GOD SAVE THE KING.

(English National Anthem.)

God save our gracious King,
Long live our noble King,
God save the King,
Send him victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the King!

O Lord, Our God arise,
Scatter his enemies,
And make them fall,
Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On thee our hopes we fix,
God save the King!

THEY WILL NOT FOLLOW SUCH LEADERSHIP

CRITICISM of America's war work will be the dominant note in the republican campaign this fall according to statements by congressional leaders, made following Champ Clark's recent speech.

The republican leaders are making a mistake, both for the republican party and for the nation. To make good on such a campaign they will have to take the role of the copperhead and the heckler. They will have to prove that as a war waging nation the United States under President Wilson has not been a success. It is something they cannot prove because their contention is not true. Despite all minor mistakes and shortcomings our war waging work is a "whale of a success" to use a Samuel Blythe term. England realizes this and says so. So do the French. The kaiser knows it and is straining every nerve to gain what he can before we get our forces fully into action.

To make their point the republican leaders will have to criticize the government not on a basis of helping but on a basis of ousting the government. They will make politics of a subject that should be above politics. They will have to break down confidence in the government at a time when the necessity of war calls for giving the administration complete confidence and support.

If they follow their announced intention the republican congressional leaders will fail. The rank and file of the republican party will not follow such leadership. The usual republican is a patriot before he is a partisan. He will not play such a game as is being staged for him. He will show his Americanism by repudiating a party leadership that does not deserve his confidence.

The republican party will refuse to become a "yellow dog."

AN END OF SNIPING

LLOYD GEORGE'S stirring appeal for an end of the sniping in the rear of the government that is fighting the war applies as much to Americans as to the British.

Urging that the government had a difficult enough task to fight the war without wasting time and energy on useless controversy and answering partisan and prejudiced charges, the Premier said:

"I really beg for our common country—the fate of which is in the balance now and in the next few weeks—I beg and implore that there should be an end of this sniping."

So complete was the Premier's defense and so just was his condemnation of Gen. Maurice in the light of the facts, that the government was vindicated by a vote of 293 to 106.

The main point is the wasteful and harmful nagging of government chiefs with their hands full of war work by partisan, prejudiced and useless charges and controversies. How much time of our own Secretaries of War and Navy, of heads of boards engaged in war work, is wasted in answering foolish charges and correcting false public impressions created by busybodies or disgruntled officials or partisan critics!

There is no question of sincere, constructive criticism or suggestions of efficiency changes. The question concerns nagging and bullying and scandal mongering by those who seek partisan or personal advantage or self-glorification or revenge.

When Mr. Asquith asked what alternative there was to an investigation of the Maurice charges by a committee of the House of Commons, C. B. Stanton, a labor member, shouted, amid cheers, "Get on with the war."

This is the answer. This is the main point. Give the heads of the government departments and of war activity boards, the generals and their aids, the chance to do the vast work required of them, with as little interruption as possible. Let them "get on with the war."

Let there be an end of sniping in the rear.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The spectacle of lilacs blooming while screaming shells fly overhead with their messages of death is one of the marvels of the front; but the lilacs of France will be all the sweeter when the invader has been driven from French soil.

Baker may have a sun eclipse all to herself but it is noticeable that our boys walloped the Baker track team to a brown finish a mixed metaphor may be permitted.

If the kaiser attacks the Italian line it will be confession he was unable to make the headway he desired on the west front.

If the Russians once get together they may find it hard sledding towards Moscow.

Some men, had they been in Lowell Gangier's place, would have sworn those two elk were camouflaged something and shot in "self defense."

In arranging your schedule for Friday do not overlook the fact it is primary election day and that your vote is needed.

The boys at the front are not downhearted; why should any one be gloomy over here.

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian May 14, 1890.)

H. J. Taylor and son hand in the following plowing record, and want to know if it can be beaten. Began on an afternoon, March 13, with two 18-inch "Flying Dutchman" Sulky plows, finished May 13 at noon, losing one day and working 47, and plowing 270 acres. They traveled one mile to and from the field, morning and evening.

Samuel Wilkinson is in the city buying wool for a Portland house, and George Davis, for Boston. The market is firm, prices range from 12 to 15 cents.

The new cow pound will be finished by Monday, and the cow-catching will then resume the work of corralling straying animals.

J. N. B. Gerking, W. H. H. Scott, and J. F. Ely, well-known Athena farmers are in town today.

A woman was seen parading the streets last evening with a double-barreled shot gun ready for use. No tragedy has yet occurred however.

WANT NINE BILLIONS FOR HEAVY ORDNANCE

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The war department today asked congress for an appropriation of six billions for heavy ordnance. This is additional to the 15-billion estimate given the house military committee last week by Secretary Baker.

General Barrette told the House appropriations committee that because of the long time required to build the big guns, most of those built under next fiscal year's appropriation cannot be delivered until a year after the contract is let. He said the need for heavy guns is not pressing because of the allies large reserves, but that the United States must prepare.

"Tank" is coming in and "Sammy" is doing in imitation. This is just as true.

Not a day passes when some group of surgical dressings makers are not busy engaged in folding or cutting work in the Federal building and a number of classes are then meeting or awaiting. Among these is a group of high school girls under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Power. They meet each Tuesday evening for an hour and a half or so, and have completed 5666 forcep sponges and 101 "4x3" compresses. The class averages about 20 girls in attendance each week. They have been decidedly faithful in their undertaking and have expressed their desire to continue class work throughout the summer.

The Washington Parent Teachers' Association will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the school. A good attendance is urged because of important business to be considered, and besides a program which is to be presented there will be a display of Junior Red Cross work.

CAMOUFLAGED SHIP AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The steamer Tecumseh, now a Standard Oil Company tanker in government service, formerly the German steamer Niagara, arrived in port last night and will go in dock at the Union Iron Works.

The Tecumseh comes direct from Avonmouth, England, via Halifax. She is skillfully camouflaged. The marking is peculiar, being of black and white stripes, smeared into each other, giving a fair representation of ocean waves.

While at Meigs wharf this morning the steamer was the object of much curious interest, the art of camouflage having been demonstrated but rarely on this coast.

Buy liberty bonds. An idle American dollar might as well be German money.
