The Weakly Bulldogger

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1917.

Reward!
The placing of a price of $1000 on the labor, dead or alive gives the Bulldogger a happy hunch for ridding the world of another nuisance. We will pay forty kopeks for the delivery of Kernel Wood, dead, into our clutches. We say Kernel Wood, dead, because the old fossil hasn't given any indication of life these past thirty years.

To the Cowboy Trooper.
Your cowboy aint no diplomat. His manner's more direct. While statesmen ponder at the gates, He'd have the damned place wrecked.

Buff is Some Noise.
We have this story direct from Cheyenne where Buffalo Vernon was sojourning for a time this summer. A stranger entered a hotel and, after registering took a look around.
"Ah," said he to the clerk, "You have a fountain concealed someplace here. I can hear it splashing."
"You're all to the wrong," repeated the clerk, "that's Buff Vernon drinking his after dinner coffee."

Oh Sharper Than a Serpent's Tooth.
The society editor of the East Oregonian the other day referred to a prominent Pendleton lady as "one of the clever and original matrons of the city." On the surface, that phrase seems complimentary but a careful analysis will show that it contains hidden poison. How could a lady be one of the original matrons of Pendleton without being one of the oldest inhabitants? And the lady in question prides herself on her youthful appearance.

Before Her Day.
A woman from the backwoods came to Pendleton last week to make her yearly purchases. Among other things she needed a half dozen pairs of shoes for her children. The war prices of shoe leather made her do some tall figuring and she kept constantly asking for something cheaper.

"Would you care for some sandals," the clerk finally asked her.
"I dunno what they are," she replied.
The clerk showed her a pair and explained that they could be worn without stockings. "You will remember," he said, "that sandals were worn in Biblical times without stockings."
"It must ay been afore my time," she said. "I'm only 38."

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Quinn's Experience Ought to Help You Over the Critical Period.

Lowell, Mass.—"For the last three years I have been troubled with the Change of Life and the bad feelings common at that time. I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headaches or pain. I must say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy any sick woman can take."

Other warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness.

What Do You Say To This?

"Can a man in Oregon legally marry his widow's sister?"
The general offhanded opinion of the majority of Pendleton authorities is that he can. We have propounded the question, which was first propounded to us by W. Kirkpatrick, some dozens of times and, in almost every instance, we have been advised that a man can marry his widow's sister, yet no one has yet been able to explain just how such a union could be brought about. Personally, we believe it would be a grave undertaking.
County Clerk Bob Brown, who is the official custodian and is supposed to know to whom he can legally issue a marriage license, showed no hesitancy in his answer. "Sure he can," he said. "It has been done plenty of times." We put the question up to the county judge and he was equally positive. "You bet he can," quoth the judge, "if he can find someone to perform the ceremony."
Rev. R. E. Clevenger said, "Why not?" and the other ministers declared they had no conscientious scruples about performing such a ceremony.
"I'd try it once," said Tom O'Brien, District Attorney. Reator says there is nothing in the law to prevent it, so there you are. Think it over. The information may come in handy if you are ever reincarnated.

Last week we had occasion to quote a "23 Years Ago" item to the effect that the Weston Leader has suspended for lack of support and to express the wish that history would repeat itself. Look what we provoked from Kernel Wood:

"We look for the Bulldogger ed. to be suspended too, some day—if he meets the fate such reprobates deserve—but not for want of support. It will be because of support—hempen in composition, and with a large body of the respectable citizens, he has outraged in his villainous sheet wildly cheering the spectacle. We nominate Charley Marsh as Judge Lynch and Jim Estes as hangman. Personally we will appreciate a cordial invitation to attend."

FIRST FOOD SURVEY RETURNS COMING IN FIRMS REPORTING PROMPTLY: LEGAL PENALTY PROVIDED FOR DELINQUENTS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Even before the final date set for returns on foodstuffs held by commercial firms, for the federal food survey, reports from more than 150,000 dealers were in the hands of the bureau of agriculture, which has been charged with carrying out the provisions of the law requiring the survey. Officials conducting this war emergency measure say that they are greatly encouraged over this showing.

Returns Required by Law.
Even with the excellence of the early returns, the department calls attention to the fact that all firms called on are required to fill out and return the schedules, and to do so promptly. The law providing for the food survey is mandatory and in order to carry out its intent and purpose, the bureau of markets is insisting upon a 100 per cent response. While officials say that they would regret involving the penalties provided for in the law, they point out that delays can not be permitted to defeat the purposes for which the legislation was enacted and that they will not hesitate to employ all the powers which the law confers to combat negligence.

In no case will willful refusal to make returns be tolerated. The department does not expect to have to resort to compulsion, but it is prepared to do so if it should become necessary.

Firms Which Must Report.
Firms handling any of 12 specified items are required to report, under such classifications as grains, grain food products, meats and meat products, fish, dairy and related products, vegetable fats, sugar and canned goods. They must give quantity on hand and in transit from the reporting firm.

About 100 types of business are enumerated, embracing it is thought, all dealers handling the food items asked for in the law, they point out that delays can not be permitted to defeat the purposes for which the legislation was enacted and that they will not hesitate to employ all the powers which the law confers to combat negligence.

Williness Shown.
So far, most of the responding firms not only show williness to make the returns, but are willing to help them help otherwise in the food situation. Response by letter, telegram, and telephone have indicated a widespread interest in the survey, and show that the firms reporting were anxious to cooperate fully with the department in making the inventory a success.

MORE BEANS: PRICE GOES UP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Beans take their place this year as one of the country's most important and valuable crops. Forecast of production in the 5 important bean-growing states Michigan, California, New York, Colorado and New Mexico, announced by the department of agriculture today in a special report, shows 19,849,000 bushels, compared with 8,846,000 bushels last year and 10,321,000 bushels in 1915.

More than 1,500,000 acres were planted to beans in those states and
