LONDON PRESS HAS NO PATIENCE WITH MAXIMILIAN

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Discussion of Germany's peace offer is reflected in comments on peace proposals by newspapers here.

"In Prince Maximilian's speech," says the Mail, "there is not a word of repentance for crimes Germany has committed."

"We did not allow Bulgaria to tell us what to do. We intend to act precisely in the same way with Germany and Austria."

"If the German people wish to know what guarantees President Wilson and the allies require, they may be embodied in two words—unconditional surrender. The Germans must leave the territories they have occupied, restore the property they have stolen, pay for all the damage they have done, and surrender for trial by the allies, the great criminals of the war."

The Mail says there are about 500 of these, beginning with emperor. It also declares that Germany will in no circumstances be given back her colonies.

Huns Bargain Hunting.
"This method of approaching peace is the method of a people trying to strike a bargain, and the peace that is coming is not going to be a bargain peace," says the Telegraph.

The newspapers see a market change in Germany's attitude as to certain matters in dispute, but declare the proposals as a whole to be impossible.

"Perhaps the most welcome feature of Germany's hasty arranged move is that it can be only a measure of her military necessity," says the Times. After reviewing the chancellor's speech the Times declares, it to be "ambiguous and disingenuous stuff."

About the first thing the Missouri doughboy learned when he began the study of French was that "montre-moi" means "show me."
