

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Home Life of Missa provided a very interesting program for Current Literature Club members who were delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Lee Moorhouse and Mrs. George H. Clark in the club room of the library. The program as arranged by the hostesses included a paper "Home Life of the Feudality" by Mrs. J. H. Baker, "Home Life of the Peasants" by Mrs. Charles Bonney, "Home Life of the Middle Class" by Mrs. I. W. Temple. Two charming vocal solos were contributed by Mrs. Carl Power with Mrs. F. E. Boyden as accompanist. Following the program a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed, Mrs. Carl Power and Mrs. Charles Bond presiding at the tea table.

For the purpose of deciding upon the initial purchase of furnishings for the club room of the county library a meeting of the committee representing all of the women's clubs of the city will be held at the library on Tuesday evening at 8:15. The committee has on hand now a fund raised by contributions of five dollars by each member of the various clubs. This will enable the ladies to make a start toward providing the room with suitable furnishings. The members of the combined committee are Mrs. George Hartman, chairman, Mrs. Roy Raley, Mrs. Frank E. Boyden, Mrs. E. J. Somerville, Mrs. W. C. E. Pruitt, Mrs. Carl Power, Mrs. H. E. Block, Mrs. Charles Gredlich, Mrs.

Clarence Penland, Mrs. Lowell Rogers, Mrs. Lina H. Sturgis and Mrs. Henry Dixon Jones.

Mrs. Cross went to Pendleton today to pay an official visit to the Knights and Ladies of Security council there. She reports that the national officers of the order will be in Portland in two weeks and that a class of two hundred will be taken in at that time—La Grande Observer.

Miss Tess Snyder, who is leaving soon to spend the winter in California, was the guest of a charmingly arranged dinner party for which Mrs. Robert N. Stanfield was hostess last evening at 7 o'clock. A lovely low bowl of pink roses and violets centered the table, the guests finding their places by means of clever favors depicting his or her special hobby. Entertaining the board were Miss Snyder, Miss Jennie Perry, Miss Lola Rogers, Mrs. Edna Zimmerman, James Bowler, Bertrand Gerard, Ned Niel and the hostess. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell and Dr. and Mrs. David H. Hill came in and several games of bridge were enjoyed.

The word has just been received at Umatilla Agency of the marriage on November 8th, at Billings Montana, of Miss Ada Hazen to Mr. Stuart H. Elliott, both of whom are well and favorably known by the employees at the agency. Mr. Elliott was sent to the Umatilla agency in the summer of 1914 as examiner of inheritances, and at that time determined the heirs of deceased Umatilla Indian allotment. After finishing his work here he proceeded to the Warm Springs agency, Oregon, where he met Miss Hazen. The bride, who is a sister of Miss Amy Hazen of the agency office, has been living with her sister, Mrs. Frank Shultz of Billings, for the past six months, while Mr. Elliott has been assigned to work on the various Indian reservations in Washington, and at present his headquarters are at North Yakima. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are now at their home at North Yakima. Mr. Elliott is well known among the legal profession of Pendleton, and is considered by Major Swainlander as one of the most brilliant attorneys connected with the Indian department.

Mrs. Wm. Mickelson returned this morning from Oklahoma City, Okla., where she has been attending her father's funeral. Her father, Mr. M. N. Pugh, was past 70 at the time of death.

Pauline Rebekek Lodge No. 12 met in regular session last night and elected the following officers: Noble Grand, Janet McRae; vice grand, Ida Gray; secretary, Hattie Ferguson and treasurer, Cora Shaver. A short program followed the election and dainty refreshments were served. There was a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Burke came up from Portland yesterday and will spend some time here before going to Honolulu later in the winter.

J. H. Smith was in from Pilot Rock yesterday.

Louis Miller of Weston, was here yesterday.

Nelly Darr of Adams is among the visitors here today.

Jim Roe of Pilot Rock was at the Bowman last night.

Alex King of Weston, spent yesterday in Pendleton.

H. R. Loughlin of Hermiston, spent last night in the city.

J. C. Grisdler of Echo, was at the Golden Rule last night.

M. A. Sturdivant was in from his home at Pilot Rock yesterday.

Robert Livermore left today for a visit with friends in Portland and Eugene.

Moses Taylor, well known Athens farmer, was transacting business here yesterday.

Larry McCrea of Hermiston was up from the west end of the county yesterday.

D. C. Sanderson, editor of the Free-water Times, is spending Saturday in the city.

William Follman, prominent banker of Baker, is a business visitor in the city today.

A. K. Smythe of Portland, member of the firm of Smythe Bros., is registered at the Pendleton.

Miss Kate Lowe, who has been the guest of Mrs. R. E. Farnsworth for some time, has returned to her home in Alberta.

James R. Bowler will leave this evening for La Grande to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hampton.

Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. J. C. Peterson and Mrs. Ida Franklin of Helix were registered at the N. George last evening.

Stanley G. Jewett of the biological survey returned last night from a trip through eastern Washington and left on No. 17 en route to southwestern Oregon.

James Johns, president of the Hartman Abstract Co., arrived home this morning from a business trip to the Willamette valley. While there he visited his daughters who are attending the University of Oregon.

Truth just as queer as fiction, declares Powell.

Triangle Director Says the Story of "Rummy," New Play Starring Wilfred Lucas, Was Outdone in Real Life.

"A gentleman, a scholar and a judge of good whisky," is "Rummy" the part played by Wilfred Lucas in the Triangle-Fine Arts photoplay of that title, to be seen at the Temple theatre Sunday and Monday.

In this play a young newspaperman fast rising toward success, becomes a wreck when he loses faith in his wife.

"It happens like that in real life every once in a while, too," Director Paul Powell said, reminiscently. "I remember one case that remains the biggest mystery that ever came under my personal observation. I had a friend on one of the newspapers where I worked, a fine, sober, brilliant young fellow—just like 'Rummy' at the beginning of this play. I never knew that boy to take a drink until one day he showed up for work, roaring drunk. We sent him home to sober up. He came back each afternoon, drunker. If that is possible, than the day before. So the boss laid him off, but told him that he would make a place for him if he would sober up and stay sober. But he never did. We all tried to straighten him up, but nothing we could do or say did any good and after about two years he just disappeared.

"The strangest part of it is that no one ever found out what started him on his intentional, deliberate ruin. It wasn't a love affair, I'm mighty sure of that. If a man hasn't lost any money—this boy never had any to lose—and if his work is going fine, as his was, and if he hadn't any love affair, and I am positive he hadn't, for I knew him that well, what in thunder, then, was the cause of his blowing up that way? No one knows. I don't suppose anyone ever will. It is the biggest mystery I ever met."

"This has been a hard picture to direct, for I keep seeing my good old chum in 'Rummy's' realistic work. I'm mighty glad Pauline Starke, as the wife in this play, pulls 'Rummy' through—I would have hated to direct the picture, otherwise."
