TOLEDO PASTOR DEFENDS SHORT SKIRT STYLES

Tells Ohio Shoe Dealers Mode Follows Lines God Made.

TOLEDO, March 12.—A defense of modern styles in women's clothes, the short skirt and the high boot, was made by Rev. Allan E. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational church, in his address at the opening session of the seventh annual convention of Ohio State Retail Shoe Dealers' Association.

"There is no reason for decrying a style that follows the lines that God himself has made. And they are beautiful lines, too," he said. "Every woman fears the day when she begins to look old. Any sane, intelligent style that gives her youth is a genuine benefit to the world. Nowadays it's hard to tell an old lady from a young girl when you see them from the proper angle." "Lots of times a grinch who grumbles about millinery bills and the shoe bills is the first one to complain if his wife isn't quite on a par with other women in dress and style. And sometimes he is foolish enough to set his affections on another woman who may look more nifty, but who costs him a blamed sight more money."

The Ohio shoe dealers are entertaining the shoe dealers from Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. Many of the delegates and visitors were late in arriving today.

As the short business session was informal, the greater number of delegates made their way among a display of shoes and leathers in the big Terminal auditorium. Toledo shoe dealers have arranged an elaborate program of entertainment.

MADE HER MAID HER BANKER; SORRY

Gotham Society Dame Declares in Court Former Employee is a Usurer.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Mrs. Agnes Sufferin Burnett, society leader and widow of General Burnett, of Civil war fame, appeared in the supreme court against her former maid, Miss Julia Mulligan King, whom she once regarded as a most accomplished dating banker, and now accuses of being a usurer.

For years, whenever she was a little short of ready cash, Mrs. Burnett was accustomed to turn to her "housekeeper-maid" for relief.

According to Miss King, she turned so often that she now owes her former employer $13,225. Miss King holds Mrs. Burnett's note for that amount, payable January 8, 1917.

Mrs. Burnett alleges that her one-time maid charged her usurious interest. Miss King was in the employ of her debtor for 19 years, leaving in 1912. During her service, she received $20 a month from General Burnett and $10 a month from his wife.

Mrs. Burnett admits that she drew on her maid for numerous loans, but adds that she had no experience in business matters, and kept no account of the transactions. She did, however, give Miss King promissory notes.

EXPECT STUDENT INFLEX

British Universities Prepare for Them After War.

LONDON, March 12.—English universities are preparing for a heavy invasion of American and colonial students immediately after the war. The invasion will not only be welcomed, but invited, and the government plans to give its co-operation in the establishment of a uniform system of post-graduate courses in institutions of higher education throughout the country.

Dr. H. A. L. Fisher, minister of education, in an appeal urging co-operation between the universities and the government, says: "Oxford is considering some new courses of advanced study, especially attractive to students from the colonies from allied countries, and from the United States. There will be great practical advantages if the other British universities establish courses roughly uniform with this program."

"I have recently been approached by many quarters by foreign governments which desire to ascertain what our English universities are prepared to do for students of their countries after the war. I have no obvious means of shaping the course of university policy throughout the country, but I hope the universities will combine in some common scheme for attracting foreign students to advanced courses."
