PRIVATE HAGER SURE UNDERSTANDS WOMEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) WITH THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY ARMY, France, Jan. 21. (By Mail)—Private Hager of C Battery can understand some women and some he can't understand.

Take the little girl who waits on the station—American from the top of her golden head to the soles of her little hob-nailed field boots. Husband an officer, no children and wants to be doing things for the soldiers. So she came out to this little mid-wood of a town to put in nine hours a day standing on slippery duck-boards behind the counter.

"I can understand a girl like her," said Private Hager. "Between us, this is the third time I've come up to the counter this evening. Last time I bought chewing gum—the who's been in the field artillery seven years. Now I'm going to have a cup of chocolate if it chokes me."

"It's a drop in the bucket, see her smile and hear her voice say 'Thank you'—as though I'd done something for her (instead of her for me)—that, I'd keep on remembering things I want to buy until the fifteen close."

"This isn't a stunt where she does two hours work every third Wednesday just for the fun of it, she's on job every day and she lives right here in the village. The Colonel and the Town Major went around to the major and shook him down for the best room in the best house in town—but it isn't much of a house."

Private Hager got a letter last night from the kind of a woman he can't understand. It was postmarked "New York" and addressed to "An Orphan Soldier." Having had no parents for several years Private Hager ranked as senior orphan of his battalion, and so drew the letter.

"It's from a society girl," he said. "I'm going to take a Red Cross course and come to France and nurse the soldiers on the battlefields. Who knows, she says, but what maybe someday I shall bandage your head with the dead and dying screaming all around us and the shells crashing everywhere and may be save your life? Who knows, dear lonely orphan."

Hager said any girl having that conception of what war is like after three years of it, must be lonely upstairs.

He wrote her a polite reply, the kind of girl he can't understand, saying: "Please don't trouble about that Red Cross course. In the first place I'd rather be tended by a man on the battlefield, if I get wounded, which in the second place, I won't be."

MR. HUGGINS' WINNING SMILE

Miller Huggins, new manager for the New York American baseball club proved by this smile that he is a optimist. He recently returned to New York from the west after a vain effort to buy players to strengthen his club. It looks now as though he would enter the first season of his New York management with a club that promises nothing better than the second division.

For the thrifty housewife who wants a better cooking oil

MAZOLA

The American woman demands quality—even when she thinks most about economy.

That is one reason why Mazola, the pure oil from corn, for deep frying, sautéing, shortening and salad dressings is now used in thousands of homes—in preference to butter, lard or suet.

And since the Food Administration asks us to save these fats the housewife is especially glad to have a cooking oil which is so pure, wholesome and economical.

Not one drop of Mazola is wasted—it can be used over and over again as it does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another.

It is as pure and sweet as the most delicate food cooked in it—and it makes fried foods more easy to digest—free from greasiness or soggy.

Use Mazola for your salad dressings, too—makes them especially delicious.

Get Mazola from your grocer in pint, quart, half-gallon or gallon tins. The large sizes give greatest economy. Also ask for the free Mazola Book of Recipes—write us direct.

You may retort that Mazola does not give extra satisfaction.

SOON OVER HIS COLD

Everyone speaks well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy after having used it. Mrs. George Lewis, Fairfield, N. Y., has this to say regarding it: "Last winter my little boy, five years old, was sick with a cold for two or three weeks. I doctored him and used various cough medicines, but nothing did him much good until I began Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He then improved rapidly and in a few days was over his cold."—Adv.

POISONED STARCH FOR SLICKERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A recipe for poisoned paste, to be used in exterminating the silvershiner or "slicker," is given by the United States department of agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 902. This household pest is variously known as the silver loach, bristled-ail, etc. It is a small insect that frequently does much damage to books, articles of clothing, or anything upon which there is paste or glue. The silvershiner always stains the light. It is the small, glistening insect that darts out from shelves and closets when books, clothing or other articles are moved. The spidery web which it scurries about when thus disturbed and its light, glistening body explain the name that has been given it. The silvershiner is one of the most serious library pests. Because of its fondness for anything of a starchy nature.
