

HELEN HOLMES STARS IN GRIPPING RAILROAD DRAMA

Famous Emotional Actress Renders Powerful Portrayal in "Medicine Bend," Sequel to "Whispering

General Manager Hicks arrives in Medicine Bend to investigate the footing of wrecked cars on Superintendent McCloud's division. Whispering live on Number Ten train Thursday morning on the Medicine Bend division. He and Sinclair plan to get their hands together, hold up the train, and then leave the country.

They succeed in getting the money at the hold-up, but not before the express messenger has recognized Murray Sinclair. Word reaches Med-

Smith, the company's detective, finds out that Murray led the gang knows that Murray Sinclair is the leader of the thieves, but because of his love for Marion Sinclair's wife, Smith does not disclose this fact to the railroad officials.

McCloud refuse to place Sinclair back at his position of manager of the wrecking crew. The latter is enraged and decides to "get" McCloud. He instructs his accomplice, Du Sang, to shoot the superintendent. The plan is foiled, due to the intervention of Tom Wickwire, a local follower of Smith's, who overheard the plan.

Du Sang has already learned that a shipment of $45,000 is due to ar-engaging scenes employed for their entertainment.

Harry D. Carey impersonates a western cutthroat who has fallen heir to millions on consideration that he live for one year in New York and manage the estate. William Quinn enacts the role of the cousin who shall inherit the money in the event the cowboy does not fulfill the terms of the will. Olive Fuller Golden is called in as the medium expected to turn the trick if the cowboy shall fall in love with her, she shall design to lead him on and then reject him.

It is the purpose of the plotter that the cutthroat shall be made to purchase New York and flee to the prairie wilds, thus leaving the millions behind him. There have been more intricate plots, but this simple story forms the medium of one of the best photoplay entertainments ever presented on the screen. To make sure that he will not be lonely, the cowboy takes the whole bunch of his fellow cutthroats along with him to New York and the antics of the westerners turned loose in New York society provides a fine element of comedy that never descends to burlesque or buffoonery but is presented in a natural manner with splendid effect.

The company supporting Mr. Carey and Miss Golden is made up of genuine westerners reared in the saddle and born to the work of cattle herding on the prairies. Other firms might think it expedient to make cowboys out of actors, but Bluebird Photoplays has decided to make actors out of cowboys and the outcome is a natural and logical portrayal of western types with correctness and with the best possible result.

Triangle has given W. S. Hart the youngest leading woman he has ever had, in the person of Ruby Adams, aged three, who appears with him in his new play of Kentucky feudists, "The Apostle of Vengeance."

Marvel Stoddard, 14-year-old actress of the Triangle-Ince forces, is dropped 20 feet from a bridge into a rushing torrent, in the new W. S. Hart play, "The Apostle of Vengeance."

For the first time since he starred in "The Disciple," Wm. S. Hart is seen as a preacher in the new Triangle feature, "The Apostle of Vengeance."

Producer Thos. H. Ince had a "moonshining" outfit shipped from Kentucky to California, for the new W. S. Hart Triangle play, "The Apostle of Vengeance," by Monte M. Katterjohn. One day while the Triangle-Ince players were making some interior, a regular cloudburst came up, Hart, who was directing, had all his people do a quick change of clothing and make outdoor scenes in the downpour.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Keefe formerly residents of Pendleton but now of Astoria, are showering them with congratulations upon the birth of a small daughter who arrived this week.

Miss Lola Swagart of this city, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wheeler, who is enjoying a delightful summer at Eccla, Cannon Beach, has written a pretty description of that resort in which she says:

"Mother Nature is an incomparable artist as everyone knows, but it seems as if she has done her most beautiful work in and around Cannon Beach. The trip from Seaside to Cannon Beach is a most enjoyable one and as you wind around the many beautiful curves, including Hairpin and Horsehoe, you are thrilled to the fullest extent. After reaching Cannon Beach (which is a ride of perhaps nine miles you reach the artistic Cannon Beach Hotel). By a ten minute walk you are at Kramer Point, which is known by every one who has visited Cannon Beach for its beautiful old trees and slightly points. In the midst of this beauty stands the Wheeler cottage, 'Thistle-down,' from which you can see the ocean in all its glory, the Tillamook lighthouse in the distance and the passing ships, including the Marblehead, battleship Oregon and many other noted ones."

Miss Olive Mortimer, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. W. J. Stockman here for the past few weeks went to Portland yesterday. From Portland, Miss Mortimer will go to Methoff, Wash., where she will teach this fall.

Mrs. W. S. McCauley of Kansas, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stockman, will leave tonight for Spokane to visit. She will stop at Lovell, Wyoming, before returning to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stockman, Miss Olive Mortimer of Portland, and Mrs. W. S. McCauley of Kansas, motored to Walla Walla yesterday to pass the day. They were accompanied home by Miss Mabel Stockman who visited here a few days. Miss Stockman is a granddaughter of W. J. Stockman.

Mrs. R. B. Snyder is entertaining the "Inquiring Twelve" Club this afternoon at her home at 506 E. Alta street. Mrs. Raymond Hatch and Mrs. Charles Heard are contributing to the afternoon's enjoyment by vocal and instrumental solos.
