THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY

RIGSTAD TIRED OF TALKING SALE.

COPENHAGEN, via London, Sept. 28, 9:40 p. m.—It is asserted from the representatives of the various parties that it is believed that the question of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States will be settled without resort to a general election on the basis of the government bill which now has passed all stages and has been sent to a joint committee of both houses of parliament. From statements made to the correspondent, it is apparent that everybody in the Rigstad is tired of the question.

Some people are purseproud because they haven't anything else to be proud of.

Daily Chats With the Housewife

HOW TO BE THRIFTY.

(By Mrs. Christine Frederick.)
The wise men of the nation, I see, are spreading broadcast counsel of thrift to the American housewife. I wish that before passing on this counsel they had consulted a little with retailers and manufacturers, and then told us how, with rising prices, we could cut expenses!

"I want a galvanized pail like the 29 cent one I bought a month ago."

"Pails have gone up, ma'am. That kind costs 50 cents now."

"Am looking for a mirror to match a maple chiffonier. What price is this one?" "Four dollars, madam."

"What! $4 for that little mirror? I bought one the same size for about $2.50." "Yes, but mirrors have gone up since the war."

"Let me have two packages of these hairpins—2 for 5 cents, aren't they?"

"No, they used to be. But now they're a nickel apiece. Hairpins have gone up since the war."

A learned business man explained to me that certain commodities, such as galvanized iron, many chemicals, steel and glass were rising in price owing to the heavy demand abroad. But still my feeble feminine mind cannot grasp why that should affect the price of hairpins. What do soldiers in the trenches do with mirrors and hairpins anyway?

In a shopping tour this week there was only one salesperson out of 20 who did not remark that prices of the particular thing I wanted had gone up owing to the war. I couldn't match my yellow drapery because there was no more supply—lack of dyes, you know. The cottage armchair cost $2 more than last summer because carpenters are getting $1 more a day. Sugar, of course, is in the aeroplane class, and if we are willing to go without sweets, all the same the necessities of butter and potatoes weigh heavily upon our purse!

How can the housewife of today be thrifty? Will it be by using less and cutting down the family rations? Or by substituting? But I see that some substitutes cost more than originals! Or will it be by ceasing the house-keeping struggle and surrendering to the hotel man? No appreciable difference is made in the bills of fare in hotels and that is always a puzzle. How do the commercial houses—the hotels—manage to swing along so carefree while the same old cost of living weighs like a heavy millstone around the neck of the consumer? When all prices are high, thrift does not seem possible.

But we wait in patient suspense for the solution. You tell us to save our paper and rags—but what can we do if there is no ragman who will call to cart away what we have packed carefully into bundles? What shall we do with the old magazines when no hospitals will send for them? Or when it would cost us more to ship these waste articles than their worth even in a thrift campaign?

DAINTY FISH PASTIES.

Take one pound of any white fish, like halibut, codfish or haddock, free it of skin and bones and pound or mash it up with two tablespoonsful of butter and the same amount of bread-crumbs. When reduced to a paste add two well beaten eggs and salt and cayenne to taste. Blend thoroughly and make into little patties about half an inch thick. Dip into egg and cracker crumbs and fry a golden brown. Place between squares of paper which have been baked.

DATE PIE.

Make a rich pastry shell and bake it. Fill with the following mixture: Wash a pound of dates, beat them (after removing the stones) in a quart of milk, when soft run through a sieve of salt, and pour into the baked shell.

DID YOU MAKE MUD PIES IN THE GUTTER?

Maybe when you made mud pies you were out in the fields besides a purring brook. Maybe the birds sang overhead and the cool breezes blew. But youngsters want to make mud pies even if they cannot have the glories of the country. Here are two who had to take dirt from a nearby excavation in a busy street. They had to sit on the curb and in the street, but they were pretty nearly as happy as you when you had green fields and sunshine and breezes and the pure air of the open country.

HOMEMADE DOLLY CASE.

An attractive gift for a housewife, and one which can be made easily and quickly, even by a child, is a case for dollies and centerpieces, in which they can be smoothly laid away in the linen drawer or the sideboard. The case is made of a long piece of cretonne, chintz, or plain linen of the same or a contrasting color, and at one end a round stick should be inserted, upon which to roll the dollies. A piece of broom handle makes a good size for this purpose. A space is left at one end and as a casing for the stick which has been ends rounded off with a piece of heavy sandpaper. A piece of tape or ribbon ties around the roll when it is completed.

NUT CROQUETTES.

Make a cup of cream sauce, by blending 3 tablespoons of butter and 4 tablespoons of flour with 1 cup of milk, and add to it 1 tablespoon of chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1-4 teaspoon of pepper, 1 cup of ground or chopped nut meats, 5 tablespoons of bread crumbs and the yolks of 2 eggs. Mix thoroughly and when cold shape into croquettes, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat to a golden brown in color. Drain on paper. Serve either plain with white sauce or with a rich tomato sauce.

TOMATO MARMALADE.

Remove the skins from 4 pounds of ripe tomatoes and slice them. Slice 4 lemons very thin, being careful to remove all the seeds, and add to the tomatoes with 1-2 cup of seeded raisins. Bring slowly to the simmering point and then add 3 pounds of sugar. Let simmer until the consistency of marmalade, pour into jars and seal.

NO AMERICAN CARDINAL AT NOVEMBER CONSISTORY.

ROME, Sept. 27.—It is practically certain the Pope does not intend to appoint a new American cardinal at the November consistory. The session opens November 29. It is rumored the Pope's attention will invite the re-establishment of relations between France and the Vatican.

Rid Your Child of Worms.

Thousands of children have worms that sap their vitality and make them listless and irritable. Kickapoo Worm Killer kills and removes the worms and has a tonic effect on the system. Does your child eat spasmodically? Cry out in sleep or grind its teeth? These are symptoms of worms and you should find relief for them at once. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a pleasant remedy.
