SYDNEY SMITH'S RECIPE FOR SALAD DRESSING.

Two boiled potatoes, strained through a kitchen sieve.
Softness and smoothness to the salad give.
Of mordant mustard take a single spoon—
Disrupt the condiment that bites too soon;
Yet deem it not, thou man of taste, a fault.
To add a double quantity of salt.
Four times the spoon with oil of Luca crown.
And twice with vinegar procured from town;
True taste requires it, and your poet begs
The pounded yellow of two well-boiled eggs.
Let onion atoms lurk within the bowl
And, source suspected, animate the whole;
And lastly, in the flavored compound toss
A magic spoonful of anchovy sauce.
Oh, great and glorious! oh, herbaceous meat.

2. Add two thirds benzine or benzoline.
3. Warm the wood to be treated.
4. Apply as much of the warm mixture as the wood will take up.
5. Drive it into the wood by applying hot flatiron held close to the surface.
6. Repeat four or five times, or as often as necessary.
Note—The process should be carried out away from the fire as benzine is extremely inflammable. The warmer the wood, the further the benzine will penetrate. The surplus paraffin on the surface can be drawn off by heat.

SNAP THE GLOVES TOGETHER

Get into the way of snapping the catch of one glove into that of the other, immediately upon taking them off. This will prevent their being separated in the bureau drawer, or in the pocket or muff, and will keep them conveniently together. If the gloves button, the buttonhole of one may be slipped over the button of the other, when they are removed.

A HANGER FOR THE MUFF

A muff that is laid in a drawer or hung in a closet against other garments is apt to become flattened and matted. To avoid this, a collapsible muff hanger has been devised by which the muff may hang clear of

Other articles. A folding double wire rack goes through the muff, holding it stretched flat, and a dainty ribbon is attached to each end. The rack may be shortened or elongated to fit any size of muff.

SPECIALLY PREPARED OLIVES.

This season shows novelties in prepared olives of several kinds. One that will appeal to the busy housewife who likes her salads and salsas nicely garnished is the bottled rings of green olives known as salmi rings. Of course, all stones are removed from these. Another kind, planned for hors d'oeuvres, is the green olive stuffed with celery, while olives stuffed with almonds or filberts are also delectable for the same purpose. In one bottle may be obtained pimento-stuffed ripe olives with ripe olives stuffed with tuna; these are very new. Tuna is a fish that is white in color, so that in these dark olives the red pimento and the white fish meat make a very pretty dish. For sandwiches, or a relish to be served with cold meats, there is an olive butter—not so smooth as peanut butter but, when prepared with red peppers in almost undiscernible quantity and a small amount of vinegar, a very delicious item of its sort.

See Our Complete Line of PIANOS and Player-Pianos

Why this store sells pianos cheaper than any other in this section

WE BUY pianos and player-pianos from one of the greatest manufacturers in the world—the House of Baldwin. This company operates two immense factories at Chicago and Cincinnati. They produce thirty thousand instruments a year. They make every part of every instrument. They have reduced the manufacture of pianos to a science. Big output, complete facilities and systematic economy enable them to produce high-grade pianos at the lowest cost. Their instruments cost us less than any others of supposedly equal grade. We can sell cheaper because we buy cheaper.

WE DEAL directly with the manufacturers. We are, in fact, one of the two thousand representatives that constitute the House of Baldwin. The instruments pass directly from the factory to us. We pay no profits to jobbers or middlemen of any kind. The only amount we pay above the actual cost of making is the manufacturing profit. This is very small because the House of Baldwin prospers through volume of business—not because of exorbitant turnover on each instrument. We can sell cheaper because we do not have to pay several profits.

WE maintain no expensive selling force. Every piano is sold by us. We do not have to pay agents' commissions. We ask you simply one fair profit above the rock-bottom price of the instrument to us. Our personal, simple, individual way of doing business saves many a dollar on every sale, thus enabling us to mark every instrument unusually low.

By coming to this store for piano or player-piano you can be sure of eliminating all extra profits, you can enjoy the many advantages of dealing practically directly with the factory and you can get one of the famous House of Baldwin instruments that are known the world over for artistic excellence, remarkable durability and unequalled all-round value.
