Special Sale of Womens Waists AT One-Half Price

We offer a special lot of Women's Voile Waists at one-half price for Saturday only. Plain blue and rose voile, finished with white collar and cuffs. Striped Voiles in yellow, blue, rose and lavender; all sizes; regularly priced from $2.75 to $5.00. SATURDAY SPECIAL ONE-HALF PRICE.

THE BARGAIN BASEMENT
Something Worth Remembering—There are many incidents connected with this department during its 2 years and 4 months operation, that have proven this a real saving department.

A Man's Suit bought during the basement opening week for $1.95 is still in Sunday service.

Also a Pair of Woman's Shoes are still giving service after exactly 24 months' wear. The price paid was $1.89.

A Long Creek Customer saved $31.50 on his list of wants that he was going to purchase elsewhere where he said the prices were cheap. "Didn't know I could get good things here at a cheap price," he told us.

An Out of Town Woman bought more remnants than she could carry away with her during last week's remnant sale. Bought enough to last her for two years. Bought for the whole family. Another remnant sale starts tomorrow.

Did Your Boy ever outgrow a pair of shoes? Well, we have a line of shoes that will hold him. They're just what their name indicates, "Rugged." There's no wear out to them. He'll outgrow them.

"We Should Worry," said one of our women customers recently when speaking of the high cost of living, and she immediately dived into her purse and bought a boys' blouse waist for 10c, a suit of underwear for 25c, a girls' dress for 40c, a pair of shoes for herself for $1.65 and a hat for her husband for $1.98.

If there is anything sold in Pendleton at a lower price than in the Bargain Basement we haven't heard of it yet. And our quality is better, too.

Your Neighbor Knows Where the Bargain Basement is. Do You?

LASSOES' RUNAWAY SAVES BOY
Lariat Hero's Deed Fills Theater and Not a Press Agent in Sight.
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Fate has a habit of making the slickest press agent that ever spun a tale look silly when it is so minded. For instance, Frank Stanley stood in front of a moving picture in Evanston exhibiting his skill as a lariat thrower. The exhibition had something to do with a wild west picture that was being shown within.

Quite a crowd had collected. A scream suddenly rent the municipality and along came a frightened steed dragging Fred Martin over the cobblestones. It was a runaway and Martin, 14 years old, was hanging on and screaming. Wis-a-g! went the lariat, slinging around the runaway horse's neck. The animal came to a stop as the lasso tightened.

Fred was saved. Frank, the lasso thrower, received the congratulations of the police. The crowd flocked into the theater, excited by the skillful exhibition. And not a solitary press agent in sight.

which is a military body, while the other is non-military. Answer to the suit will be that the United States Boy Scouts is the original scout organization in this country and the first in the world to be incorporated. It changed its name in August, 1913, from the American Boy Scouts of America. The latter, he says, is now using a federal charter and the names of prominent men "for the purpose of crushing this organization."

TROOP D SCRAPPER GIVES OLD KAISER BILL WORD OF WARNING

Private "Rattlesnake Pete" of Troop D, who has distinguished himself already as a fighter and a vocabulary expert, believes in preparing the kaiser for what is to happen. Therefore, instead of devoting his literary talents to a farewell oration to Pendleton he has employed them to indite a letter to the imperial ruler of the Germans. He has kindly furnished a copy of his epistle to the East Oregonian. Here it is:

Pendleton, Ore., Aug. 10, 1917.
Keiser Wilhelm Der Gross.
Ruler of all the Heines, the King's Palace Berlin, Germany.

Dear Keiser Bill:
On this momentous occasion it behooves me to take you into my confidence, for the reason that I note that you are attempting to condole your subjects into the belief that the entire of Uncle Sam into this struggle of which you are the chief instigator, is not of serious moment. I want you to know that I have your interest at heart, and hence am taking the liberty of writing you at this time.

In the first place, I want you to realize the fact that once Uncle Sam is aroused there is little likelihood of his quitting until his end will have been accomplished. Why, Bill, as a matter of fact it could not be otherwise. Uncle Sam always has been in the right, and even though you may attempt to put on a bold front and pretend that you are in the right this time, away down in the bottom of your heart you know better. And although your cause may prevail for a time, as our old friend Abraham Lincoln once remarked, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, and you can fool all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

No doubt you understand by this time that while it was possible in the past to lead the people into the belief that Monarchies are all right, and appointed of God, you have I am sure, become to feel as do all other progressive people that civilization is too far advanced now to hoodwink the people into a belief of this kind much longer. True it is that Monarchies are all right, provided the head of the house proves to be the right sort of a fellow, but you know, Bill, that there has only been about one out of every dozen who has proven to be the right sort of a fellow. Take your own kinsmen of the House of Hohenzollern as an example: Frederick the Great, of course, was a very able leader, but my dear Bill, just take a look at his successor, William the Fat. He was a joke and you will have to admit it. And too, just look at that son of yours, the Kaiser. He couldn't lead a horse to drink let alone a nation successfully. Yet you have the audacity to attempt to conquer the world, and then after you are gone, pass the whole cheese over to him as your successor. Seriously, Bill, you don't think Uncle Sam would stand for that do you? And so it is. I could go on indefinitely calling these instances to your attention, but it is really unnecessary for me to do so. We all know that your whole idea of government is a joke, and you are aware of it, too.

You overlooked one or two things when you insisted on Uncle Sam getting into this struggle. For instance, you forgot that he has more resources than you and your allied cohorts put together, and you know that you can't kid yourself into the belief that the matter of resources is not an important item, and then too, you must have forgotten that he has about 10 million of the best fighters in the world. Oh, yes, I know that they are not prepared to deal you a knockout blow right off the bat, but just let me remind you that since Uncle Sam has the resources, and the inclination to get these men prepared to fight, you may rely on it that it won't take long now that the fur has been rubbed the wrong way.

You see the crux to the whole situation is this: There is a whole lot in this world that you have never seen nor heard about. For instance, I don't suppose that you know there is a place in the world by the name of Pendleton, Ore. In fact I doubt whether you have ever heard of the town they call "Let 'er Buck." Yet, almost every one else in the world knows of the place and has heard of the Round-Up. And so it is I say that your scope of knowledge is exceedingly limited and the things that you do know are pretty much out of date. Well, to make a long story short, when they start to do things in Pendleton they always put things across in grand style. Not long ago Uncle Sam floated a Liberty Loan and do you know, Bill, that little city alone subscribed approximately $600,000 to that loan, and all because of the fact that these people here desired to give you a punch in the jaw. And then again came the Red Cross Drive, and strange as it may seem to your comprehensive mind, da' gum my cats if Pendleton hadn't raised her portion of the money even before the main drive had started. And they did this, Bill, because they wanted to give you another punch. But that's not the worst of the whole business, and right here is where they are going to get your goat for fair. We have organized here a bunch of those Rough Riding Fiends who have put the Round-Up on the map, and they are leaving in a few days for the express purpose of chasing the procession when it heads into Berlin, and when they do start just take a hunch from me, Keiser, and get your little Heines out of the way, and by all odds don't forget to hide yourself. If you ever had seen the Round-Up and had seen those Hungry Hounds do things on a big scale you would have some idea of how long you or your Heines would last once those fellows get on your trail. And that's why I am giving you the hunch to begin to pull up your horns while the pulling is good.

If you don't, by all odds, don't be surprised when you hear those boys shout through the streets of Berlin, "Let 'er Buck!"

Yours in all sincerity,
RATTLESLAKE PETE.

Deputies Declare Runaway Lovers Are Infatuated.

SPOKANE, Aug. 8.—Deputy sheriffs who succeeded in taking Edgar Var and Natalia Haynes Saturday night found them in one another's arms ready to fight to the death for one another. Var is in the county jail and the girl in the juvenile detention room.

The infatuation of the young couple for one another impressed the officers and they hope the lovers will be permitted to wed. Var faces an abduction charge. Miss Haynes, who is a pretty 16-year-old girl of Kiesel, is held by the juvenile authorities.

"The young couple are certainly infatuated and we felt sorry for them," said Deputy Sheriff Clarence Long. "When I caught sight of them coming across the field to their hut of boughs on the old California ranch they were embracing one another and had their heads together."

"The girl stood in front of Var when we appeared and he drew a gun. We finally had the girl throw the gun down. She was ready to fight for him and we could only separate them from one another by force."

"We learned they had no bedding and only some bundles of grain at their hut. They went into the hills during the day and hid away or secluded food."

"The boy seemed to think they could live there as long as they liked. He finally broke down when taken to jail and said he loved the girl and she loved him and they ran away."

Var was not inclined to talk yesterday at the jail.

WEEKLY SINKINGS BELOW THE AVERAGE

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Some falling off in the loss of British merchantmen is noted in the official summary issued this evening. Eighteen British vessels of more than 1600 tons were sunk while no fishing vessels were lost.

FLYING TEACHER KILLED

Captain Ralph L. Taylor, instructor in aviation to the hundreds of young men learning at Mineola, Long Island to fly in France, was killed Thursday when his airplane dived to the ground from a height of a thousand feet.

The figures of merchant tonnage sunk by submarines and mines given by the Germans are known to be inaccurate, said Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, in the house of commons today. The government, however, has no intention, at present, of changing the form of the weekly statement.

The admiralty report of the previous week showed twenty-one British vessels of more than 1600 tons sunk, three of less than 1000 tons, and one fishing craft. The average weekly sinkings of vessels over 1600 tons is 21.

Both the young men were scratched and bruised. The car was badly damaged. Both front and rear tires on the right hand side of the car were punctured when the car skidded slightly, causing it to turn over.
