You get more than clothes here

When you come to us and buy a suit or overcoat—or anything else to wear—you get a good deal more than clothes; but you don't pay anything for this "more," tho it's almost as important—maybe more important than the clothes.

The part you don't pay for—the "more"—is a positive assurance of your satisfaction, guaranteed, or your money back.

We're really not taking much of a chance in such a guaranty, the clothes take all the risk. When you see

EXECUTE HERO BUT LET COWARD LIVE

BOLSHEVIK 'MERCY' DISPLAYED IN TRIAL

Russian Captain Executed
After Delivering Fleet
From Huns.

BY JOSEPH SHAPLEN.

(United Press Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Bolshevik "justice" killed Capt. Schastny, patriot and hero, and saved the life of Dibenko, coward, traitor and drunkard.

The stories the two men bring out so clearly the "quality of mercy" of the bolsheviks, that I relate them together.
Capt. Schastny was a brilliant young Russian naval officer. He was a socialist revolutionist of the conservative wing. When the Germans landed troops in Finland and began their advance on Helsinki where nearly the entire Russian fleet was stationed at the time, Capt. Schastny, with the personnel of the fleet reduced to 1-3 and none of the ships being ready to put to sea, was given command and requested by the sailors to do his best to transfer the fleet to Kronstadt and thus save it from falling into the hands of the Germans. For a while the sailors thought they would be unable to move the fleet from Helsinki, for in time and had begun to make preparations to blow it up. When the Germans heard of their plan they published a proclamation stating that the blowing up of the fleet by the Russian sailors would mean the execution of many of them as may be captured.

The Germans wanted to seize the Baltic fleet and this made good all the naval losses they suffered throughout the war. The only thing left was to transfer the fleet to Kronstadt. Under the able and brilliant command of Capt. Schastny this was accomplished in time.

Some three months later Trotsky, bolshevik war minister, called Capt. Schastny for an alleged conference at Moscow. As the captain entered Trotsky's office, the latter walked out, summoned a red guard and ordered Schastny put under arrest.

Schastny was put on trial. Krivenko, former commander-in-chief of the bolshevik "armies," was prosecuting attorney. Trotsky was the only witness. In a dramatic, 3-hour speech he demanded the execution of Schastny. Among other things he said:

"Capt. Schastny has performed a brave task, but like every counter-revolutionist, Capt. Schastny had no right to engage in counter-revolutionary conspiracies against the soviet government. He had no right to play with the fate of the fleet."

Sailor Interrupts.
A sailor in the courtroom could not stand for the latter.

"How about your playing with the fate of Russia?" he cried. Capt. Schastny, Russian revolutionist, hero and savior of the Baltic fleet, was executed. His last words were: "One must know how to die bravely in a revolution."

A few weeks prior to the execution of Capt. Schastny another man, high in the councils of the bolshevik government, chief conspirator of the Baltic fleet, was also on trial. His name is Dibenko. He was accused of cowardice, drunkenness and conduct unbecoming a revolutionary leader. At the trial it was proved that when sent at the head of a detachment of 200 Baltic sea soldiers to stop the German advance on Narva, in February, he got drunk, and ran away, leaving his men in the lurch. Such cowardice is certainly punishable by death, especially by any self-respecting revolutionary government. But Dibenko, the coward and drunkard, was a bolshevik. He was found guilty and simply expelled from the bolshevik party. He is alive today and is engaged in silly bragadoct and in robbing raids up and down the Volga.

Thus does bolshevik justice work.

HOUSEHOLD

SCHOOL LUNCH BASKETS MUST BE FILLED.

School lunches for the children have again become the chief thought for many mothers in the morning. It is easy enough to prepare wholesome milk dishes when the children are at home, but to find something that will pack safely in a basket or pail is another question.

The subject of food for children has become vital this year when it is realized as never before how necessary it is to provide for the coming generation. School lunches which will be economical and which, above all, will provide sufficient nourishment must be carefully planned by housekeepers.

A few suggestions of wholesome basket lunches are offered by the United States Food Administration.
Cheese sandwiches.
Orange.
Dates stuffed with nuts.
Hard cooked eggs.
Crisp baking powder biscuits.
Celery.
Prunes stuffed with peanut butter.
Baked bean and lettuce sandwiches.
Apple sauce.
Small cakes.

PLENTY OF MILK EACH DAY.

Two general maxims should be learned by the people of the United States. "Every adult should have at least a third of a quart of milk each day," and "No family of five should buy any meat until it has bought three quarts of milk."

One reason for urging the use of such milk, is that it is our best source of certain mineral salts, notably lime, which the body needs. It is as easy to use milk in cooking that one scarcely needs these reminders of different ways from the United States Food Administration.

For Breakfast.
Milk to drink in excess, on cereal, milk or creamed toast.

For Lunch Dinner or Supper.

ALL CHILDREN LOVE

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

GIVE IT WHEN FEVERISH, CROSS,
BILIOUS, FOR BAD BREATH
OR SOUR STOMACH.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When feverish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of his little bowels without ailing, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.
Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

160 HENS—1500 EGGS

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes: "I fed 2 boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and broke the egg record. I got 1500 eggs from 160 hens in exactly 21 days." You can do as well. Any poultry raiser can easily double his profits by doubling the egg production of his hens. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time. The tonic is called "More Eggs." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs," and you will be amazed and delighted with results. "More Eggs" will double this year's production of eggs, so if you wish to try this great profit maker, write E. J. Hooper, poultry expert, Dept. 145, Hooper Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., for a $1 package of "More Eggs" Tonic. Or send $2.25 today and get three regular $1 packages on special discount for a season's supply. A million dollar bank guarantee if you are not absolutely satisfied, your money will be returned on request and the "More Eggs" costs you nothing. You take no risk. Write today. Pin a dollar bill to your letter or send $2.25 special discount for 3 packages. Or ask Mr. Hooper to send you free his poultry book that tells the experience of a man who has made a fortune out of poultry.

RE-EDUCATION DEMONSTRATED

An exhibit demonstrating the remarkable success and ramifications of the vocational reeducation of Canadian veterans was maintained by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Reestablishment at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this fall. Disabled men were shown engaged in various occupations from which it might be supposed they would be barred by their injuries, and some of their products were displayed prominently. Photographs were shown of the shops and classes in which the men were trained, of the sanatoria and hospitals in which they were restored to health, and of the modern equipment which they were taught to use.
