BUILDING INSPECTOR FOR CITY PROBABLE

Appears Best Solution of Protecting City Against Further Damage Suits; Insurance to Protect Firemen Will Be Investigated.

A building inspector for the city seems to be a probability as a result of the recent damage suit which cost the city $2500. Last evening Councilman Murphy suggested the retaining of a building inspector, whose business it would be to see that the city ordinances are enforced and that every precaution be taken to protect the public and employes, seemed the best solution of the question of protecting the city against further damage suits. His suggestion was favorably received and it was decided to investigate the matter for a week during which time a fuller report could be prepared.

Councilman Murphy suggested a flat salary for an inspector and that the city make a charge for building permits. He also suggested that the inspector could take charge of sewers and other work of the city.

The suggestion of the mayor after City Attorney Fee had reported that a contractor's bond to protect the city could be secured at a minimum rate of $12.22 a year. However, it was estimated that most of the contractors would have to pay much more if required to protect the city up to $5000.
