VOTERS MAY PASS ON LIBRARY FIGHT

Papers Being Drawn With View of Referring Three Ordinances Passed by Council, One Carries Emergency Clause, so Cannot be Blocked.

That the long continued library fight may be brought up for settlement by the people of the city seems probable from the fact papers are being drawn with a view of referring three of the library ordinances enacted by the council a week ago last night.

According to men interested in the fight from the standpoint of maintaining a separate city library this ordinance is the only one of any vital importance. The others may be referred without harm, so they assert.

GOVERNOR BRUSHES UP ON THE SINGLE ITEM VETO CLAUSE

Declares He Has No Idea of Using It But Simply Wants to be Prepared in Case of an Emergency.

SALEM, Jan. 13.—Governor Withycombe asked Attorney General Brown to render an opinion of the single item veto amendment to the state constitution. He said: "I do not expect to use the single item veto. I simply want to know what power the amendment gives me in event of an emergency. I expect the legislature to be reasonable and pass no bills requiring a fractional veto, but I heartily favor it as a preparedness measure."

LOCAL YOUNG MEN ENLIST IN NAVY

Arnold and Clifford Minnis are Among Number; Wesley Mims and Henry Latourelle Reported to Have Joined.

With a suddenness that surprised friends and relatives, several Pendleton young men have joined the navy of Uncle Sam, according to reports coming from Portland where the enlistments are said to have taken place. Some of the Pendleton recruits were enroute back to college when the notion struck them to become jacksies.

Arnold Minnis and Clifford Minnis are two who have enlisted. The former was in his freshman year at the University of Oregon and returned to Pendleton for the holidays. It was while going back to college that he suddenly altered his plans. His brother had been working on a farm near Pendleton before he left to enlist. Their mother, Mrs. W. C. Minnis, has received a letter from them confirming the report of their enlistment.

Wesley Mims, who entered the University of Washington last fall and who was home for the holidays, has also enlisted according to reports. His relatives received a letter this morning from him and he was in Portland but said nothing about enlisting. Henry Latourelle, who also finished the high school last spring, is said to have enlisted.

The recruits will be sent to the naval school in San Francisco for five or six months schooling before being assigned to a ship.
