TENT HOSPITALS AND SMALL CAMPS

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(By Mail)—A new problem in hospital work was presented to the American Red Cross in Great Britain recently by the large number of small camps of American soldiers, particularly aviators, which have been opened in various parts of the British Isles. These camps are too small to require the installation of a large hospital, but there are frequent cases of illness or accident and the camps are generally located at points far distant from the regular military hospitals.

The problem has been met by the establishment, in each camp, of a small "tent hospital," where American soldiers suffering from minor ailments can be cared for satisfactorily. More than fifty of these tent hospitals have been set up in various small American camps during the past few weeks, each accommodating from four to ten patients. The soldiers welcome this arrangement enthusiastically, for the soldier when ill, likes to be near his friends and the men of his unit, and dislikes being transferred to a distant hospital in strange surroundings. During the recent prevalence of influenza in the camps, these tent hospitals proved a great boon.

A letter from an officer in an American camp in central England says: "Another reminder of the careful thoughtfulness of the American Red Cross came to us this morning, and while you know how I have appreciated your help, and wholehearted thoughtfulness in getting our hospital equipped, I want to tell you so in this way. I shall not try to eulogize the things you have given us. It is sufficient to say that thanks chiefly to the American Red Cross, more than 800 American soldiers here can now have as good care and be as comfortable when sick as they could be at home. We are especially appreciative of this because we previously had for a hospital only a small hut with plank beds, straw mattresses and no pillows.

The magazines, newspapers and phonograph are greatly appreciated by our convalescents, and it would please you to see our "Sun Room" this afternoon. The men are sitting in comfortable easy chairs, reading, smoking and talking rapidly. The air and eggs which you furnish are a big factor in rapid convalescence. One patient owes his life to the vaccine which you sent us last week and which we were unable to obtain from any other source.

"We had almost given up, hope of getting what we considered necessary for the proper treatment of our sick soldiers; as you know something of how the present situation pleases me. The American Red Cross has a large place in the forces helping to win the war than many of us realized before."

58 U. S. Flyers Have Downed One to Five Enemy Planes Each

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 28.—Statistics covering activities of the first American pursuit group of aviators up to Aug. 1, comprising only four of the American squadrons now in operation, show that no less than 58 aviators are officially credited with downing one to five planes. Seventeen are credited to the late Harold Gatty. The German machines downed total 59, exclusive of those of Luftberg, but they are divided officially among nearly twice that number of men, because on numerous occasions several flyers participate in a battle. The aviators credited with five victories are: Lieutenants Campbell, Richbacher, MacArthur, O'Neill, flier each; Captain Peterson, Lieut. Melser; three each, Lieuts. Mitchell, O. P. Porter, Simonds, Jones and Healy. Fourteen have two victories each, and 22, including the late Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, are credited with three each.

GERMANS STIRRED OVER SACRIFICE OF BOY SOLDIERS

BY LOWELL MELLETT, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Aug. 27.—The German command is known to be considering throwing in the class of 1920 within the next few weeks—months ahead of time. Prisoners declare there is a strong opposition in Germany to sacrificing these boys two years and a half before their time, notwithstanding the desperate need of 400,000 reinforcements, which this class will provide. Since the losses incurred on the Somme, calls have been made for more replacements than can be filled from recuperating wounded.

The People Are Through But the State Fights On

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 25.—In an American hospital in a village near the Marne a German boy of nineteen years lay waiting the attention of a doctor. His injury was not serious and he was content with what had befallen him. He smiled English, without great difficulty, and responding to questions gave his youthful opinion of affairs in Germany. Nothing he said was new, but in endeavoring to sum it up he used this expression: "The people are through, but the State fights on."

FOCH'S BRAIN BEHIND ALL ENTENTE BLOWS

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The steady, irresistible progress of Marshal Foch's plan of campaign justifies the comment in the Evening Standard that, "Now for the first time in four years of warfare on the western front we get the impression with overwhelming intensity that there is one great brain behind all the single operations of the allied armies, guiding them to one definite end, the surrender or destruction of the enemy's forces."
Today's advances are regarded as profoundly important, inasmuch as they threaten on one side the German hold on the Chemin-de-Danes and on the other their hold on Noyon. Developments in a German military leaders fully estimate but are powerless to prevent, inexorable confidence has been created among the allied armies by their continuing successes, attained with a great economy in man-power, every gain of ground having its definite part in completing the general scheme by which the Boche is to be expelled from France and Belgium.
Gen. Byng's surprise on the Ancre, ably planned and resulting in the taking of positions of essential importance, was largely effected by tanks at a very small cost. Here again it is suspected the Boche had planned a surprise of his own, which was forestalled by Gen. Byng's prompt measures and admirable organization.

Tin Hat Useful But Appearance Doubtful

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The "tin hat" at the best of times looks rather like a bad practical joke. Nevertheless, it has saved many a valuable life. Some of the old Mons veterans still regard it as an invention of doubtful utility. One day one of them was struck on the head by shrapnel and the only thing that saved him from instant death was his steel helmet. On coming round his ungrateful verdict was, "Show me something 'orrible that did. I never did like them 'tin hats!'" Tommy is now an expert in finding a use for this possession. He will use it as a mace, as a stool, a washbasin, or a weapon; and it is no uncommon sight to see a couple of eggs boiling in one of them, minus the lining, over a blazing ground fire.

Captain Alive and Well

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 27.—Captain Ross H. Back, son of Judge E. H. Back, of the superior court of Clarke county, reported dead as a result of wounds received July 19, is alive and well, according to a cablegram received today. Captain Back was reported dead by the government. Memorial services were held in the First Presbyterian church and a gold star was added to the service flag.

HUNS MUST DROP RUSSIA OR FAIL "VICTORY RECIPE"

Germanophile Swiss Paper Says Strength Must Center in West.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—How Germany may win the war is set forth in detail in the columns of the Central European Review, a weekly of New York, in its issue of August 13. Address to the French cabinet today included the "victory recipe."

which recommends supreme action now by the central powers. This can be accomplished by leaving Russia and other hundred nations in the east to their own fate and by using all available strength on the west front. The paper says, before the full force of America's strokes can be felt. Incidentally, it takes a typically Teutonic line at America's war efforts. It says: "It is not the concentration of German troops in the rear that is disturbing. It is the fact that the American aid is decidedly more valuable than one thought at first it would be. We do not believe in the 5,000,000 men announced with a flourish of trumpets by the press of the entente, but it is nevertheless true that the American troops are increasing without intermission."

from day to day. It may be that in the very near future the entente may again succeed in fortifying the Russian colossus.
"After all, though Germany has only to throw on the western front all the forces that she is keeping in Russia by evacuating Finland, Ukraine and Poland, leaving those people to settle their own problems with Russia as best they can. A radical measure of this kind would be received with enthusiasm by the German people who would therein see a chance of early victory."
"Finally, the Austrians must awaken out of their lethargy and undertake an offensive against the Italians, which will prevent the sending of troops to France."
"If Germany decides to concentrate all her forces on this one front, and if her allies help her, she will be invincible."

ENEMY BLAMED FOR POOR WHEAT YIELD
EALEM, Ohio, Aug. 27.—Enemy agents are blamed for an insect pest which has reduced Butler township's bumper wheat crop to much less than normal. The ravages of the insect have been tremendous. Last winter the farmers here remember, an aged man of German extraction, was observed wandering about the township visiting wheat fields to the exclusion of others, and apparently digging in them with his hands, as if burying something in the soil.
Political, Economic Freedom Goal.
ZURICH, Aug. 27.—The Cologne Volks Zeitung says: "We are now fighting for life or death. This war will determine Germany's future existence. The question is whether our people can have political and economic freedom."
