

The Housekeeper's Story

Here are the extra words of an experienced housekeeper:—"The goods I buy continually are those that are advertised widely and attractively in my favorite newspaper. I want no better guarantee than 'continued advertising.' When I see goods persistently advertised in a reliable newspaper I am certain that they are reliable—for I know that a firm is not going to spend large sums advertising a product unless the product has merit."

The statement proves that it is mighty poor policy for merchants to attempt to sell to good customers any unknown, non-advertised goods which are guaranteed neither by the merchant nor by the manufacturer.

POTATO MARKET IS STRONG; PRICES FIRM

PORTLAND, Ore., July 22.—(K) Potato strength is showing in the market for potatoes here. Sales along Front street are reported generally at $1.15 for good stock. There is an extreme scarcity of good sizes and for these a strong demand is ruling with a premium paid by wholesalers and asked for retailers.

Ordinary stock is finding a demand from wholesalers at $1.50 a cental net to the farmer and $1.60 has been paid for this class of stuff for loads brought into the city.

Much difficulty is being experienced by the trade in getting farmers to fill their sacks. The price paid for potatoes is on the basis of 100 pounds. The law provides that a sack of potatoes should weigh at least that amount, but considerable stuff received here of late has not weighed above 85 to 90 pounds per sack. As wholesalers are compelled to sell by the 100 pounds they desire that farmers put more stock in the sacks before bringing to the city.
