LAMBS HIT NEW HIGH MARK

PORTLAND, Dec. 29.—The market for lambs jumped another 25c in the North Portland yards, establishing another new high record for the season with actual sales of Willamette valley tops at $10.50, which would mean at least $10.75 for superior quality east of the mountain stuff.

Aside from the stuff brought in direct from nearby Washington feedlots by a local meat company, there was little to offer in the yards during the day, but this little was sufficient to show the extremely strong trend of the trade.

General mutton and lamb market: Best east of mountain lambs. None offered. Best valley lambs 10.50 Wethers 8.75 @ 9.00 Ewes 6.75 @ 7.50 Goats 4.25

Cattle Situation Stronger. With a starved market all week conditions in the cattle trade at North Portland are naturally very strong. There was another small supply reported in overnight. All through the week a similar condition has prevailed.

General cattle market range: Best beef steers $3.00 @ 3.25 Good beef steers 2.75 @ 2.90 Best beef cows 4.75 @ 5.00

Best heifers 4.60 @ 4.90 Ordinary to good 4.00 @ 4.25 Bulls 3.50 @ 4.00 Calves 3.00 @ 3.50 Stocker-feeder steers 5.00 @ 5.25 Stocker-feeder cows 4.00 @ 4.50

Hog Strength Maintained. Strength in the swine trade at North Portland is well maintained. Actual business is being done on the basis of the prices quoted in this report, contrary to what is shown in some of the western markets that are quoting still higher figures.

General hog market price range: Heavy packing 9.85 Heavy butchers 9.60 @ 9.65 Light packing 9.50 @ 9.50 Rough and heavy 8.60 @ 9.25 Pigs 8.00 Stockers 6.50 @ 8.25

Thursday Livestock Shippers. Hogs—J. M. Barry, Anderson, Cal., 1 load; John Ogden, Cottonwood, Cal., 1 load; C. McCrow, Lyle, Wash., 1 load.

Mixed stuff—W. Given, Estacada, 1 load cattle and hogs; J. E. Proffitt, Dayton, 1 load cattle and hogs; G. U. Farmer, McCoy, 1 load hogs and sheep; Union Meat Co., Lyle, Wash., 4 loads hogs and sheep; M. M. Hoctor, Goldendale, Wash., 1 load cattle, hogs and sheep.

SHE'S A CHOO-CHOO, HE SAYS IN REPLY TO DIVORCE SUIT

Alchemist's Wife Says Mate Thinks No More of Her Than Dry Cell Battery.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—When Balzac wrote his "Quest of the Absolute" back in the middle of the nineteenth century, he had no idea that the main plot of his story would be enacted in 1916, culminating in the filing of a divorce petition.

Although Arthur Bullock, 40, and his wife, Genevieve, 37, have no children like those who suffered through the ill-starred genius of Balzac's inventive father-hero, the eccentric alchemist of Cleveland's "House of Mystery" fulfills all demands for a solitary devotee of science.

Bullock is wedded to his test tubes, his dynamos, and the strange demonstrations of unseen forces. For three weeks he did not enter his home. He ate and slept in the laboratory, the forbidding gray house of mystery in a clump of trees back to one side of the house where his wife lives.

Says Bullock: "My wife is not the 'lonely married widow' she has been called. She is the Midnight Cho-Cho, the most frivolous, disconcerted little woman in the world."

Says Mrs. Bullock: "For four years my husband has not taken me anywhere. I am alone here from morning until night. He thinks me of less importance than a dry cell battery, while I long for a real home, the theater, the dance and music."

"That is not my wife over there in my house," said Bullock, as he sat in his laboratory. "She is only a woman who bears my name and whom I support. Here are some bills, nearly $200 worth, spent for her on clothes this month."

Mrs. Bullock in the longest divorce petition ever filed in Cuyahoga county, told how her husband gave her enough to feed her three bulldogs and herself.

"I shall not contest her suit," said Bullock. "I am happy thus. I shall continue to delude her in my laboratory."

BERLIN PAPER CALLS 'CURSE OF HEAVEN UPON AMERICANS' Deutsche Tigs Zeitung Compares United States to Shylock—"The Best She Has She Received from Germany."

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Berlin Deutches Tages Zeitung publishes a diatribe against the United States, which it compares with Shylock, and on which "in the name of hundreds of thousands of German mothers," it asks the "curse of heaven."

And all this because "America never received injury from Germany. We never pulled her by the beard. The best she has she owes to Germany. 'Who are her most efficient citizens? The Germans. Who trained the American militia in the war of independence? German officers. If ever a spark of idealism has fallen into the dark soul of materialistic America, that spark came from German fire. Longfellow and Emerson fed at the feast of Schiller. It is to the German poet and thinker that they owe their artistic as well as moral education."

GOT BONDS FROM "COTTON DUCK KING"

MRS. MARGARET TURNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Another interesting chapter is added today to the history of the legal fight over the estate left by the late Thomas M. Turner, known as the "Cotton Duck King." It consists of a record of examination before trial of Mrs. Margaret M. Turner, third wife of the financier and defendant in an action brought by Thomas McInvaline Turner, her stepson.

The plaintiff contends that certain bonds, stocks and securities belonging to him were turned over to Mrs. Turner by his father without consideration. He alleges that the securities were held by his father as his guardian, and submits that the transfer constituted a violation of trust. According to the papers which were filed in the supreme court, Mrs. Turner was married to the "Cotton Duck King" after two other wives, one of them the mother of the plaintiff, had divorced him.

When asked whether her late husband had given her any J. Spencer & Co. bonds, Mrs. Turner answered "Yes."

"How many did he give you?" she was asked.

"I could not say exactly," she answered.

"What did you give for the bonds?" "Legally, I do not know."

"Commercially, what did you give?" "Commercially, I do not know."

"Did you give anything of value?" "Well, I might say I gave him affection and time and a great deal of love."
