one that should have real attention when the time comes. It is a job that should not be botched. If something is to be done let us do it in a manner worthy of the cause. Whatever form the memorial may take and wherever it may be located it should be upon good lines and it should be something to last for ages. No mere chromo will suffice. Nor can such a memorial be provided for a trifling sum. It is going to cost real money but it will be worth it in many ways.

A PLACE IN THE SUN

Success in business depends to large extent upon management. Two business houses may start with equal advantages as to capital and trade prospects. One may surpass the other in managerial judgment, energy and enthusiasm. If so that house will outstrip its rival quickly. In time it will go far surpass the other that few would believe the two firms started upon an equal basis.

What is true in private business is, within certain limitations, true of communities. Natural advantages count heavily in community growth but unity, enthusiasm and well directed work to promote growth and development sometimes count for more. Success begets success in town building as well as in other lines.

Pendleton is a successful town. We have unity, enthusiasm and prestige. We have an opportunity for growth. There is a strong tendency on the part of farmers, sheepmen, and cattlemen to move into some commercial center, large or small, to obtain the advantages to be had there. There can be no gainsaying the fact that for such people, who are good people to have, there is no town anywhere offering better attractions than does Pendleton. We have the facilities of metropolitan life and the sociability of a town. It is a combination that cannot be beaten and we should press the fact home to those we wish to reach.

With war duties lifting and an era of reconstruction at hand the East Oregonian is enthused over the outlook of this city if our people assert themselves in a line of work they understand and enjoy.

Oregon White Pine Goes to Virginia

(East Oregonian Special.)
MEACHAM, Nov. 25.—Miss Jones went to Pendleton for a short visit this week.
Mrs. Minik returned from Baker Wednesday.
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watters went to La Grande Thursday to talk to the days of 19 staged by the Elks.
Mrs. Frank Hansen of Kamela, was here Wednesday and Thursday visiting her mother, Mrs. J. B. Baker.
John Paddock of Kamela, is here visiting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Watters.
J. D. Casey is shipping three cars of Oregon white pine lumber to a point in West Virginia.
The Red Cross continued their work on garments for the Belgian refugees; boys' suits are the work on hand at present.
Friday night was the coldest of the season.
A snow started to fall about 7 a. m. this morning and continuing throughout the day and still snowing. Depth is at present about four inches.
At the Saturday night literary meeting the questions debated were: Resolved, that the city affords more pleasure than the country. The question was well argued by both sides. J. B. Casey and Ed Walsh captained. The judges decided in favor of the country. The question for the next debate is: Resolved, that the railroads shall be taken over by the government after the war.

Baked Squash—Wash squash out in halves, put in medium oven in covered baking pan (greased). Bake until tender to try with fork. Scoop out halves of squash with sharp spoon, season with top milk, butter substitute, salt and a dash of pepper. Serve or much better flavor than when boiled in water and then allowed to dry.
Baker Apples—Select large, firm cooking apples. Pare, core, put in baking dish and cover with dressing made as follows: put 1 tablespoon of butter substitute in skillet, 1 tablespoon corn starch (or any wheat substitute), 1 cup boiling water. Allow to boil then put in 1-2 cup honey. Boil, then pour over the apples and put in the oven and bake. Do not allow to bake until apples—but until tender to try with fork. Baste occasionally. Serve hot. They are delicious with a spoon of whipped cream.

U.S. KNEW JUST WHEN GERMANY WOULD GIVE IN

CHART SHOWED DROP OF ENEMY MORALE

Indicated Zero Point Would be Reached Between Nov. 10 and 15.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Knowledge in possession of officials here of conditions in Germany during the war was so accurate that the American general staff had computed, many weeks in advance, almost the exact date on which the breaking point would be reached. A chart was hung in Secretary Baker's office which shows the fluctuations in the morale of the German nation from August, 1914, to the present month.

Assuming the German government to have had 100 per cent support of the people at the beginning of the war, the chart shows how German morale fell and rose under the influence of various factors. These influences included, not only the military situation of the armies and the results of the submarine campaign, but the different groups in the Reichstag and the economic condition of the country. So remarkably accurate was the information upon which the chart was based that the morale line reached the zero point between November 10 and 15.

Peppers and Macaroni—Cut tops from peppers, remove seeds and core let stand 10 minutes in boiling water. Chop cooked macaroni into small pieces and mix with a thin cream sauce. Drain peppers, fill with macaroni, adding a general spoonful of grated cheese. Bake with very little water until peppers are tender. Serve with tomato sauce made from fresh tomatoes pressed through a sieve with 1 tablespoon flour, into which 1 tablespoon butter has been rubbed. Salt and a few drops of onion juice may be added, but no pepper.

Broiled Egg Plant—Slice egg plant and drain then broil the slices on a dish. Season with pepper and salt. Baste with salad oil, sprinkle with dried bread crumbs and broil.

Germany Must Pay Says Former Reichstag Delegate From Alsace

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Daniel Blumenthal, who formerly represented an Alsatian district in the Reichstag, said regarding Germany's defeat.

"We must not accept from Germany the plea that she cannot pay. She can and she must pay. I believe the Germans may organize their country as they will, but from the allies' point of view it is better for them to exert their influence toward having a number of small republics instead of one."

"There is also the danger that German Austria may join itself to Germany. It is better also that Germany have no colonies, because where the German dominates he is impudent, but when he must go to foreign countries where he has no authority he will now become mixed with the population and will be the first to pray to have his German origin forgotten."

SURRENDER HUMILIATES HUN SAILORS

HARWICH, Nov. 25.—Only meager crews, just sufficient to navigate them, took out the first batch of submarines to be surrendered on their last journey under the German ensign, which was hauled down at the rendezvous. The German sailors were a sullen, dejected lot. They were eager to have the whole humiliating business over with. Few raised their eyes until they had at last boarded the German transport, Fliraventana, which is to take them back to Germany.

Two of the German officers went. Another raised his hand to "shake" with a British officer. The latter refused. The German's hand fell limply to his side. He turned away grimly muttering something in his native tongue.

As soon as the fleet of U-boats had arrived at the meeting place—first four divisions of five vessels each, then another division of seven—Admiral Tyrwhitt and a party of officers from his flagship, the Curacao, boarded the submarines, one by one, and searched them diligently for "booby traps."

It had been suspected all along that the Germans might spring a wholesale sinking, or some other trickery in the eleventh hour, but the surrender of the first batch of ships went off smoothly.

Subs Arrive Among Them.

The British commander had difficulty in getting the submarines on the part of his subordinates, but the crowds at Harwich where the U-boat fleet was turned over to Captain Addison, commanding at this port. The people here made no effort to conceal their contempt for the German sailors.

The fourth U-boat to arrive at the rendezvous was a giant-submarine, cruiser, 200 feet long, equipped with 6 and 8 inch guns forward and a powerful wheelhouse. A single British hydro plane circled over the German craft, and the two gave a striking picture of the degree to which science and ingenuity have developed navigation in this war, under water and in the air.

NEW LEAGUE FAVORS OLD STYLE SPANKING

(By United Press.)
LONDON, Nov. 3. (By Mail.)—England's "young hopefuls" are making adults turn heads.

Parents who have hitherto adopted the gentle but firm attitude and deprecated the practice of corporal punishment now begin to see that the old-fashioned form of whipping is not without its advantages.

In order to solve the "naughty children problem" there has come into being the Corporal Correction League, and members of all classes and trends are invited to apply for a free membership card, bearing the stimulating mottoes:

MAY BE SPEAKER

MARTIN B. MADDEN
He has represented the First Illinois district in the House for eight terms, and now announces that, if illness prevents James E. Mang, also of Illinois, from accepting the speakership, he (Madden) will be a candidate.

HUN WARNING POSTER

Hier sehen Euch feindliche Flieger! Hier dürfen Fahrzeuge nicht halten.

At various points behind the German lines the allied troops are finding this poster on the trees and posts and buildings, giving warning of danger from allied air raids. It reads, "Here you can be seen by enemy flyers. Don't stop your vehicles here."
