YOUTH WINS A LARGE FORTUNE IN SPECULATION

Also Wins the Girl of His Dreams for a Lifelong Companion; "The Gilded Youth" Title of Production in Which the Eminent Dramatic Star, Richard Bennett Next Appears.

Richard Bennett, one of the best known actors in America, and Rhea Mitchell, one of the cleverest ingenues on the stage, are seen at their best in a remarkable new production of the American-Mutual, "The Gilded Youth," for in this five-reel drama Bennett is given full opportunity to display his original character conceptions and Miss Mitchell the chance she loves to fit rapidly between grave and gay to a symmetrical finish.

Mr. Bennett is cast in the character of John Slocum, scion of a wealthy and aristocratic family, the heir of a wealthy old uncle who has ideas about the value of hard work in establishing appreciation of the American dollar which do not accord with the younger man's dilletante social theories and associations.

Bennett makes Slocum a rather lovable character, despite his indifference to commercial advancement, and Miss Mitchell, who has the part of "Little Mary," a New York slavey, of course with superior connections, laughs and cries her way into the hearts of her audiences with the genius that is characteristic of her.

Some of Bennett's adventures as John Slocum are of an exciting kind. He fluctuates between penury and affluence with extraordinary rapidity and grace, accepting the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune with entire equanimity and eternally maintaining an open eye for the main chance which always presents itself to the Slocums if Bennett is the creator.

Adrienne Morrison, who is Mrs. Bennett in private life, has the part of Bess De Voe, protege and ward of Slocum's rich uncle, and throughout the development of the piece she is rival of "Mary," as well as a serious menace to the proper ordering of John's love affair with Mary.

In addition to those named, the cast, includes George Periolat as John Crow; Alfred Hollingsworth as Uncle Henry and Charles Newton as Steele. As the young broker, Mr. Periolat, one of the foremost character actors of this country, gives a very excellent characterization.

The elements in this play are sufficiently diversified to afford all included in the cast an opportunity to appear at their best. Bennett, for instance, is a broken wanderer in a cheap boarding house at one moment and a Broadway spender in a sable coat when next encountered.

Bess De Voe (Miss Morrison) graduates quickly from her surroundings in the quiet home of the millionaire Uncle Henry, to those of the New York theatrical dressing room.

It is a lively little play very cleverly done and its popularity appears to be foreordained. Pastime today.

AMERICA'S FOES PLOT IN FIFTH "PEARL" CHAPTER

The dramatic possibilities latent in a conflict between unscrupulous foes of America and undaunted patriotism are utilized effectively in the fifth episode of Pathe's America First serial, "Pearl of the Army," which will be presented under the title "Somewhere in Grenada" at the Cosy Tuesday and Wednesday.

Her First Fed Feather.

"Mixed Blood," the Red Feather photoplay, which apears at the Cosy Theater on Tuesday and Wednesday, is the first Fed Feather feature film in which Claire McDowell has the stellar role although she has appeared to advantage in many pictures since joining Universal several months ago, notably "The Caravan," the Egyptian phantasy, staged by Raymond Wells, in which she scored a big hit.

In "Mixed Blood," the stirring story of Willard Mack, produced by Charles Swickard, Miss McDowell has the role of a border Carmen, a creature of swift passions, hot moods and wild caprices, who, however, in the end "come clean" through her loyalty and devotion in the face of deadliest danger.

The story, adroitly developed and filled to the uttermost with gripping situations, is a study of the result of the blending of Irish and Mexican strains in a beautiful young girl who, with a big American suitor and a treacherous Spanish lover, fights a big fight and wins out. In Miss McDowell's support are George Beranger, Wilbur Higby and Jesse Arnold.

How Mme Petrova Chose Title for Latest Production.

Mme. Petrova herself selected the title, "The Black Butterfly," for the latest great Metro production in which she will be seen as the star at the Alta theater on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story of the play was written by L. Case Russell. It was put into scenario form by Wallace C. Clifton, and then the rehearsals were begun in the Popular Pylays and Players studios.

"It is a great play," Mr. Russell said to his star, "but I am at my wits end for a good title.

"I agree with you as to the merits of the play," said Petrova. "Now let us analyze it and see if we cannot select a suitable title. Here is a woman who falls in love when she is an innocent girl. She goes to Paris with the man she loves. Is jilted. A dark shadow passes over life, yet that shadow does not dim the brilliancy of her mind, her beauty nor her strength of heart. She wins a place for herself in the world.

UMATILLA MEN WILL SUPPORT BOY CLUB WORK

(East Oregonian Special Service.)

SALEM, Jan. 30.—Speaker of the House R. N. Stanfield, and Representatives Ritner and Hodges are to direct their efforts to securing the appropriation of $45,000 for the industrial club work among the schools, feeling that the work has been of great value in Umatilla county, it became known today. It is understood that a minority report of the ways and means committee may be asked for.

The joint ways and means committee cut the appropriation off completely when the budget for the state department of education came up before them. The members of the committee have since received so many letters from interested citizens throughout the state that they have informally agreed to favor an appropriation of $8000, if the sum is available. It is known that the sentiment among the committee members has changed on the appropriation since action was taken and should it come up again it is generally felt that at least a par of the sum asked would be allowed.

Representative Ritner said today, "The work is imoprtant and Umatilla county has derived a great deal of benefit from it. The Umatilla county delegation in the house is strongly in favor of it."
