THE INFINITE.

The glory of the arching sky,
So infinite to sight,
By this brings resting to mine
eye
And still delight.

The wideness of the swaying sea,
That sense finds limitless,
A great contentment brings to me
And soothes distress.

The endless motion of the wind,
The song that cannot cease,
But makes a quiet in the mind,
And whispers Peace.

And thus my spirit, knowing
Love,
To peace and rest is brought,
So infinite is God above
My highest thought.

And after joys that have an end
There is no will to roam,
For everywhere is God, the Friend,
And Love is Home.
—William P. McKenzie.

IT MAY BE DONE

ONE of the most interesting scientific features of war development consists in the story that the invention of a wonderful ray has been a big factor in overcoming the Zepelin raids on England.

The next big development may consist in an antidote for submarines in the form of an apparatus for locating the under water boats, thereby permitting of unseen and silent attack upon the divers.

Can a submarine be made to give notice of its presence as it passes through the water and register its whereabouts to watchers on shore far away? says the New York World in an editorial. The intimation that Edison is working in conjunction with French scientists to perfect an electrical device to locate U boats at sea stirs the imagination. Science is the great detective; it catches the waves of motion set going by an earthquake thousands of miles away and has instruments to record the thoughts that pass through the human mind. But certainly neither the seismometer nor the pycnometer can match a mechanism so delicate and precise that it can note and register the noiseless passing of an invisible boat under the ocean's surface far off.

This is the very wizardry of science. That the invention is within the realms of possibility will appear entirely creditable to a generation which has known the wireless and known Edison. Assuming that it is made practicable, a certain poetic justice will attach to the fact that the country which gave the submarine to the world should provide a scientific defense against it.

VICTORY MAY BE LONG DELAYED

IF Russia remains in the war and the German submarine campaign proves unable to bring England and France to starvation there can be no other outcome to the war save a Teuton defeat and the overthrow of the Hohenzollerin dynasty.

These facts seem self evident and it is also pretty clear that in each case the developments will be favorable to the allied cause. Every day brings fresh assurances from Russia that the new democracy will continue the fight to the end. Russia's self interest calls for such continuance.

As to the submarine campaign it seems incredible that England can be brought to starvation, serious as the ship losses may be. England is able to raise much in the way of foodstuffs at home. She can also continue much of her commerce despite the divers. In addition it should be possible, if necessary, to carry important supplies by underwater merchantmen of the Deutschland type.

On the other hand Germany is shut off completely from foreign commerce. Her surface ships have no chance against the allied warships and if they did have a chance there is now no important nation to which the kaiser may turn for supplies. Under these circumstances it is logical to expect starvation from Germany sooner than from any of the allied nations.

Nevertheless the war may be long and bitter despite these conditions. The allied nations fight not for a present peace but for world security in the future. They propose to break the back of German militarism and will be satisfied with nothing else. To accomplish this may take many weary months of fighting; hence the value of thorough-going preparations by this country as well as the other nations involved.

THEIR COOPERATION NEEDED

THE water department in Portland has announced that water will be given free of cost to those raising special gardens under the campaign for increasing the food supply. Some time ago the East Oregonian suggested the merit of such a line of action by the Pendleton water board. Water for irrigation of gardens in Pendleton is an important factor in the cost of production. With plenty of water available and good prospects for a surplus throughout the summer it should be possible to extend some concessions to the gardener without curtailing revenues to any material extent, if at all. As to the local water supply it would be possible, if necessary, to conserve much water that is now wasted in the excessive watering of lawns.

If the gardening campaign in this city is to be made a complete success it will be necessary to have the cooperation of the water department.

Six feet of snow in the mountains at this time means a late season but it also means abundance of moisture for the summer ranges.

If wheat keeps on soaring it may be well for each person to secure a few grains for souvenir purposes.

The rose festival is to have a child king and queen this year; no chance for King Joy.

The fact a socialist has been named to a high position in the Reichstag shows the kaiser is slipping.

28 Years Ago Today

(From the Daily East Oregonian, May 4, 1889.)

Messrs. W. P. Matlock, J. E. Bean,

S. P. Sturris, J. H. Raley and C. S. Jackson left last evening for Portland to confer with manager Smith of the O. R. & N. Co. regarding the proposed removal of the railroad machine shops to Pendleton.

Sheepshearers in this neighborhood obtain six or seven cents a head for their labor.

Vacuqueros were numerous on the street yesterday, making ready for the grand spring roundup on the reservation.

Among the strangers who will reap a good round harvest this season is George Shurtum who has 800 acres sown to grain and banks on an average of at least 20 bushels to the acre.

Joe Eastler went home the other night a little later than usual and as he was preparing to excoerce himself in bed he noticed an object which almost made his heart stop beating for awhile. It was a man stretched at easy length across the bed, apparently in the last stages of intoxication. The individual not replying to severe shaking and yelling, it gradually dawned upon Joe that he was the victim of a cruel joke. It was composed largely of straw and rags.

That pioneers who have been in Oregon since 1860, are granted the privilege of hunting and fishing in the state without license?

That John S. Gurdane, pioneer of Umatilla county, is today celebrating his 83rd birthday?

That Jimmy McCool, former Pendleton boy, is now secretary to Commissioner Daly of Portland?

That Umatilla county is twice the size of the Kingdom of Brunswick and two thirds as large as the whole state of Connecticut?

That Fossil was so named because of the fossil deposits found there by the late Dr. Thomas Condon and that Condon, nearby, took its name from the erologist?

RECOMMENDS GRADUAL RAISING OF $7,000,000,000 WAR FUND

Reserve Board Would Offer Banks Blocks of Certificates, to Be Retired Later by Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Federal Reserve Board has recommended to Secretary McAdoo that funds to be raised under the $7,000,000,000 war finance law be obtained gradually, by offering to the banks of the country blocks of treasury certificates, to be retired later with bonds every two weeks.

Indications are that Secretary McAdoo soon will announce the offer

Inactive Kidneys Cause Disease

"I shall not soon forget the benefits I derived from the use of Foley Kidney Pills."—Al A. Gadsby, Forest Grove, Oregon.

Too much work and too little work soon to have about the same effect on persons past middle age. Proper action of the kidneys is necessary to good health. They act as a filter and remove from the blood poisonous waste matter which if permitted to remain in the system leads to many complications.

Many nervous, tired, run-down men and women suffer from pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, bladder weakness, sore muscles and stiff joints and fail to realize that rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease may result.

If you have cause to believe that your kidneys are weak, disordered or inactive you should act immediately. Foley Kidney Pills have been used by young, middle aged and old with complete satisfaction. They act quickly and surely and have given relief in cases of ten years standing.
