The Weakly Bulldogger

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1916.

Hall!
They are having rain and rain down at Astoria. Jupiter Plovius is furnishing the one and Queen Muriel the other. Which reminds us that someone has suggested that it was very appropriate to choose a Saling for the queen of a water festival.

Preparing Their Trousseau.
We suspect that Jim Bowler and Max Hopper are starting a hope chest. Each purchased an embroidered dolly from a lady agent the other day.

His Downfall.
Adolph Schaefer says that sometimes upon the most trivial things rest grave responsibility. He knows whereof he speaks but he doesn't know that we know it. To prove that we do, we're going to tell it. Adolph was moving his household goods from one house to another last week, and was walking up Water street with both hands full of his belongings. Suddenly his belt buckle, a very trivial thing indeed, gave way. With both hands occupied, he could not avert the calamity. His trousers, not being the kind that stand up by themselves, suddenly dropped around his feet, and their owner's appearance at once changed from that of a substantial householder to a parody on September Morn.

Typically Rooseveltian.
Clint Roosevelt denies having made the statement credited to him in the last issue of the Bulldogger. That seems to be a characteristic of the Roosevelts.

Very Punny.
We note that the footings for the new Happy Canyon grandstand have been poured, which to us is concrete evidence of a solid foundation for the institution.

What a Man Will Do For Money.
Elmer Turner says he knows the full measure of shame a man will endure for the sake of a breadticket. Elmer's ancestors came from over the Rhine and he works for Mickey Downey whose forbears sprang from Ernie's sod. Frank recently purchased a big auto truck and put Turner on as driver. And he painted it a brilliant green, which color right now to a German is about as popular as red is with an angry bull. "My job means porkpots for my family," says Turner in explaining why he submits to the ignominy.

Making The Goat The Butt of a Joke.
The Round-Up yesterday received 18 goats from California. Clive Chesbire says he knows several people around here whose goats they could have got at less expense.

Old Crow. For Instance.
Speaking of those Round-Up goats, Marshall Spell says they are not the only things that kick that come from California.

In The Silly Night.
The peculiar sound that a bottle makes when it strikes against something hard is an electrifying noise these dry days. In proof of which we submit the following evidence. Time 2:30 a. m. last Saturday morning. Scene, in front of the Round-Up ticket wagon where some two-score men were trying to sleep in improvised beds while waiting for the ticket sale to open.

One of the number, reclining in an auto, had fortified himself against the lunk vigils by bringing a few bottles of real beer. We won't mention his name out of respect to his family. He had emptied one bottle and set it on the running board from which position it tumbled off from some cause or other. All had been quiet and peaceful in the cots and cars for more than two hours. The sound of the bottle striking the pavement was like a dinner bell to a harvest gang. Instantly some 20 men sat up in bed and rubbed their eyes. "Did I hear a noise?" said Bert Wilson. "If I didn't hear the tinkle of glass, may I never get a Round-Up seat," said Bob Johns. An investigation resulted, and when a full bottle was found it had no more chance than a grasshopper that strays into a chicken yard.

Agnes Is Fair Enough.
Agnes Fair, champion lady soapbox orator of the U. S., blew into our sanctum yesterday en route to the Pendleton Round-Up. Agnes is one of the wealthiest women in the world, because she has everything she wants, when she wants it and as long as she wants it. She goes where she pleases and stays as long as she likes and Agnes has the whole big round world all for her own and intends to leave it to all mankind when she dies.—Saturday Ev'g'n Alibi.

Attention, Swains!
Wanted—A number of Pendleton bachelors to act as cavaliers for car of Portland debutantes coming to the Round-Up. Apply to Dan Smythe or Roy Ritter. (This adv. is not yet paid for).

National Calamity Averted.
The strike having been called off, Pendleton will be spared the spectacle of Tom O'Brien in a brakeman's uniform.

It's Labor Day for the Washwomen. Alright.
Today is Labor Day, which is the only excuse we have for working.

Salute the Admiral.
John M. Bentley was made an honorary admiral of the Astoria Regatta. The distinction is a deserved one, says Billy Chamberlain, because John always did believe that water was made to sail boats on.

Constipation the Father of Many Ills
Of the numerous ills that affect humanity a large share start with constipation. Keep your bowels regular and they may be avoided. When a laxative is needed take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Leaves for University.
Charles Johns, popular University of Oregon student, who has been working in the Umatilla county wheat fields, left last night for Eugene. He will be a candidate for the University of Oregon football team this year.

His first love and his first shave, are two episodes in every young man's career that he never forgets.

ROUND-UP BUCKERS BROUGHT IN TRYOUTS START IMMEDIATELY COWBOYS WORRIED OVER GOATS

Looking fat and sleek after eating their heads off in summer pasture, the Round-Up bucking horses were brought into Pendleton today by Livestock Director Sam R. Thompson. At the very sight of man these vicious animals, who in less than three weeks will be making amusements for those sands of Round-Up visitors, are said to have started in to go through the various characteristic steps which have caused the downfall of many a cowboy.
Tryouts will start immediately at Round-Up Park and will be held each afternoon from now on. In order to give the hardest buckers a good chance to rest up and be at their best for the show they will be tried out early.
A large crowd visited Round-Up grounds yesterday to see the new Round-Up steers and the roping goats. The steers are said to be the finest lot of roping steers ever seen in this section and the steer roping event should be a world beater.
"I don't see how in thunder," said a well known cowboy yesterday, "a man is going to rope those goats," as he surveyed the 24 little white Angoras at the pens. Their little horns stick straight out and the man who ropes and coppers a goat is going to sure win his money.

TRACTION ENGINE GOES IN DITCH AUTOISTS MAY PARK ON SCHOOL GROUNDS

Echo Man's Harvest Is Delayed By Accident—Big Load of Gasoline Brought In.
(East Oregonian Special.)
ECHO, Sept. 4.—C. P. Adams of this place, who has been running a threshing outfit with his traction engine, met with an accident which will delay his work. On Saturday when two miles out of Pendleton on his way toward Echo, a bridge gave way beneath his engine, precipitating it into the ditch, the separator also being dragged in on top of the engine. Manuel Todhunter returned here Saturday evening from Pendleton with 17 fifty-gallon tanks of gasoline. He bought the gasoline for R. R. Lewis & Co. who could not get it by railroad transportation last week on account of the threatened trainmen's strike. Mr. Todhunter used eight horses and two wagons, taking the greater part of two days for the trip. The Misses Eva Dunning and Mary Conley and Messrs. Ansel Lundberg and Neal Rock, all of Stanfield, spent Friday evening in Echo visiting the Misses Eugene and Esther Scholl.
O. D. Teel was a week-end visitor in Pendleton.
The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church gave a lawn social at the home of Mrs. J. H. Koonitz. Ice cream and cake watermelons and canteloupes were served. The affair was successful, both financially and socially. A large crowd was present.
Mrs. A. Maline of Portland and Mrs. Frank Correa of this place, spent Saturday in Pendleton. Mrs. Maline is a house guest of Mrs. Correa.
Miss Eugene Scholl returned to the Dalles hospital where she is taking training Saturday morning after a two weeks' visit with her parents and sister.
Mrs. Marnie Stuart of Tacoma, Wash., who has been visiting here the past two months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hamilton, left for her home Saturday, accompanied by her mother. Mrs. Stuart is a teacher of languages in an exclusive Tacoma school. Mrs. Hamilton expects to be away for a month or more.
Ray Johnson, a former Echo school boy, arrived here yesterday morning from North Yakima, Wash., to enter school today. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson, will arrive here about the middle of this month to make Echo their home.
Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker spent Saturday in Pendleton.
Mrs. Boyd Logan and children of Cecil, Ore., returned home Saturday after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buchanan. Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Buchanan are sisters.
Miss Mable Hammon is here from Manzanola, Colorado, to spend the winter with her brother, E. W. Hammon. Miss Hammon will attend school here, being a senior.
Al Hlatt and family spent Saturday in Hermiston.
Mrs. Frank Pedro of Pendleton spent Friday in Echo visiting Mrs. Jos. Cunha.
W. H. Gillett returned home Saturday morning from Portland. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. E. P. Long.
Mrs. Hugh D. Smith, who spent the summer with her parents in Portland, has returned home.
Mrs. L. A. Esteb and sons and Mrs. U. C. Smothers returned Friday evening from a camping trip on the mountains.
L. B. Ashbaugh is home from a summer visit in the Walla Walla valley. Lawrence Mifflin returned Saturday morning from his vacation spent at Portland and the coast. He resumed work with the R. R. Lewis Co.
Hastel Mikessel and Earl Esselstyn spent Saturday in Pendleton and returned home on the motor in the evening. Clifford Esselstyn, who accompanied them to Pendleton, went on to Walla Walla for a short visit with relatives.

School Board and Council Take Steps to Accommodate Motorists to the Round-Up.
The school property of Pendleton will be turned over during Round-Up week to autoists for the parking of their cars, and the lavatory and toilet facilities of the school buildings will be open to them.
The school board, recognizing the fact that Pendleton must take steps to accommodate the hundreds of people coming to the Round-Up this year in cars, has placed the school lots at their disposal at the suggestion of the special council committee appointed to secure parking places for cars. There are four school properties and in each building will be a man and lady attendant during Round-Up week. The council will provide these attendants and also towels.
The action of the school board is a solution to a problem that has been causing a little concern to the Round-Up directorate. Besides the school blocks, Director Dean Tatom will have several other places where motorists may park their cars or camp.

Officers Wanted for Woman Suffrage
Three Most Important Chiefs Are Resigning Positions in Great National Body for Various Reasons.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—There is an upheaval in the ranks of the National Woman Suffrage association. Three of its most important officers are resigning.

Mrs. Frank M. Roessing refuses to be first vice president any longer. Miss Anna J. Patterson, corresponding secretary and "right hand man" to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, is eager to bid farewell to her office, and Mrs. James W. Morrison wants to be relieved of the duties of recording secretary.
Visions of a "dark horse" are alarming the association. There is no strong woman in sight who can take any of the places that are to be open. "I can't think of a possible candidate for these three important posts," Mrs. Catt said today.
Mrs. Frank Roessing, whose home is in Pennsylvania, has been forced to remain in Washington because of her work for the congressional committee. Miss Patterson, whose work for the cause has kept her in New York, has her home in Pittsburgh.
Mrs. Morrison resigned because of illness in her family.
Every time a man meets his wife downtown he wonders what it is going to cost him.

Attended Fruitmen's Meeting.
Arthur M. Geary, a young attorney of Portland and a former representative of the fruit auction houses of the east, was here yesterday en route home from Walla Walla where he spoke before a meeting of fruit shippers. Mr. Geary, who is a university graduate with a wide acquaintance in the state, is an enthusiastic booster for the Pendleton normal school bill.
The man who starts out to look for trouble usually ends by having it thrust upon him.

Past Performance

CAN the daily newspaper prove its worth as a national advertising message bearer by the cold figures of "past performance"? Look about and see; or, better yet, ask the manufacturer of the standard food products with which you are most familiar.

Note the fact that the only brand of chewing gum having complete national distribution is a newspaper advertised brand, and it was built up through newspapers.

See how the names of tobacco products are made known.

Observe that the two talking machines that lead the world are newspaper advertised.

And in the immediate present we see great national advertisers hitherto wedded to other mediums turning to newspapers because they find they need them.
