OVER THE NORTHWEST

EUGENE, Oct. 30.—Another effect of the war will be to raise the position in life of the meek and lowly west coast clam.

Dr. C. H. Edmondson, of the zoology department of the University of Oregon, today came to the aid of the uncomplaining bivalve with the statement that it is in the same class with the aristocratic oyster as far as palatability is concerned.

Dr. Edmondson, who spent several weeks on the coast studying shellfish, said today there are seven varieties of mussel clams along the shores of Washington and Oregon. Edmondson and other coast scientists are now engaged in the intensive study of clams, in order to help intelligently in cultivating them. Within the last few years, razor clams, a particularly desirable variety, have been growing scarce.

Hockey Assn. to Meet.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 30.—A special meeting of the Pacific Coast Hockey association opened here today to discuss the prospects of a hockey league in Washington, British Columbia and Oregon this year.

Today's session is preliminary to the annual meeting which will be held in Vancouver next month when schedules will be arranged and definite plans made.

Try for Training Camp.

CAMP LEWIS, Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 30.—Men from the regular army, the national guard and the new national army here today are filing applications for admission to the officers training camp which will open here January 5, 1918.

Six hundred men will be put through an intensive training and give on commissions for the new national army.

The national army is short of commissioned officers. This shortage is particularly noticeable here. Some companies of 250 men have only one second lieutenant to command them.

Soap Makers Lack Cans.

PORTLAND, Oct. 30.—Pacific northwest soap manufacturers are being forced out of business because they are unable to buy cans in which to market their products, while the average housewife throws away valuable baking powder and baking tin, soapmakers claim here today. They are organizing a movement to prevent waste of old cans.

Men's Clothing Simpler.

PORTLAND, Oct. 30.—Good-bye frills, so-long belts and cuffs. Men's clothing is to be simpler—must be plainer to save cloth and wool. This today is the claim of Portland tailors.

The demand for uniforms has reduced the amount of material available for civilian use. Elimination of waste and unnecessary adornment must follow.

Will Have Fox Farm.

DILLON, Mont., Oct. 30.—Fifteen pairs of black fox—valued at $5,000 a pair—are expected to arrive here any day now from Prince Edward Island in eastern Canada. John Hohme is to be the proprietor of Montana's strangest venture—a fox farm.

A tract of land 15 miles from here has been prepared for the fox. A fence under which the animals cannot dig or over which they cannot jump has been erected. It cost $10,000. Hohme, backed by Butte capitalists, expects to reap a big profit from raising the animals.

THEATER ADMISSION TAX IS IN EFFECT ON AND AFTER NOV 1

Local Houses Will Not Raise Price of Admission But Each Person Pays Tax Direct.

(By Guy Matlock.)

On November 1st the theater admission tax goes into effect. It involves everyone to the extent of about this tax as possible. In order to help you understand it more fully, we print a paragraph of the law which will give you the requirements of the tax in plain English.

Section 100 of the law requires a "tax of 1 cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for admission." Anyone admitted to a theater on a pass must pay the tax which is charged on the admission tickets, just as if he or she had bought an admission ticket.

All five cent tickets are exempt from the tax, this naturally eliminates tax on children here in Pendleton except where the admission for children is more than five cents. The management of the local theaters will in the future when ten cents for children was formerly charged make the admission price nine cents, giving the other one cent to the government. The law further reads that children in no case are to pay more than 1 cent admission tax, no matter if the admission to theater is one dollar. This means that if children's admission to any picture or vaudeville show was more than ten cents their government tax would still be only 1 cent.

The adult tax is as follows: If you are going to a picture show that charged fifteen cents admission you would pay fifteen cents for your admission ticket and two cents for your government ticket. If the admission charge was twenty cents you would pay the government two cents also. If the admission was twenty-five cents you would have to pay the government three cents besides your regular admission price, and so on up the line. For each admission charge or fraction thereof you pay 1 cent more government tax. If the admission price was fifty cents you would give the government five cents.

The law also reads: Above all things put this tax fairly and squarely before your patrons. Your patrons must be told—the government requires this.

There is a five hundred dollar penalty against the owners of motion picture theaters or other amusements who fail to collect this tax and turn it over to the internal revenue commissioner each month.

Here is the ending of a letter from the National Exhibitors' League: The war tax is a national necessity in the present crisis. Treat it as such. Don't raise a howl that it will put your theater out of business. Be rightly glad you are not lying in a field, muddy trench and swing in to line for the United States government. Above all acquaint your patrons with the way this tax works. No red blooded American citizen is going to kick on paying an extra few cents to Uncle Sam to help bring the war to a successful end. We don't believe anyone is going to stay home from the motion pictures simply because Uncle Sam requires that they dig a little deeper into their pockets.

Just now the German militarists are energetically engaged in making a showing at home.
