices, agricultural, sanitary and other practical advice designed to make life in the farm home easier and more attractive.

Curis—Practical conduct of play. "Intended as a handbook for those who are preparing themselves for playground positions and a practical manual for all who have to do with the organization of play."

DeKane—Moral obligation to be intelligent. "Four essays, the first of which gives the name to the volume, all however on the same theme—the moral use to which intelligence might be put, in rendering our admirations and our loyalties at once more sensible and more noble."

Hall—Writing an advertisement. "Concentrates on a little phase of advertising, the actual composition of the advertisement as it concerns an advertiser, with due attention to the general principles of success in advertising. The style is informal and interesting; the writer gives examples from his personal experience as an advertising expert."

Hawkes—Hitting the dark trail. "Story of the blind naturalist's life, frank and modest told. The first part in which he recounts his luckless experiences as a boy—first the loss of a leg and after the loss of his sight through a hunting accident—is painful reading, becoming more cheerful as the story proceeds. The whole is an inspiring record of patience, perseverance, and pluck." His accounts of his methods of getting acquainted with wild life and of writing still instruct nature lovers.

Ladd—What ought I to do? "The answer to the ever recurring inquiry 'What ought I to do?' is in the last analysis the same for every man. To reflect, to weigh evidence, to purify the mind and heart, to let in the light through glass washed clean, and to submit the whole man to the dominion of what is highest and best—this is the answer. He who does this courageously, loyally and persistently will soon find the problems of his life solved and his being harmonized with the supreme purpose of the universe."

Phillips—Robert Browning; how to know him. "This appreciative study by a teacher and devoted admirer of Browning's poetry, is an attempt to communicate some of the author's own enthusiasm to the young student or general reader who needs an introductory study. He sketches Browning's life and individual traits, his theory of poetry, and philosophy and illustrates the whole by poems, over fifty in all, very clearly and simply interpreted."

Phillips—Beekeeping. "A good, thorough, up-to-date text book by a specialist in the U. S. agricultural department, covering all the essentials of the subject, both scientific descriptions of the bee and the management of the apiary, though the chapters on management are considered rather with the detail of different systems."

Thorpe—American fruit farm. "Not a systematic manual of fruit culture, but a series of informal talks, discursive at times but crammed with useful hints and better suited for the man who has time to appreciate their literary style than as a quick reference for the busy, intensely practical fruit grower. The chapter "Birds and the fruit farm" is a strong plea for bird protection. The author is owner of a prosperous fruit farm on the Erie shore of Pennsylvania.

ALBEE NEWS NOTES
CROPS ARE BACKWARD AND REPORTED NOT TO BE LOOKING GOOD.
(East Oregonian Special.)
ALBEE, Ore., July 18.—Owing to the late season crops are not looking very good.

Mrs. Sturm came in from Walla Walla to visit her son Chris Sturm.

Mrs. Rhinehart and son Virgil, and little granddaughter Miss Verna Brown, returned from Boise, Idaho, where she spent six weeks visiting her daughter and son-in-law, and Miss Verna visited her parents. They report a most enjoyable visit.

Gale Dick, Marston Rhinehart and Pete Dick attended the dance at Eliah Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. McLeod came in to

FRECKLES
Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.
