Marriage License Issued.

A marriage license was issued Saturday to Clay McKinley Norris and Elris Cannon.

Moving Garage.

J. F. Robinson is moving the auto garage which has been back of the Judd residence to the lot back of the Domestic Laundry.

Will Build Bungalow.

F. E. Welch, proprietor of the Court street cigar store, has taken out a permit to build a $2000 five-room bungalow on River Drive.

Wilson Wins Again.

A straw vote was taken in the lobby of the Hotel Pendleton during the noon hour today and it resulted in nine votes for Wilson and seven for Hughes.

Hotel News Boosts Normal.

The last number of the Northwest Hotel News, published in Portland, advises readers to vote for the Pendleton normal bill, the advice being printed on the cover of the publication.

Hunters Get Ducks.

L. G. Frazier, Frank Hayes and John Heathman went down to Stanfield yesterday and hunted to Hickie, bagging nine ducks. R. W. Fletcher and Lee Drake spent the day near Hermiton and bagged seven.

Sinnott Here for Address.

Congressman N. J. Sinnott, who closes the Hughes campaign this evening, arrived in Pendleton this morning and is today greeting his many friends. He is stopping at the Hotel Pendleton.

Voters May Be Sworn In.

Unregistered voters may qualify to vote tomorrow to having their vote sworn in before the election judges by two freeholders. Voters registered in other counties may qualify to vote on state and national officers.

People Favor Normal.

That he has so many promises of support for the Pendleton normal measure that he believes the bill certain to carry is stated by George D. Haslett, well known traveling man who is now here to vote. Mr. Haslett believes the campaign in behalf of the normal has been effective.

Thinks Wilson Elected.

After a trip through the middle states, W. W. Harrah, prominent local farmer, is convinced that Wilson will be elected tomorrow. On train No. 19 on which he arrived early this morning a straw vote of the entire train was taken this side of Pocatello, the result standing, Wilson, 43; Hughes 11. A vote taken on the Burlington, east of Denver, was even more decisive for the president.

Mock of White Swans.

Local hunters who were near Hermiton yesterday shooting ducks report that two flocks of white swans flew over the preserves during the day. These birds rarely are seen in these parts and the penalty for shooting them is heavy. Many of the hunters did not know what they were and were for shooting them. However, the presence of a few sportsmen who knew the law regarding them saved the others from probable heavy fines.

Starts Classes Next Week.

G. Robert McAuslan, specialist in retail salesmanship with the University of Oregon school of commerce, is here today making arrangements for starting his class in retail salesmanship a week from tonight. The classes are free and are designed to make salesmen and women more efficient. The course consists of ten lessons, five each week for two weeks. Mr. McAuslan has just come from Baker and La Grande where he gave the course. He will visit with a cousin in Milton and friends in Walla Walla part of this week.

Temple Auto Rest Open.

The Temple Auto Rest was this morning turned over by Contractor L. E. Twitchell to Messrs. Ernest and Ralph Temple and they have opened it to the public. The new institution in the Pendleton automobile world is designed to accommodate farmers and tourists who wish to leave their cars for a few hours or for a few days. Cars will be washed and oiled. Comfortable and attractive rest rooms have been fitted up and altogether the place is modern in every respect. It is located on the corner of Cottonwood and Water streets.

His Sleep Disturbed.

Mayor Lee Moorhouse will exercise a little better judgment next time he furnishes his office. His slumbers last night were very much disturbed because he had set smoking pans of fumigants in his office during the evening. Several times he was called to the telephone to hear excited voices tell him that his office was afire. He stopped this annoyance by telling central to stop all such calls. However, when a voice shrieked in at his bedroom window "fire, fire," he decided to get up. He went to his office and lettered a big sign, "FUMIGATING" and put it in his window. It happened that in his haste he used a Hughes button with which to pin up the sign and he has been "kidded" unmercifully today.

Daughter Born.

A daughter was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansen at St. Anthony's hospital.

Is Appointed Guardian.

Stephens Locates in Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stephens, who left Pendleton last year for a visit in the east, have located permanently at Gibbons, Nebraska, according to word received by friends. Mr. Stephens, who was in the sheep business here, has purchased a large ranch near that place and is building a new home in Gibbons. He has sent for his household effects.

Former Pendletonian Dead.

Word has been received here of the death in Tacoma last Friday evening of J. E. Reeder, a former Pendletonian. Death was due to Bright's disease. Mr. Reeder left Pendleton about 15 years ago. Two nephews, C. A. and O. H. Reeder, still live here. The late Mrs. J. K. Bott was a sister and three brothers, W. H. Reeder of Tacoma, L. B. Reeder of Portland and Walter Reeder of Riverville, survive. The funeral will be held today in Tacoma.

RUMORED PERSHING IS TO MARCH TO PARRAL.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 6.—It is rumored a portion of Pershing's expedition has been ordered to march to Parral, to protect American interests against Villistas. The rumor is unconfirmed from any source. Funston denied such a move was even contemplated.

WALL STREET MONEY FINDS MANY TAKERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Between nine million and ten million dollars will change hands on election day if betting estimates here and in other large cities are correct. Commissioners here figured five million dollars was wagered in New York alone. Nearly two million and a half was wagered in Chicago, Denver and San Francisco, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Cleveland and Indianapolis. There is considerable unrecorded betting elsewhere.

Along Broad street curb one commissioner reported odds were ten to eight in favor of Hughes. Another reported a flood of Wilson money. The odds may be ten to nine before night. One house reported ten to eight was offered and ten to seven and a half asked. There is prospect of heavy betting this afternoon.

Middle and far western reports indicated ten to nine and ten to eight the prevailing odds. New York bet two to one Hughes would carry New York state. Ten to nine that Hughes would carry New Jersey and ten to seven that Wilson would carry Ohio.

5000 FRAUDULENT ELECTION REGISTRATIONS IN OMAHA

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—Election Commissioner Moorehead announced that final inspection showed five thousand and fraudulent registrations in Omaha. All will be challenged tomorrow. Dry workers charged false registrations in an attempt to swing the election against Nebraska prohibition.

It's well to investigate an oil well that won't bear looking into.

CROWD HEARS ADDRESS.

to their candidate in an insulting or belittling manner. After presenting a picture of Oregon prosperity as she had seen it in her travels over the state, she launched forth into her argument, discussing the record of the president from a woman's standpoint and showing conclusively that Wilson had more right to ask the support of workers for women suffrage than had his opponent.

She paid her respects to the Golden Special in no uncertain terms, asking by what right those aristocratic ladies presumed to travel across the continent in a moving palace to direct the women of western equal-suffrage states to stand for a candidate for whom they themselves could not vote. She pointed out that Anne Morgan has been leading a movement to oppose Wilson because under his administration the banking business was taken out of the hands of Wall Street where her brother is a dominant figure. "When women like Miss Morgan who cannot vote but yet get into politics, it is time for the rest of the women in the country to bestir themselves," she said.

Flays Congressional Union.

The Congressional Union for Women Suffrage Mrs. Thompson characterized as the worst element in the feminist movement and declared it was doing more to retard the cause of women than anything that ever happened to it. Their methods, she said, are as pernicious as the bomb-throwing of their militant English sisters. Their assumption that they could deliver the four million women voters to Hughes because the Wilson administration had failed to adopt a federal amendment enfranchising women is resented deeply, she said, by women who have fought for and gained the right to vote.

She declared the suffrage question is not the paramount one of the campaign but, even if it were, there would be more cause to support Wilson than Hughes. "Wilson has been called a man of words rather than deeds," she said, "but Wilson made a trip to his home state to vote for woman suffrage whereas Hughes, who so loudly affirms his belief in woman's rights, approved his words by failing to vote when the opportunity presented itself."

She also referred to Hughes' act when governor in vetoing the measure giving women teachers the same salary as men, such a measure as was now have in Oregon. The position of both parties regarding suffrage is identically the same, she declared, and Mr. Wilson's record is better than that of Hughes.

Why Punish Wilson?

She referred to the speeches of certain militant Hughes women to the effect that women should vote against Wilson to punish him. "To punish him for what?" she asked. "For making life easier for the farmers' wives through rural credits? For giving women a sense of security from money panics through the federal reserve law? For standing against strong men even in his own party to save, through the child labor law, the children of the nation from physical and moral degradation? For emancipating the working men of America by declaring man's labor a part of his life and not a market commodity? For taking the burden of taxation from the poor man's back and placing it upon the rich man through the income tax? For taking the tariff out of politics? In short would they punish him for giving this country the most constructive legislation in history, legislation that Mr. Hughes in his Milwaukee speech said should be wiped out? And would they punish him for keeping this nation at peace in times of war? "I believe," she said in conclusion, "the women of this nation will not place partisanship above patriotism, and by patriotism I do not mean simply the time-honored patriotism that inspires us to pat our boys on the back and send them forth as targets for bullets, but the real patriotism that builds a nation over which Old Glory may worthily wave, that sends us forth to the polls to correct the evils that result in war."
