AMATEUR COWBOYS WHO MAKE GOOD RIDES WILL BE GIVEN PURSE OF $5.00 AS CONSOLATION

Consolation purses of $5 each were voted by the board of directors last night to all amateurs and beginners in the bucking contest. This is the chance for the young buckroos to get in and get next to the riding game and at the same time get some money for it. Every young cowboy or beginner who enters the bucking contest this year for the first time or those who have ridden before and give promise of making riders, will be given $5. These winners are to be selected by a special judge who will watch the riding for Thursday, Friday forenoon and Friday afternoon. He will pick out between ten and twenty of these boys and give their names in to the secretary who will announce them on Friday night before the regular judges announce the names of those who make the semi-finals. Should any one of the consolation purse winners make the semi-finals he will be given an added purse of $10. The conditions are: The cowboy must ride with class, wide open, straight and stick and get every buck out of the horse. Being thrown or pulling leather does not disqualify him for the $5 purse. It is the spirit and way in which he goes to it that is going to count. Too many of them are beginning to ride close, hug the saddle, stick their spurs in the cinch when they think the judges are not looking and do everything they can in order to stick out. The Round-Up desires to eliminate such riding and at the same time encourage real championship riding. No beginner will ever get in the semi-finals even if he rides close and stinky. Champions are those who ride wide open and take their chances, making a pretty ride and getting all there is to it. Every one of the beginners and amateurs who ride that way this year will get $5, whether he is thrown or not. It is the spirit that is going to be judged and not the ability to stick on.
