FRUIT JUICES FOR JELLY MAKING KEPT WITHOUT SUGAR

Enables Housewife to Distribute Purchases of Sugar and Make Many New Fruit Combinations.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Fruit juices for use later in jelly making can be sterilized and bottled without sugar and made into jellies at the housewife's convenience. This enables her to do with fewer jelly glasses and to distribute her purchases of sugar for jelly making through the year. Moreover, with the bottled juice she can make a greater variety of jellies, as juices which will not jell can be put up when the fruit is ripe and combined later with fruits that will jell, or fruits ripening at different seasons can be combined. For example, the juice of strawberries, cherries, or pineapple can be kept without sugar and later when apples are plentiful can be made into combination jelly.

From the unsugared sterilized juices of currants, apples, crabapples, and grapes, kept from 9 to 18 months the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, recently made jellies of excellent texture, flavor and color.

To put up unsugared fruit juices for jelly making, proceed exactly as if jelly were to be made at the time. Cook the fruits until they are soft and strain out the juice through a flannel bag. Heat and pour white hot into bottles previously scalded. Fill the bottles full, leaving no air space between juice and cork or seal. Place the filled sealed bottles on their sides in water near the boiling point, and keep them in the bath for about 30 minutes. Make sure that the corked or sealed end is under the hot water. As soon as the bottles are cool, cover the cork with a paraffin seal. Thorough sterilization and sealing are absolutely essential to success.

To make jelly from the sterilized juice, test its jelling quality, add the proper amount of sugar, and proceed as in making jelly from freshly expressed juice.

Raspberries.

Sort out imperfect berries, spread selected berries on trays and dry. Do not dry so long that they become hard enough to rattle. The drying should be stopped as soon as the berries fall to stain the hand when pressed. Pack and "condition."

OREGON STATE COLLEGE GETS ARTILLERY CORPS

U. S. Inspection Officer Says Efficiency in Infantry Training Warrants Additional Arms.

CORVALLIS, Ore., June 11.—Artillery and other branches may be added to the military department at the Oregon Agricultural College as a result of the United States army officer's report of inspection, May 3. The report says that efficiency in infantry training is such as to warrant the addition of these other branches.

In this connection the recommendation is made by the inspecting officer, Major C. H. Smith, that four machine guns and one 3-inch field gun with complete fire control equipment should be provided by the war department. This issue of machine and field guns would afford means of "training annually a considerable number of students in machine gun use and in field artillery which would enable many students to render valuable service later in machine gun companies and field artillery."

Military scholarships should be provided in large numbers in the form of monetary allowances for all student officers and non-commissioned officers. This is of great importance because many students are self-supporting.

The government should take active steps to supply members of the reserve officers training corps with uniforms. This year students bought their own uniforms, and because many are self-supporting this entailed an unwarranted hardship.

So important are two features of the work at O. A. C. that they are recommended to all other land grant institutions in the country—cooperation of other departments with the military department, and conducting the work on a program that constitutes a complete work book for the year. The Oregon Agricultural College is also the only one in the country issuing bulletins on military subjects.

WOMAN'S TOWN IN FRANCE

Gentler Sex of Romance Take Husband's Place. GRENOBLE, France, June 11.—A new "women's town" in the valley of the Romanche, a few miles from Grenoble, is one of the evolutions of the "munitions campaign" in France. An important electric iron works, employing 400 men before the war was called upon to trouble its peace on contracts for the government. Half its working force had been mobilized. Women from the region took the absent men's places, but for the new requirements no help was available. The minister of munitions agreed to find elsewhere women workers for the requirements but there was no place to lodge them. Exposition buildings from the Legion sample fair were shipped to the spot forming the nucleus of a new "women's town," that has developed into a modern village of nearly a thousand population, with baths, recreation grounds, and all modern comforts.

Worcester, Mass., June 12.—D. W. Fields of Brockton paid $52,200 for a five months' old bull calf at the Holstein-Friesian Association Convention's auction sale here this afternoon. It was the highest price ever paid for a bovine at an auction sale. The seller was Oliver Cabana of Elma Center, N. Y. The bull is named King Ormsby Jane Ray Apple. The previous record price was $25,000.

NEW PAIN KILLER IS DISCOVERED HERE. NEW YORK, June 11.—A new anesthetic which the soldiers may themselves apply locally to a wound in the kit of all American soldiers, according to plans of the American Defense Society. The pain killer is the invention of Gordon Edward, a San Francisco lawyer. The United States army refused to take the invention seriously, but France found it successful. Miss Annie Moran is backing the movement for its inclusion in the American soldier's kit.
