

Men's Suits of Quality

For men who like to keep near the old-time level of price without denying themselves any of the niceties of good tailoring, who want fabrics of pure wool and the fitting and wearing qualities which skillful scissors and painstaking needles can put into fabrics of pure wool, who know that these standards are safer in the hands of the nationally known maker, with a good name to maintain, than in the hands of the unknown maker with no reputation to lose if he yields to the tendency to nibble away at quality.

For such men we announce a complete showing of suits and overcoats tailored for us by

Hart Schaffner & Marx

BIG LINER SUNK IN 4 MINUTES.
Survivors of Minnehaha Tell of Bravery of Officers.
ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 27.—The big Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha, sunk by a German submarine Sept. 7, went down in four minutes after being torpedoed, according to Harry Clark, a veterinary surgeon who arrived here today. Clark said the sinking occurred in Hantay Bay. He learned the story from survivors.
Tales of heroism by Captain Frank Claret, commander of the Minnehaha and other officers were related by survivors, Clark said. Chief Officer Albany died while aiding members of the crew struggling in the water, after he had given his life belt to a disabled fireman. Capt. Claret, Clark said, rescued several men by plunging overboard and swimming with them to safety. He desisted only when overcome by exhaustion and was rescued.

U. S. AIR FIGHTERS ARE GROWING WINGS

FLEDGLINGS FROM AMERICA FAST LEARNING TO SOAR IN FRANCE.

Early Birdman catches His Coffee and Rolls at 4:30 and Then Hustles Until 10 O'clock at Night.

BY J. W. PEGLER.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS, France, Sept. 27.—(By mail.)—Tucked away in the obscurity of France where even the war news filters through several days late, Uncle Sam's fledgling air-fighters are beginning to sprout their wings.
You will find them in two big French aerodromes—men of the army and navy and Americans of the French Foreign Legion who have temporarily expatriated themselves to learn flying.
The early bird-man catches his coffee and rolls at 4:30 a. m. and from that time on until 10 o'clock at night—in good weather—his hazardous day is crowded with lectures and study.

Rest Time Not Used.
The daily schedule calls for three hours rest between noon and three o'clock. Sometimes a fellow gets a chance to sleep in this period but more often he spends it propped up in his cot studying the whys and the wherefores of the spiral spin.
Uncle Sam sends the aviation field lent an aviation field at all just now. Engineers are working there putting barracks and hangars or buildings, the necessary railroad spurs with the aid of a band of complacent German prisoners. Pretty soon now, if the officials and the people at home come through with the material, this field will be one of the greatest aviation bases in the world. But the flyers can't wait so they're learning with the French.

One Class Has Graduated.
Take the army and navy men's school. These men were picked because of their unusual qualifications and sent over here to France to study flying with experienced French air-fighters. Already one class of navy men has graduated from the preliminary course of flying and passed on to the second course, where they will learn to handle the big machines which drop bombs and the fleet little craft which do the fighting.

Mingling with the American soldiers and sailors are other Americans in blue uniforms, the uniform of the Foreign Legion, who flocked over here, confident of learning somehow, somewhere, the flying game more quickly than they could at home. They will be ready with the rest, when the time comes to fly before the American trenches and stifle the enemy's gas.

High man's hair and poor man's son, and the restless athletic hero of a season ago are mingled together, taking the same course, living under the same discipline.

Double Control Used.
The new student goes up in a plane with a double set of control levers," said a young lieutenant, the son of a former mayor of New York. "If the student makes a mistake, the French pilot sitting behind him gives a hand signal for the student to let go of everything. Then the pilot works the plane with his own levers and if that's too late he can prevent accidents. The double control lever saves a lot of fellows from—getting hurt."

But people will get hurt despite the control system. Students at this school can point out two spots on their flying field where two American naval flyers fell to their death while learning. And farther down the field, behind a big hangar, there is a pile of three or four junked aeroplanes, broken in minor flying accidents.

French officers admire the American sense of discipline. Here is an instance that the whole camp will remember. The pilot instructed his student to "see a straight course no matter what lay ahead, because a green pupil is liable to upset his machine by attempting to turn. The pupil obeyed and crashed into a tree. Both occupants of the machine had slight injuries but the instructor was satisfied he had a man of nerve.

Look on the bright side. The income tax has come down to the newspaper men.—Paterson Call.
