WILLIAM FOX FEATURE
WITH JUNE CAPRICE
MAKES HIT AT PASTIME

June Caprice with handsome Harry Hilliard will be the attraction at the Pastime again today in "The Ragged Princess," a beautiful, touching drama of the life of a poor orphan girl. It is a simple little story, very pleasing and entertaining. A representative Fox audience viewed the play yesterday afternoon and evening and all gave it their stamp of approval. The management recommends the picture.

In addition to this the Selig Athletic picture showing world champions in action.

Ice, Snow and Hall in "The Combat"—Vivid glimpses of Northwoods in Feature at Pastime Sunday and Monday.

While "The Combat," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature starring Anita Stewart, which is the attraction at the Pastime theater on Sunday and Monday, would come under the class of a society drama it contains a number of flashes of the North Woods where dog teams, snow squalls and rough log cabins form the center of interest.

These scenes which are intercepted by flashes of milady's dainty boudoir and various well appointed drawing rooms come as a direct contrast in the life of the city man and the man of nature.

Aiming to have these scenes all that perfection means, Director Fox took his entire company up into the woods during the winter months and besides using the log cabins which they erected for the picture they used them for shelter during their two weeks' stay.

One of the features of these scenes is the dog-teams which contain twenty valuable Malamute dogs who are really the species used for transportation in the northwest.

How to use snow shoes, for without this knowledge, living in the snow-covered woods could never have been accomplished.

Nevertheless, the scenes in the completed film more than repay the players for any inconvenience they might have suffered.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The drilling of the high school cadet corps is advancing in fine shape, or, as expressed by Sergeant Young, who has charge of the work, the boys have learned as much in a couple of drills as the average recruit learns in a month. Foot work, squad and company drills have so far been tried and the set-up drills are next on the list. As soon as the guns, which were ordered, arrive the regular drills will be taken up with the handling of the guns.

Much of the success of the cadet homebound, from Salomonka Sergeant Young. He has entered into the work untiringly and has conducted the drills in a splendid manner.

PRISONERS WILL EAT CORN, NOT WHEAT BREAD

MR. WALTER RUNCIMAN

number of sheep in the world by continents and then spoke of the varieties of wool and the fact that all animals which have hair useful in spinning are classed as wool in the markets of the world.

The best wools in the world he said come from Australia where land, food and climate make an ideal combination to raise sheep at little cost. Two and one quarter sheep being produced there at the same cost as one here. He said that the people of the United States rarely use between five and six pounds of wool for every man, woman and child in the country and that roughly speaking one half this amount has to be imported.

He then took up the importance of sorting as a pre-requisite for manufacturing and described the work in a mill, in turn mentioning the various machines it passes through, the reason for them and how they work in making a wool yarn and that a somewhat more elaborate process is required to produce worsted yarn.

Tonight Prof. McAuslan will give his closing lecture on the subject of silk. This will be especially interesting as through the kindness of the Cheney Silk Co. of South Manchester, Conn., he is provided with samples of their work and fifty stereoscopic slides showing the various processes of manufacture. To this lecture all are invited as it is extended by the University of Oregon extension department and is absolutely free.

Postmasters are being enjoined to save the twine because of the abnormal price. What does war use twine for?

ALTA FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.
This business of being versatile has its drawbacks, as Pauline Frederick found when she was acting in "Ashes and Ambers" in which she is being starred by the Famous Players at the Alta Friday and Saturday this week. In this Paramount picture Miss Frederick plays two distinctly different roles. While the picture was in progress her director, Joseph Kaufman, informed her that she would have to wear the costumes for both roles at the same spot, which was fully an hour's motor ride from the studio. Anyone but Miss Frederick would probably have had visions of traveling back and forth from the location to the studio in order to make her changes. But the Famous Players star simply ordered her limousine, loaded her costumes and her maid into the car, and proceeded to make her changes right where the scenes were being taken—with the limousine curtains discreetly drawn, of course.

At the Oozy.
There is a simple and direct story told in "The Measure of a Man," the Bluebird photoplay to be exhibited at the Oozy theater tonight, with J. Warren Kerrigan and Louise Lovely playing the principal roles. A young man has been expelled from divinity school because of his evident unwillingness to wear the cloth. He goes to a western lumber camp, and because of his clerical appearance is installed as the spiritual adviser of the rugged woodsmen. Interest in the ensuing episodes will center in the forcefulness of the young man's administration of the gospel—the physical "punch" he put into his daily transactions meant more than the oral points he made in his sermons. And the earliest job of all was to win the trusting heart of the rugged little mountain queen who helped him to conquer his own bad habits and lead his neighbors into the better way. The respectful and reverent treatment of the subject of religion will be one of the pleasing features of the story.

"The Test" at the Temple Thursday and Friday.
A wealthy hotel owner discovering that his clerk has raised a check, threatens to prosecute unless the clerk's attractive wife consents to come to his apartment to "talk it over." The husband forces her to go and while there she submits to the Test—crucifies her heart to save her spineless husband from prison. But after she has paid the price the hotel owner laughs at his promise—presses the charge and the husband receives a long sentence.

The wife's search for employment is met with many offers of "stenographic work" which prove to have much darker motives than mere stenography. Convinced that man's domain is an animal's world she seeks a solace in a watery grave. A young writer working among the slums prevents her attempted suicide and offers her a chance to earn a living as his stenographer. The word brings a bitter laugh but she agrees and arriving at his rooms says, "Bring on the drinks," but to her surprise his offer is sincere and without strings.

Through the young writer her lost faith in humanity blossoms again and her sky clears of its clouds save for the worthless husband in jail. Then come the word that his death has given her deliverance and the nightmare of the past blends into a dream of happiness with a wonderful new love as its theme.
