BY MARGARET MARON
(Written for the United Press.)
I'm much too tired to think or write.
Or make typewriters go;
And so I'm sure the Spring is here—It always makes me so.

NEW YORK, April 13.—All hail gentle Spring!

This is the joyous season of the year when the amorous robins and the blue birds from happiness wake you at five a.m. as they burble under the window sill. These are the nights when you toss off the extra counterpane and wake in the morn with a cold in the head and an extra counter pain in your chest.

These are the happy days when the Almagamat Union of Janitors turns off the steam heat prematurely and you have to affect the cumbrous draperies of your elderdown bathrobe on top of your customary garments around the frostbitten menace.

These are the pleasant mealtimes when you struggle with the offerings to get them to consume sufficient quantities of rhubarb sauce, spinach, dandelion greens and other healthful first fruits of spring against which their childish souls and tummies revolt.

Being offspring perhaps, accounts for their being "off" spring vegetables.

Shop Windows Filled.

These are the intoxicating afternoons when the shop windows get full of all the fascinating frills and furbelows and frivolities that go to female heads. The little birds are on the wing and the little wings are on the hat. If only the spring bon-nets knew how to use their many wings they would certainly fly away in the little birds. As it is it is only their prices that soar. Truly, fine feathers make fine hats this spring, for almost every turban, poke, mushroom, sailor and stovepipe shape that isn't beaded is ablaze with wings. Some of them are both beaded and winged at that.

Hats aren't the only things in the shop windows that go to the female heads however, as there are the stunning Spanish back combs of tortoise shell, amber, demi-amber and carved jet. Wonderfully artistic and alluring they are and every woman is immediately bitten with a desire to possess one as soon as she tries their teeth in her topknot.

Bright Colors Predominate.

Like Dutchman's breeches, violet, dogwood and all the spring flowers and fashionable growths in the spring shop windows are prone to have an ephemeral experience. They enjoy a brief popularity and then vanish like the crocus, to be glimpsed no more this year.

I am wondering if the exuberant new waists of rainbow hued jersey silk are doomed to so flicker a fling. Most amazingly colored are they in broad Roman stripes or orange, emerald green, purple and scarlet. They are stunning for a wear with the new sport coats of velvet that are presaged as successors to the ubiquitous sweaters.

I rather fear the existence of the divers hued waists will be fleeting, however, since all of their colors are guaranteed—fast. Speaking of brilliant colors, we are due to have a perfect riot of them on hands this spring if we are to judge by the way the glove fingers point. Talk about handpainted; well our hands will certainly look painted when they don the new sport gloves. Their lower edges are of wash kid in the most hectic of hues and their backs are of glove silk in equally hectic matching tint or a contrasting tone. They will look handpainted if they don't look as if something had dyed on our hands. Royal palms may well be dubbed the hands that are covered with the royal purple gloves with orange silk backs. Verdant palms will be those of emerald green backed with Chinese blue. White gloves with black silk backs and viceversa are especially smart in these days when black and white is such a winning combination, but the bright colors run pretty close for favor. When the kid underpart of the glove is in the same brilliant color—as the silk back instead of being a contrast the stitching on the back in an off color relieves the monotony.

Just fancy a group of foreign born champions at the polo match, the golf club or the race course indulging in an animated conversation in which hand gesticulation plays such an important part. Thus gloved their waving palms are bound to have all the colorful and shifting effect of a kaleidoscope.

Rheumatism Should Be Nipped In The Bud

Rheumatism in its early stages may delude you into believing that it is a disease of a purely local and temporary nature. Beyond a slight numbness of the limbs and pains in the joints or back, there may be no outward indications of it, but if you do not heed these warnings, or if you rely upon liniments to cure you, it will grow rapidly worse until you have rheumatism in its most violent form.
These symptoms, mild in the beginning but growing steadily worse, indicate that your blood is impregnated with Uric Acid, which, if not eradicated, will contaminate your entire system. The results will be racking pains in the joints, muscles and limbs, chronic stomach troubles and a sluggish liver.

The only relief is in the restoration of the blood to its normal, vigorous condition, which can be accomplished by taking S. S. S., the unfailing remedy for rheumatic troubles. Our Medical Department is at the disposal of all users of S. S. S. Swift Specific Co., 303 Swift Building, Atlanta, Ga.
