MOTION PICTURE NEWS

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

PASTIME TODAY.

Fox Star Employs Musicians to Play While He Acts in "Broadway Sport"; Music of Wrong Motif Synopsized Strains of Tango Dance Songs Not Suited to Vicious Acting.

Stuart Holmes, renowned villain of William Fox photoplays, has the questionable distinction of being the first man ever to get an inspiration from a Jazz Band. He hired one of these collections of musical outlaws to play while he acted his scenes in "The Broadway Sport," his latest William Fox production. Stuart felt the need of ragtime when he tried to act the part of a White Light sport. After playing the villain in countless pictures he found it difficult to affect carelessness and gaiety.

Coming to Pendleton Sunday and Monday.

Theda Bara in "Heart and Soul," a special super de luxe William Fox photodrama will be shown at the Pastime theater on Sunday and Monday. The photoplay is founded on Sir Rider Haggard's book "Jess" and is filled with thrilling action throughout.

The story tells of Jess (Theda Bara) who when a child is taken by her mother to the Hawaiian sugar plantation of her uncle. Her little sister, Bess, goes with her. En route the mother dies and exacts a promise from Jess that she will always look out for the welfare of her younger sister Bess.

Also Friday and Saturday.

Kathlyn Williams and House Peters, the two splendid Morosco-Paramount stars, will be seen at the Alha on Friday and Saturday in a production of Willard Mack's thrilling story "The Highway of Hope." The scenes of this photodrama are mostly laid in the famous Death Valley of California through which year after year hundreds of people struggle and toil in their search for gold.

COSY TODAY.

Eileen risks Her Life in Every Reel. In almost every picture in which Eileen Sedgwick has appeared recently she has come within an ace of being seriously hurt. In her latest film play, "Man and Beast," a Butterfly picture, directed by Henry McCrea, at Cosy today, she is chased up a small tree by a furious lion. He leaped and leaped to get at the raw meat hung out of sight of the camera, and scratched her badly in the process. He then retired to the foot of the tree, while the limb to which she was hanging began to part from the trunk.

It Was His Big Chance

And he took it and was kept on the run for months by gum-shoed sleuths.

Our Idea of Motor Car Comfort—Will You Be Satisfied with Less?

WHILE comfort is largely a matter of personal opinion, our idea of comfort is based on the experiences of motorists who have driven many different makes of cars.

Their remarks are interesting, especially to the man or woman looking for comfort in their next fine motor car. People are finding out that the maximum in comfort and relaxation is not obtained in driving or riding in rigid, heavy cars.

It is only resilient light weight that can reduce road shocks and ease the effort of controlling a car.

After experience with the heavy cars and the Franklin, one can readily understand why the preference is for the Franklin, especially in these days when almost every man, woman and young girl wants to drive their own car personally.

Scientific-light-weight construction has made the Franklin, in every sense, the practical car—you can drive it wherever there is a road without suffering the strain and pounding a heavy car undergoes—and the expense is about half.

As to whether your preference for comfort lies in the heavy cars or in the Franklin is, of course, for you to decide. Our suggestion, however, is to make sure before you buy.

Anticipation is never as satisfactory as realization—when it comes to comfort in a motor car.
