It is pointed out that this is an agricultural state and that it would be false economy to hamper the work along those lines.

Wallowa Boys Won.
Wallowa vs. Pendleton high school boys' basketball game last night was fast and furious. The two teams were about even in team work. Our boys seemed to be the best basketball shooters while the Wallowa boys were best at passing. In the last half the game seemed to be going all to Wallowa until the last few minutes of the half when our boys began to show some real team work and annexed a points during the remainder of the half. The final game ended Wallowa 27, Pendleton 22.

Groundhog Sees No Shadow.
If the old superstition about the groundhog and his shadow counts for anything, Pendleton is to have an early spring. Today is Groundhog Day and there was no sun before 9 o'clock by which a shadow could be cast. The sun shone for a brief interval after 11 but the superstition has it that it must shine before 9. The only groundhog seen by any Pendletonians is the stuffed one in the windows of Major Moorhouse.

HUDSON SUPER-SIX

Don't confuse the HUDSON SUPER-SIX with sixes of the old type. The Super-Six is a unique type—a basic invention, controlled by Hudson patents. It differs from other Sixes more than Eights or Twelves do.

Some makers abandoned the V-types because of the Super-Six. The added cylinders seemed useless additions when the Super-Six so excelled.

SPANELL ON TRIAL FOR WIFE MURDER

Judge, jury, court attaches, the aged father of Spanell's wife, spectators and even the counsel for both sides wept and Spanell, in the midst of his recital, collapsed on the stand when testifying during his trial for the murder of his wife at San Angelo, Texas. The story the accused wife murderer told is one of the most dramatic known in Texas court annals. Spanell, in fact, swore that M. C. Butler, whom the defendant is also accused of killing, shot and killed Mrs. Spanell during the fatal automobile ride. Spanell asserted that he then killed the army officer during a struggle to regain the revolver.

A FAULTY AUTOMOBILE BRAKE GIVES TROUBLE

A Little Sand on One Brake and Oil on the Other and Car is Lost Control in Emergency.

Many followers of automobile construction were somewhat disappointed in the New York Show this year because no real improvement in braking equipment was shown in the great majority of cars. While it is true that year after year other betterments have been incorporated, brakes have received little attention. The discussion centers mainly around the service brake and it is the belief of a good many engineers that the practice of putting service brakes on the rear wheels is fundamentally wrong. The trouble is that it is impossible to equalize braking effects. The pressure on the foot pedal is equally distributed between the rear wheels by complicated mechanisms and fine adjustments of linkage, but the user of the car has no control over the condition of the braking surfaces. The brakes are in an exposed position near the ground and pick up sand, mud, oil, etc. A little sand on one and a bit of greasy mud or oil on the other spoils all the careful work done in equalizing the forces exerted. As soon as one wheel develops more drag on the road than the other, the car is almost sure to skid. The unequal braking effects are completely eliminated by putting the service brake on the transmission. The differential gears distrib-
