TRUE SERVICE Small service is true service while it lasts; Of friends, however humble, scorn not one; The daisy by the shadow that it casts Protects the ling'ring dew-drops from the sun. —William Wordsworth.

HE DID NOT TRUCKLE TO THE DOLLAR SIGN

WILSON truckled to labor, is now the favorite cry of the Tories and the Wilcox million dollar press bureau. If to grant the trainmen plain justice in the form of an eight hour day is truckling to labor the president is guilty. But it is noticeable the president did not truckle for a moment to the domineering spirit of organized capital—a far greater political factor than labor. Morgan and other financial kings were unable to dictate to Wilson. He was moved more by an appeal for human rights than by the plea of the dollar mark.

IT SOUNDS LIKE A LARGE CROWD

RESERVATIONS already made for the Round-Up together with the rapidly increasing number of people in the city point to a great crowd for the show this year. It is easily possible that all past records will be broken. Times are good, there is much tourist travel, the fame of the Round-Up is increasing, there are fewer counter attractions than in the past and fine weather is promised for the week. All these conditions look good and should spur local people to proper energy in the direction of caring for the visitors in every possible way.

MAGAZINE GIRLS AND WEATHER

THE Spokesman Review sees evidence of the approach of winter. "That the girls on the magazine covers are changing from bathing costumes to tailored suits is the surest proof of the approach of winter. During the last few years the seasons have become so sadly scrambled, what with warm winters and cold summers and drouth when there ought to be rain, that the magazine damsel is now the only reliable har-binger." The Spokane paper is right in that much can be learned from the girls on the magazine cover, but where do they get this notion about the recent "warm winter"?

WALL STREET SHOWS ITS COLORS

WALL street is showing its colors for Hughes in pronounced fashion. The brokers are betting on Hughes and after the Maine election they grew excited. As to the behavior in the street, the New York World comments: Wall street's political judgment is never very sound, but Wall street makes no mistake in its interpretation of the meaning of Mr. Hughes' election. A Hughes victory would be a victory for reaction, a victory for the trusts, a victory for high tariffs, a victory for all the great financial interests that have lost their control over the United States government since Woodrow Wilson became president. Even the possibility of such a triumph deserves the enthusiastic recognition that it received in the Capitol of Money. As the campaign progresses it becomes more and more apparent that the Hughes candidacy is the candidacy of organized property and organized wealth. Mr. Hughes' speeches are a continuous appeal to dollars—to dollars invested in railroads, to dollars invested in Mexico, to dollars invested in the former beneficiaries of monopoly tariffs, to dollars invested in munition plants, to dollars invested in great corporations, to dollars that are insatiably greedy for more and more dividends at whatever cost to the general welfare. The picture drawn by this New York paper is a truthful one. Mr. Hughes has made it plain he views problems from the standpoint of privilege, not from the viewpoint of the people. He is the candidate of riches and reaction. His own utterances show he is opposed to the forward steps President Wilson has taken. It is fair to assume Mr. Hughes if elected would take a course entirely different from that of the president. He would not disappoint Wall street as Wilson has done. Wall street brokers would not be betting against

Marie Doro In Politics

MARIE DORO, LASKY STAR IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES.

Having established a residence in California during the past year, Marie Doro, the charming Lasky star in Paramount Pictures, has been urged by her many friends in the motion picture colony to enter politics. Quite a number of efforts are being made to have her name placed on the suffrage ticket for one of the highest offices in the state. As yet Miss Doro has not given her consent.

him and striving to discredit him.

The Wall street opposition is a genuine compliment to the president, when merit is considered. But it means a large campaign fund for Hughes. It means money to buy influence and cast abuse and vilification upon the man who has been serving this country so faithfully and well. It is an outrage that should be resented by the honest voter.

Happy Canyon will be able to handle the crowds far better than in the past; so those who forced the change in location performed an unintentional service.

There are some pieces of road in the vicinity of Pendleton not overburdened with straw.

The library fighters on each side are splendid people who are making a public nuisance of themselves.

28 Years Ago Today

(From the Daily East Oregonian, Sept. 16, 1888.) H. B. Nelson of Weston was in town last night. He reports good success in the burning of his several kilns of brick. He will begin shipping material for the court house building on Monday next. The Pendleton Electric Light & Power Co., a consolidation of the two old companies of Pendleton, will make large and extensive improvements in the present system of operation. As yet no decided steps have been taken but it is understood that a new and powerful plant will probably be purchased, sufficient to operate 5 arc lights and that other acquisitions will be made. A nice little dance was held at Nolin last night which was largely attended by the young people from round about. The proceeds were $51 which will go toward buying seats for the school house at Nolin. An amusing incident is told in connection with this affair at the expense of a love-lorn awain who was present. He was on the anxious seat as to his solidity with his best girl, who was evidently of a comely disposition and was disposed to capture as many beaux as possible. Not wishing to leave her to the tender mercies of other gallants the young man sent a companion out to harness his team. The hour of departure arrived. The agent succeeded in getting the horses on the wrong side and the young man was compelled to change them back again, but he was frustrated and excited and got the harness on wrong. Then he put the horses in the wrong position again and in righting them disarranged the harness. Spectators say it was a circus to watch the young man who wanted some one to shoot him at the close of the entertainment, his girl having gone home with a rival, while he was excitedly fooling with the horses and scattering large chunks of profanity on the indigent air.
