

To My Friends:

In view of the numerous inquiries reaching me directly and indirectly concerning the status and prospects of the International Shipbuilders, Inc., of which I was recently elected treasurer, I have decided to make the following public statement:

The company is composed of a number of capitalists and prominent business men of Washington, all widely and favorably known throughout that State.

The company has no stock for sale. The capital has been fully subscribed.

The purpose of the company is to build out of its own resources ships of wooden construction, equipped with auxiliary power of the Diesel engine character to sell at existing market prices. It will not construct ships on contract except for the United States Government.

Of the apportionment of stock allotted to me, I have reserved a limited number of shares, a large part of which has been taken up by certain of my friends but there is yet remaining some that may be had by those desirous of securing the same.

To those who have already seen fit to join me in this enterprise, as well as others who may contemplate doing so, I can say the same fidelity I have shown in respect to other interests and responsibilities entrusted to me by the people of this community will characterize all my efforts in the new field I am entering.

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation and thanks for the many evidences of confidence shown in me by my friends and associates of over 17 years standing in Pendleton.

I shall be here until April 30th, and in the meantime will be glad to personally explain any particulars that may be desired relative to the company and the business with which I am in future to be identified.

W. S. BADLEY.

EX-PREMIER'S DAUGHTER DOING HER BIT

MISS ELIZABETH ASQUITH

Miss Elizabeth Asquith, daughter of England's former Premier, had to learn how to typewrite to make herself useful to the Three Arts Women's Employment Fund. She did so and is here shown pounding out record time copy to boost the toy industry maintained by the fund. Miss Asquith claims to, like it, and, like all English women, doesn't mind at all "doing her bit."

CUPID CALLS; BOY STEALS TO MARRY

$8 a Week Not Enough, Takes $1,000; Jailed After Lavish Honeymoon.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Eight dollars a week, earned as an office boy in a broad street brokerage office, was hardly enough for George Well, 26 years old, 735 East One hundred and fifty-first street, to marry on.

So when the firm sent him to the bank to deposit $1,000 he hurried with it to the home of his sweet heart, told her he had made a killing in stocks, took her out and bought some clothes for herself and him, married her and then went on a honeymoon.

Detectives arrested him when he got back to New York with his bride. The money had been spent. "For once in my life I had plenty to eat and good clothes to wear."

The bride, weeping, was led out of headquarters by a friend.

Well told Captain Deevy. "You should have seen me knock 'em dead last Sunday in Boston with a high silk hat."

WARNS GERMANY OF AMERICA'S GREAT POWER

AMSTERDAM, April 13.—A warning that Germany shouldn't underestimate America's entrance into the war is made, according to the Berlin Tageblatt's critic, by Captain Persius. "The United States' military strength mustn't be shrugged at," he said. "We must not make the same mistake we made regarding Britain's military forces."

PAYS $500 FOR WIFE; 'SURE, I CAN BEAT HER'

Spouse Bought on Live Stock Basis, Like Cattle, Must Not Be Pounded, Judge Replies.

CAMDEN, N. J., April 14.—I bought that woman for $500 in gold, the same as I would buy cattle, and I can treat her as I like," declared Peter George, cyber band member, who was haled in court. The man was charged with assault and battery on his wife, who has borne him 10 children.

"The law does not allow even cattle to be beaten," said the judge. The defendant was sentenced to two months in jail.

WYOMING VANDALS TO FACE LYNCHING FOR KILLING HEROIC COLLIE

CABALLA, Wyo., April 14.—Vandals who raided several homesteads in this section face a lynching if caught, not because of their thefts and depredations, but because they killed William Martin's Collie, "Scotty," as the dog valiantly attempted to protect his master's property. Public indignation is at its height because "Scotty" aside from being the friend of every person in the community, was famous as the result of an exploit in which he was the hero in the blizzard of 1912. In the storm 200 head of Martin's sheep became separated from a herd. The dog followed the stray sheep and for three days and nights kept them together and protected them from attacking coyotes and wolves. When, on the fourth day, the missing animals were found, not a sheep had been lost, but "Scotty," although still game and vigilant, was suffering from wounds and starvation and exhaustion. "Scotty" was so weak that he had to be carried home.
