FARMERS CAN GET MONEY ON WHEAT WITHOUT INTEREST

Houser, federal grain administrator, wired to his Portland office today that he has completed arrangements whereby farmers can get money for wheat immediately. The recent embargo on wheat shipments to southern Pacific water terminals practically stopped grain movement, prevented farmers from realizing on their crop and worked great hardship on some. SALEM, Nov. 13.—Senator Charles L. McNary announced today he will leave Thursday for Pendleton and other eastern Oregon points to investigate the effect of the grain embargo. He will also give some time to looking into irrigation projects and to investigating the proposed Hermiston cantonment site. Last week Senator McNary telegraphed Herbert Hoover, food administrator, urging that relief be given farmers who are prevented from shipping their grain to market by the government embargo. He suggested using the revolving fund created by the food administration bill to purchase wheat and make a substantial advance payment. Since then Senator McNary says, he has learned that some farmers are forced to borrow money on wheat paying as high as 10 per cent interest. In addition to personal investigations, McNary wired to commercial bodies in all wheat growing counties to furnish him information on existing conditions. This information will be presented to the food administration in support of his request for the government to purchase wheat. If not feasible for the government to buy wheat, McNary said he would endeavor to get relief for the farmers by means of improved transportation and milling facilities.

(ED. L. KEENE.) LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Bolsheviks claim a full and complete victory at Petrograd, according to this afternoon's dispatches. The communists proudly announcing the entire defeat of Korniloff's and Kerensky's troops were received. The radicals call Kerensky and Korniloff counter revolutionists. The arrest of Kerensky has been ordered. Caucasus front armies representatives have adopted resolutions opposing the Bolsheviks. Leon Trotsky issued the following proclamation: "Kerensky is retreating. We are on the offensive. The bourgeoisie endeavored to separate the army from the revolution. Kerensky has endeavored to break the revolution by Cossack-Dom force. Both efforts failed. The country sees the workmen's soldiers' council isn't a passing phase, but an unchangeable fact. The opposition of Kerensky and of the bourgeoisie and landlords is unavailing. "Polkoffs detachments in a gallant blow affirmed the cause of the revolution of the workmen and peasants. Revolutionary Russia's workmen-soldiers' council have the right to be proud of the Polkoff detachment, commanded by Colonel Walden. "Long live revolutionary, democratic, socialist Russia." Colonel Mouravieff, unknown here, signed the second proclamation announcing a complete victory.
