CALL COMES FOR PEACH STONES, NUT SHELLS FOR CARBON

One of Essentials for Gas Masks Wasted in Garbage Can.

If you want to help save your boy from German gas, save your peach stones and nut shells.

This is the word received this morning by the local food administration from the division of home conservation. It is pointed out that one of the essentials of the masks needed to protect our soldiers against poison gases is carbon and that excellent carbon can be made of material which daily goes into the garbage can and is wasted. Specified among these materials are peach stones, apricot pits, prune pits, olive pits, date seeds, cherry pits, Brazil nuts, shells, plum pits and the shells of alcherry nuts, walnuts and butter nuts. All housewives, hotels, restaurants, canneries and grocers are asked to conserve these pits and to turn them over to the Red Cross chapter or auxiliary in their community. There is a shortage in carbon and the cooperation of the public is imperative.

HELMETS MARK U. S. SOLDIERS' GRAVES

(By United Press.) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 12.—(By Mail.)—By their helmets you shall know their graves.

It's the case over the battlefield that stretches north from the Meuse over rolling hills covered with grain fields and woods.

As the German forces retired they left many dead behind. American troops following buried these Germans when they fell at the first opportunity. Usually the graves are marked with nothing but a German helmet on the fresh mound of earth.

Sometimes a cross is erected, or a cross, depending on the intensity of artillery fire in the region, and the time at the disposal of the "moppers-up." Sometimes the German helmet is on top of the cross. Once on the grave, the helmets are untouched.

The American dead were buried in groups farther back when possible. Sometimes this couldn't be done. Then a silent group of doughboys buried their fallen by the roadside. These, too, are recognized by the helmets on the fresh earth mounds, with crosses at the head, and usually a bottle stuck in the earth into which data regarding the fallen fighter was hastily scribbled and placed by his comrades. Some day it can be gathered and information forwarded to his folks.

COAL PRODUCTION RECORD BREAKING

Last Six Months' Output Accomplished in Face of War Handicaps.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The fuel administration today announced that coal production in the United States in the past six months broke all records. It was 12 per cent over the record breaking production in the same period of 1917.

Bituminous tonnage was 311,216,000 tons. Anthracite production has increased two and one-tenth per cent. The production records were made in the face of many handicaps, chiefly reduced manpower.

CHANGE IN STORE CLOSING HOUR MAY CONSERVE LABOR

Decision Left to Executive Board of Patriotic Service League.

The decision as to whether the present closing hours of all stores selling merchandise will be changed to effect a saving of labor, so far as Clatsop county is concerned, has been left to the executive board of the Patriotic Service League, according to the instruction received from the state Council of Defense this morning by secretary Chessman.

The state council never has made an order requiring all stores to close on Sunday and at 4 p. m. on week days. It merely suggested and recommended such closing hours as a means toward saving man power, but since that time a substitute resolution has been adopted in which all business men are asked to adjust non-essential industries and vocations in such a way as will release a maximum amount of manpower in the state with as little delay and inconvenience as possible. The same resolution recommends that merchandising be limited so far as possible to six days in the week and cease at 4 p. m. except Saturday when 4 p. m. should be the latest closing hour. Moreover, it recommends the substitution of women for men wherever possible.

The state council in its communication received this morning also calls special attention to the ruling of the National Council of Defense which supplements General Crowder's "work or fight" order. These regulations specify non-essential occupations and call upon all men so employed to seek essential occupation or go to war.
