Monday afternoon, in conformance with the change of schedule for the new week, the folding class in the surgical dressings department of the Red Cross will be under the direction of Mrs. John Thompson. As always, she extends a cordial welcome and in addition, a special request is made by the department for volunteers since the July quota from this chapter has been made double that of previous months. ance to be much smaller and many times the efforts of the instructors have been met with insufficient support. Work Monday afternoon will begin by 2 o'clock.

Mrs. J. C. Woodworth has been conducting a surgical dressings class organized to accommodate women who are unable to attend during daytime hours and the organization has been spoken of as the business girls' class.
