WHERE THE WEST BEGINS.

Out where the hand clasps a little stronger,
Out where the smile dwells a little longer—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the sun's a little brighter,
Where the snow that falls is a trifle whiter,
Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,
Out where friendship's a little truer,
Out where everything is newer—
That's where the West begins.

Out where a feather breeze is blowing,
Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,
Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the West is in the making,
Where fewer hearts with despair are aching,
Where there's more of giving and less of taking—
That's where the West begins.

Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
Where there's more of giving and less of buying,
And a man makes friends without half trying—
That's where the West begins.

"WE ARE THROUGH"

SAID Mayor Baker yesterday: "We are through with men and women who are not patriotic; we are through with those who talk patriotism but do not practice it."

The words are justified. The nation has more than three million men under arms. Nearly two millions in the battle zone risking their lives in the noblest war man has ever waged. Under these conditions there can be no pardon for those at home who fail to meet the test. They show treachery to brave men in France who must be upheld.

Be they rich or poor, high or low, there can be no tolerance for those who live in the peace and safety of this homeland yet show the white feather with reference to liberty loan purchases or other duties devolving upon the civilian.

As to this county's bond purchases there need be no fear if we may judge by the past. Umatilla county always goes over the mark. But if there are men among us able to buy who expect to refuse it may be timely to recall that the press of Umatilla county is unanimously pledged for the duration of the war to publish list of slackers whenever such lists are provided by the Patriotic Service League of the county.

THE FATE OF THE CYCLOPS

THE name of the collier Cyclops has been stricken from the official registry of the navy. This means that all hope of finding a clew to her fate has been abandoned by the officials of the department. It means that the giant collier has become one of those mysteries of the sea that seem destined to remain unsolved. Other ships have sailed from port and disappeared in the fogs and mists and shrouding haze, but none has been blotted out under circumstances that appear so unexplainable.

The Cyclops was classed as the most powerful auxiliary ship in the American navy, and was one of the largest colliers afloat. Early in January of the present year she sailed with 200 men from a South American port bound for Hampton Roads—and at once passed out of sight. Several theories have been advanced to explain her disappearance—a submarine attack, a hurricane, an explosion. One theory was that she had been captured by an enemy craft and converted into a commerce raider. The hurricane theory is regarded as the most tenable, but how does it happen that no wreckage, no piece of the decking, no spar no wooden part of the ship has been discovered?

Now, after the lapse of nearly eight months, the navy officials have abandoned hope, and the Cyclops finds a place among the gruesome mysteries of the sea. Yet time has solved other sea problems, the disappearance of Sir John Franklin's party was explained after ten years' search, and the remorseless tides may at some time cast up the grim evidence of the Cyclops' fate.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

OUR INDIVIDUAL PART

SOME observers think that the most characteristic thing about the American soldiers in France, something which astounds the enemy and excites the admiration of our allies, is the capacity of the American soldiers to do individual things and fighting. The German fights successfully only in mass formation, in organized bodies, while every American soldier has an initiative and independence of action which gives him remarkable efficiency in open fighting. They are not senseless cogs, but each is an individual working unit in a great fighting machine.

Every American at home should feel an individual responsibility and do his or her individual part in winning the war. There is not an American citizen who can not help win the war. The Fourth Liberty Loan drive, which begins September 28, offers a great opportunity for concerted action and for individual action, and the loan will be a tremendous success if each American will do his or her individual part as each American soldier in France does his part. Our soldiers deserve such support from the people at home.

The kaiser declares he has left no stone unturned to shorten the war. The kaiser let no stones of any sort keep him from plunging the world into war. He did it deliberately and there is evidence of German mobolization for war even before the Austrian archduke was killed. For the kaiser to now shriek that he is a peace advocate will get him nowhere.

There are faces missing from the string of cowboys this year but the girls and Indians could put on a good show without any white men if it had to be done.

The Germans now fleeing from Metz, Mulhausen and other enemy cities are able to get a first hand taste of what the thing is like.

The women's division Saturday morning will give a new meaning to the Westward-Ho spectacle.

The principal is responsible for the acts of his agents and the bloodthirsty murderers in Petrograd are the proven agents of the German gocernment.

The Round-Up is a good place for soldiers. It will get them used to gun fire.

28 YEARS AGO

Thirty two sacks of "Mammoth Pearl" potatoes were brought in town yesterday from Harry Mahler's farm on Birch Creek and it is claimed not one of the tubers weighs less than a pound.

L. E. Pickard returned yesterday from the Salem fair. He saw lots of people, good racing and an agricultural exhibit.

L. M. Tillard received notice from Governor Pennoyer today of his appointment to a position at the penitentiary in Salem.

A commodious new school house is being built north of town.

PREPARE U. S. ARMY FOR SWIFT ADVANCE

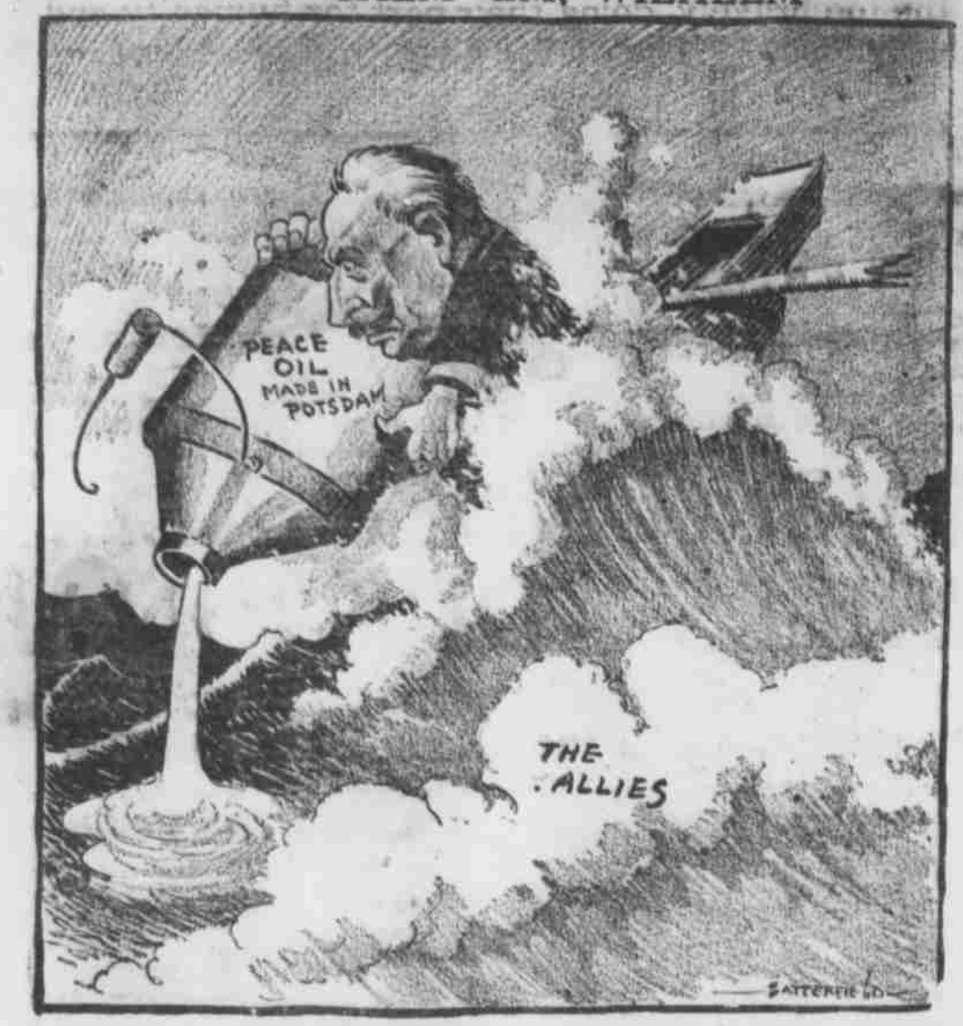
One Million Emergency Rations Ordered for Use in France.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—One million emergency rations have been ordered by the subsistence division of the quartermaster corps for the American expeditionary forces to use when they go over the top with such a rush that they breach connection with the supply line.

This ration, which corresponds to the British "iron ration," is packed in a small air-tight gas-proof envelope, and will maintain a man one day. It is composed of ground meat and wheat compressed into a cake, and a block of sweet chocolate. The bread and wheat component may be eaten dry or stirred into cold water or boiled for five minutes and made into a very palatable soup. When boiled in a pint of water five minutes it makes a porridge. It also may be sliced and fried.

The chocolate component may be eaten dry or made into hot chocolate.

CAN'T CALM 'EM, WILHELM



PERSHING IS SCION OF ALSACE HUGENOT

OKMULGEE, Okla., Sept. 18.—According to records in the possession of Mrs. Hattie L. Hagar of Okmulgee, General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, is a direct descendant of French Huguenots of Alsace, the great great grandfather of the present general having been born within sight of the Rhine.

Mrs. Hagar, who is a second cousin of the general, has in her possession the complete family tree, from Frederick Pershing, born in 1724, down to the present generation. According to this record, Frederick Pershing, great-great grandfather of General Pershing, was born in Alsace about three quarters of a mile from the river Rhine.

When Frederick Pershing came to America in 1749 the family name was "Pfoerschin," which in French meant "silk" and in German, "poarh." Some years later members of the family changed the name to suit better the English language and it became "Pershin." Isaac Pershin, a prominent member of the family added the final "g." Descendants of Frederick Pershing are now scattered through the United States.

CHICAGO MAN TO AID LIPTON IN TRY FOR YACHT CUP

LEFT—SHELDON CLARK. RIGHT—THOMAS LIPTON.

In the midst of his war work, Sir Thomas Lipton is preparing for the battle of peace. He has Shamrock IV in New York and the ship will be ready for the America's cup races as soon as the war ends. Sir Thomas is eager that Chicago sailors be represented on his boat in the effort to lift the cup from New York. So he has chosen Sheldon Clark, one of the best known yachtsmen and a particular friend, to sail on the Shamrock in the big contests.
