Does Prohibition Prohibit?

Some light upon the working of prohibition and the relation of liquor to crime is afforded by a comparison of the police records of Pendleton for the past three years. For instance the number of arrests in June, 1915, the last wet June, was 105. In June, 1916, under prohibition, the number had shrunk to 23 and during the June just closed, under home-dry prohibition, the number of arrests was 12, the lowest number of arrests during any month for years.

HERMISTON FIRST TO BEGIN CANNING WORK

Industrial Club Starts Putting Up Cherries This Morning.

Hermiston is the first town in Umatilla county to begin canning club work. The Hermiston canning club established the record of being the first organized canning club to begin operations in Umatilla county. The club assembled this morning at the domestic science laboratory, under the direction of Mrs. Gnan and began canning cherries.

The other communities of the county can profit by the cooperative spirit and go-to-itiveness of the Hermiston club. Many communities have responded to the call and have organized but few have taken steps to procure the jars, which can be had at cost, or the goods to can.

Hermiston in order to get started, sent to Freeewater and purchased the cherries. Other communities can do the same by getting in touch with E. W. Montell, county club leader, at Pendleton.

Mr. Montell is very optimistic concerning the action of the other clubs of the county and hopes soon to have many other girls and young women enrolled in Uncle Sam's conservation army.

DELEGATION FROM LAND OF HIS ANCESTRY VISITS PERSHING

PARIS, July 3.—Major-General Pershing yesterday received a delegation from the Alsace-Lorraine Republican Committee. Referring to the American commander's Alsatian ancestry, the vice president, M. Staehling, told the General how proud they were that a descendant of their little country had come to fight for the triumph of their inalienable rights and the restoration to France of the lost provinces. Gen. Pershing was visibly moved. He said he was most happy to greet representatives of the valiant people who had suffered so deeply because of fidelity to their country, and that he had a warm place in his heart for Alsace, the land of his fathers.

Notice to Public.

On July 4 no cars will be allowed to be parked on Main and the business district of Court street.

FRENCH DIPLOMAT FORESEES CONFLICT

PARIS, June 26.—At his home, 15 Quai de Passy, I was received by Paul Adam, patriot, diplomat, author and playwright.

M. Adam, who represented France at The Hague upon two historical occasions, is, like many able writers in France, well known to his own countrymen and too little known beyond the frontiers of his native land. Were men of M. Adam's genuine talent German, and possessed of the Germanic thirst for publicity, they would long since have been translated to the English tongue. Being French had engrossed in their work, writing earnestly with high ideals ever before them, they are seemingly content to be familiarly known only where their native language is read and spoken.

Then Paul Adam no single Frenchman more clearly foresaw the war Germany would some day precipitate upon France, nor more earnestly preached preparation against it. His many able books and plays give clear evidence that his facile pen was constantly used to further this end.

Was predicted at Hague.

"I was," he said, "one of the representatives for France at the first Hague conference in 1899 and again at the second in 1907. It was after the first, when Marshal von Hieberstein categorically refused for Germany even to consider the question of international arbitration, that my vague impression as to a relatively early war with Germany became, as it were, a reality to my mind. I then felt absolutely that Germany would when in her own estimation she was strong enough and sufficiently well prepared to reasonably secure victory through superior strength and armament, force a war upon France upon some pretext that might in itself be but a mere means to the end of conquest."

that spelled preparation. I touched upon it in some form in all my books and plays, covered it in newspaper articles and spread it broadcast as far as my voice would permit. I had many public and semi-public discussions with eminent men who were of the opinion that I was making a mountain out of a molehill. In a certain measure, I made myself unpopular as an alarmist, but my conscience told me I was engaged in a work that was profoundly attached to the continued peace of France as a world power of the first rank. "I was able to secure some small measure of success, but it was slight in comparison with the gravity of the situation as I saw it after my Hague experiences. When the war came in 1914, France was one-ninth prepared against Germany's seven-ninths."
