"DEAD" BABY CRIES IN BOX AT MORGUE
One of Twins Brought by Woman Is Found Alive But Dies Soon Afterward.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Mrs. Rose Banunco of No. 308 East Twenty-fourth street, walked into the morgue yesterday morning and gave Acting Superintendent John Moran a small box, wrapped in paper, which she said contained the bodies of twin daughters born to Mrs. Mary Worth of No. 313 East Twenty-fourth street.
"Both babies died yesterday morning and the parents are too poor to bury them," she explained.
Moran placed the box on the floor. He had begun to record the case when Mrs. Mary Wilson of No. 730 Second avenue entered with the body of her three months old baby.
Moran was questioning her when he heard a faint cry from the box brought in by Mrs. Banunco. He quickly opened it and discovered one of the infants was alive. The body was rushed into Bellevue hospital.

When Mrs. Banunco told Mrs. Worth and her five children of the discovery there was great rejoicing. It was short, however, for a reporter for The World called at the house at 4 o'clock and told them the second twin had died half an hour before.
