Model of Invention.
A small working model of a vitriol machine invented by L. D. Smith is on display at the office of County Agent M. S. Shrook. The machine is for use in treating seed for smut which is one of the biggest enemies Umatilla farmers have to fight.

Formerly the seed wheat especially in this county, was treated by hand with blue vitriol or ferrous sulphate solutions. This was a long and tedious job for the men with large acreages, but with Mr. Smith's machine, one man can do as much work as four or five in the same length of time. The wheat is poured into a perforated tank which rests in a vat of the liquid. The mill balls rise in the vat and are skimmed off. After immersing, the inner tank is windlassed to a certain height from where it is tipped and the wheat or other grain poured into sacks.

The machine is also valuable for potato-dipping. Mr. Shrook says. Mr. Smith has applied for a patent and has already had several machines manufactured, at least two of which are in use among the farmers of this vicinity.

"Every Drop a Dollar" Say Farmers.

They say that rain in this section at this time of the year is worth "a dollar a drop," and at that rate, the showers of last night and today noon will mean at least a few dollars more in the farmers' pockets, for there was .04 of an inch rainfall here, and it is reported there was even a heavier percentage in some surrounding districts. It is predicted that a good soaking rain will be had within the next day or so, which would be of a great deal more value than the "messenger" shower, although every drop of moisture counts. The wind is westerly, and the weather cloudy, reported the weather observer this afternoon. The maximum temperature for the day was 70 degrees, and the minimum 44.
