Case Serious Before Reaching City.
Both Richard Cole of Flat, Missouri, and David Hubbard, of Grace, Idaho, who died in Pendleton of pneumonia were in serious condition when taken to the hospital here, say officials. It is stated that Pendleton people need not feel great alarm that the two deaths are indicative of great mortality from the epidemic in this city, as both fatal cases were probably caused by exposure while traveling on the train.

Gravely Harvested Potatoes.
Today's Oregonian contains the following tale which is accredited to Norburne Berkeley of this city: "They say" that on Hill Slusher's farm south-west of Pendleton, a tenant planted a patch of potatoes on a steep hill side where years ago used to be a sheep corral. During harvest, desiring spuds for household use, said tenant uncovered one end of a row of potatoes and that an even hundred bushels ran out

None in the County.
Under a provision of the U. S. naturalization laws a citizen of a neutral country who has taken out his first papers to become a citizen of this country if he renounces his desire to become a citizen may escape military service, but by doing so he is forever barred from citizenship. The record of defense in keeping a record of all men who take advantage of this means of escaping service and secretary Chessman has received a request for a list of those from Umatilla county who have relinquished their first papers. PORTLAND MILLIONAIRE IS ARRESTED UNDER ACT OF ESPIONAGE will lick the Kaiser; never in a thousand years, and that he said "Once a German, always a German; why should this government tell me what to do?"

Alber's alleged offense was committed on a Southern Pacific train between Grants Pass and Roseburg, according to Deputy United States Marshal Tichenor.

"I got on the train at Grants Pass," Tichenor told the United Press, "and went into the smoker of the observation car. There I saw a man sitting with an unopened whiskey bottle. I asked him where the cork was. He said it was lost. I told him he had better get the bottle out of sight, and then I left the smoker."

"Shortly after several men came to me one at a time and told me the man in question was a pro-German and that he was insulting the United States. One man said if he did not find some one to take the man in charge he would silence him by force. I told them there was a better way, and we started to get the evidence."

"I stood just behind the curtain in the compartment, for I had learned Alber knew me, and listened while he continued talking. He said several other things that I cannot recall, but never he said that Germany could win a revolution here in ten years—in two months—maybe tomorrow." He said he had served under the Kaiser for twenty-five years and that he would like to return to Germany.

The witness said he had the sworn testimony of three witnesses.

Alber, he said, was under the influence of liquor.

had made the exclamation lingered after the others had gone and with his head hanging in shame approached the captain.

"I'm sorry, Vater," he said, "but I forgot myself, and just couldn't hold it in. I guess I'm a baby compared to the rest of the fellows. Sometimes I'll be one of those times when I couldn't say anything," continued the captain, "so I just shook hands with him and felt honored to do it."

U. S. SHIP SUNK WHEN SPY GETS SAILING DATE

Petty Officer, Drunk, Gives News and Vessel is Torpedoed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—An American troop ship was torpedoed as the result of information concerning the sailing obtained from a petty officer in the United States navy by Otto Lehmer, an enemy alien, who supplied the navy man with liquor, according to a charge made by Lieutenant Murray of the United States army intelligence.

The charge was made at the arraignment of Lehmer and Miss Margaret Sullivan, his alleged accomplice, before United States Commissioner Stanton. Lehmer was held on a technical charge of having unlawfully supplied officers and men of the United States army and navy with liquor. It is stated by intelligence officers, however, that a much graver charge probably will be made against Lehmer in the near future.

At the hearing evidence was introduced purporting to show that Lehmer had intrigued either with the knowing or unwitting connivance of the Sullivan girl, to lure American officers and men into her bar and give them liquor until they talked unreservedly and supplied him with valuable military secrets.
