WORLD SERIES TO BEGIN ON OCT. 7 HUGHES MOTIVE IS CHALLENGED

Boston Still Leads American League With Brooklyn Ahead in National; Winners Uncertain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The world's series will open on Saturday, October 7, according to President B. B. Johnson, of the American League, who as a member of the National Commission is today ready to begin preparations for the series.

With the race as uncertain as it is no final action has been taken yet by the National Commission, Mr. Johnson said.

"I am certain that the world's series will start on October 7," said Johnson. "The contestants might be willing to begin October 6, but I hardly think so. The American League race closes one day earlier than the Nationals, so I do not think that would be fair to the National League winner, however, so it looks as if the opening game will be played a week from next Saturday.

EVANGELIST IS CALLED BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

The Dalles, Ore., Sept. 28.—"Three-Fingered Jack," reformed gambler and saloonkeeper, who held meetings here for several weeks, ranting about graft and corruption, which he charged against the Dalles, was called before the grand jury yesterday to prove his charges. The evangelist asked a few hours to gather information. He scurried out of town, returned to the grand jury room this afternoon and reported. He presented proof as follows:

"A woman told my wife, who told me, that bootlegging is going on in The Dalles." Asked where, he said he didn't know.

The jurors gave the evangelist a severe "calling down." He has been preaching about alleged graft here, urging local ministers to cooperate with him in "cleaning up" the town. He stated that city officers knew about conditions but refused to prosecute.

City officials are incensed over the accusations. Federal Revenue Officer Smith, who made the Baker liquor raids, recently spent a week here investigating conditions. He told officials that the law is being better enforced here than in any other community in the state, adding, "I'd like to bring my family here to life."

RICHARD OLNEY ISSUES SWEEPING STATEMENT DOUBTING SINCERITY OF CANDI- DATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Richard Olney attorney general and secretary of state in the second Cleveland administration, in a signed statement made public today, issues a sweeping challenge to the sincerity of Charles E. Hughes in attacking the administration's action in averting a general railroad strike.

After setting forth the remarkable legislative achievements of the Wilson administration, Mr. Olney continues: "What is most noticeable in the disposition of the opposition to forget them altogether, to be discreetly reticent as to which of them it hopes to do away with if he gets the chance.

No Time for Necessary Legislation. "Even the new eight hour day for railroad trainmen and the prevented strike offer no exception. What the opposition campaigners object to, including republican senators and Candidate Hughes himself, is not an averted strike, but the mode of its accomplishment, to-wit: by the threat of a strike within a time too short for due consideration of necessary legislation.

"But 28 republican senators voted against it. There is no closure in the senate and a filibuster against objectionable legislation is a recognized senatorial weapon.

"Why didn't Hughes Act?" "Why did not the republican senators resort to it and get all the time for deliberation they wanted?"

"What was Candidate Hughes doing that he did not make the wires hot with messages to Washington, warning against the law the 74 republican representatives who voted for it and urging the 28 republican senators to filibuster to the last ditch?"

"But neither he nor the republican leaders generally had the nerve to face the situation. With ample means in their hands to prevent legislation until after its due consideration, they deliberately elected that it should appear to be enacted under coercion in order that, after the great national deliverance had been effected they might object to the mode of its accomplishment."

PULMOTOR KEEPS ALIVE BOY ILL OF INFANTILE PLAGUE

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—Since 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon artificial respiration has kept alive Adrian Duesberg, a noted embryologist, who came here from Liege, Belgium, after the occupation of his native country by the Germans.

Apparently at the point of death from infantile paralysis, the boy was strapped under a pulmotor, placed in an ambulance and taken to a hospital. He still is alive, but physicians say if the use of the pulmotor is discontinued he will die in five minutes.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 28.—All schools in Reno are closed by order of the city board of health, following the discovery of two cases of infantile paralysis here. Two girls, students at the Reno high school, are ill. In one case no hope for the recovery of the patient is entertained.

Here are three prominent suffragettes, photographed in Atlantic City during the convention of the American Association for Woman Suffrage, which has decided that the suffragettes need not cast a solid vote for either Mr. Hughes or Mr. Wilson. It was expected that the suffragettes would come out solidly for one or the other of the candidates.
