Frank Stopped the Bell.

Frank Nudo, Italian former resident of Pendleton and who is now located near Stanfield, had a thrilling experience dodging O. W. R. & N. passenger train No. 17 Saturday. He was driving a new auto truck and was preparing to cross the track at Stanfield just as the westbound passenger train came along. The warning bell was ringing but Frank did not hear it and was almost upon the track when he learned of his danger. He had but one chance for escape and he took it. Swinging the truck to one side he headed straight for the warning bell and proceeded to demolish the bell and post.

Was Spokesman for Farmers.

C. L. MacKenzie, president of the First National Bank of Colfax, Wn., was here today on a visit with G. M. Rice, executive head of the First National Bank of Pendleton. Mr. MacKenzie was with the northwest delegation that went to Washington in hopes of securing an equitable price for northwest wheat and he was the spokesman for the committee when it called upon President Wilson. A 10-minute interview with the president was had. In reply to the committee the president spoke in a manner that showed considerable knowledge of the food situation. The committee succeeded in getting a higher price for northwest wheat by first getting a statement from the shipping board that the board would be able to handle grain by ship out of northwest coast cities. After that fact had been made clear to Herbert Hoover the agreement for an advanced price here provided easy.

Another Newcomer.

A new addition to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson of Butler Creek, arrived Saturday. The mother is in Pendleton with her new baby.

Word was received here today by the Commercial club that James W. Gerard, formerly American ambassador to Germany, cannot make a trip to Pendleton owing to the fact his itinerary is already arranged. He had been invited to make a speech in this city but the message received shows it impossible to comply.

Grocery Well Insured.

It was learned today that the proprietor or proprietors of the Specialty Grocery, burned by incendiary fire recently, was insured for a total of $2200. Fire at Gas Plant.

Neighbors living near the Pacific Power & Light Co.'s gas plant last evening noticed a small fire burning in the main line to the gas plant of the Pacific Light & Power Co. and notified the workmen at the plant who soon extinguished the blaze by use of chemicals at the gas plant. The damage done was very slight and no fire alarm was turned in. The fire is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

Red Cross Must Handle.

The local Red Cross organization has received a letter from C. D. Stinson, manager of the northwest division of the Red Cross, in which attention is called to the fact that complaints are made that parties making up Red Cross supplies have been selling them at private sale. Any such business is strictly prohibited and whenever evidence can be found of such activity the United States attorneys will prosecute. It is because all supplies must be accounted for that it is required that all knit goods etc. be returned to Red Cross headquarters and handled through that channel.

Wid Pll Sued for Divorce.

Ignatius, the Indian better known as Wild Bill, has been sued for divorce by his wife, Hattie, and she asks in addition the custody of their three children, $1000 suit money and $25 a month during the minority of the children. She accuses Wild Bill of being unfaithful and cruel. He was convicted a year ago, she alleges, of cohabiting with Susie Joe and spent six months in jail. Instead of learning his lesson she alleges he has been associating with Alice Paul, another notorious Indian woman. The plaintiff alleges that Alice one day threw rocks at her when they met on a public highway. James A. Fee is attorney for the plaintiff.

An order was made today by Circuit Judge Phelps in conference with a stipulation of property rights entered into by Hattie and Paul Sailor who are principals in a divorce suit. DEMANDS MADE FOR MORE PROTECTION AGAINST AIR RAIDS

LONDON, Oct. 1.—There are vigorous demands for defenses, following the five air raids over London last week. A general demand was made for more anti-aircraft guns and a more complete system of warning signals. The public accepts the air raids as inevitable and likely to occur any moonlight night, but there's considerable dissatisfaction over the inability of their defenses.

The Weakly Bulldogger

MONDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1917.

An Explanation.
There was no Bulldogger published last week. There had been so much bulldogging in Pendleton during the Round-Up that we figured the suffering public would enjoy a rest from the sport.

A True Son of the Devil.
Mike Hastings of Medicine Hat, Canada, is the new champion bulldogger of the world and we have made arrangements with him to take a fall out of Kernel Wood in the event we are called to war. Mike told us he couldn't bulldog anything that didn't have horns but we assured him that the kernel has both horns and a cloven hoof. We might have added, too, that he has plenty of lips.

A Gas Attack With Each Slave.
Major Moorhouse says he has discovered the secret of the raise in barbering prices. The war is responsible, he says, but not in the way most people believe. He says the barbers are forced to charge higher prices because of the extra time they take in explaining to their patrons all about submarines, air battles, curtain fire and trench warfare.

A Narrow Escape.
When searching for a clue that would help uncover the identity of the person supposed to have set fire to the Specialty Grocery, the deputy state fire marshal found an old hat lying in the back alley. He pounced upon it like a duck on a June bug.

"Ah, ha," he chortled, "the lid of the culprit flew off in his haste." The hat bore the Bond Bros. trade mark on the band and the officer took it into the store to ascertain the name of the buyer. Charlie Bond looked it up and found the hat belonged to John Hamley, Jr. Young John might have been looking up an alibi if Charlie hadn't volunteered the information that John had tossed the hat into the alley after purchasing a new one.

Camouflage at Home.
Our friend Clark Wood has learned so well.

The camouflage of diction That one can scarcely find the truth In all his wordy fiction.

A Whoop for Jups.
The Bulldogger's veteran poet, who writes under the nom de plume of Silver Gray, was inspired to whang his lyre because old J. Pluvius refrained from opening his floodgates until the Round-Up was over. He praises him thusly:

Here's many thanks, our dear old Jups,

For balmy days you gave us.

Had you not done the proper thing Why, salt would hardly save us.

Such balm was never seen before Nor yet such gentle Zephyrs.

'Twas most propitious for our bulls.

Overland and Willys-Knight Automobiles

THE WILLYS-KNIGHT
You will concede the luxuriousness and beauty of this car without argument. Its practical advantages finally determine its purchase. The motor has no equal—no near approach in any similar cars selling for so moderate a price or for hundreds of dollars more. It is a Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor—12,000 produced last year and giving the most remarkable satisfaction. Everybody knows that nothing has ever seriously challenged the noiselessness of this type of motor. It has the softest "purr" combined with greatest power for its size. Its velvet smoothness puts all other motors of like power to shame.
