INCREASED COST OF PAPER INVESTIGATED

NEWSPAPER REPRESENTATIVES MEET WITH FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION FOR DISCUSSION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Newspaper publishers and representatives of newspaper associations in all parts of the United States, met with the federal trade commission to discuss the increased print paper prices. The commission arranged the open hearings to ascertain publishers' ideas regarding the increased prices and to show publishers the commission's information concerning the high cost. For the last two months the commission had as employees fifteen accountants in all paper manufacturing plants to determine why paper was suddenly higher. It already determined the paper demand showed tremendous increases. The commission expects a complete report. It will formally report on October first. Hundreds of editors wrote the commission suggesting a means of effecting a cost reduction. Many big newspapers increased the price of street conditions to meet the new conditions.
