What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

ALTA SUNDAY-MONDAY.

Delightful Mae Marsh Stars in "Money Mad."

Although she has everything to make a girl happy, Elsie Dean is miserable because of her distrust of her stepfather, Martin Ross. When she returns from school and finds him surrounded by objectionable people, the girl cannot forget the strange illness which overcame her mother and resulted in her death and the presence then, as now, of a sinister Hindu in the house. Ostensibly a servant, Ross dominates Martin Ross through the latter's weakness for things occult. And there is Fanette Lisbon.

She is a beautiful creature of doubtful reputation whose desire is to marry the wealthy man and get possession of the splendid pearls left by Elsie's mother for the girl.

Prompted by her sweetheart, Elsie asks Martin Ross for the treasures and is delighted to receive them promptly. At once Elsie and Billy Gavin have the pearls appraised and both are shocked to learn that they are of little value. Elsie is sure that she has been tricked and conceives a plan that shall unmask Martin Ross and his questionable friends.

Arrayed in the costume of an Oriental seeress, Elsie awaits the coming of Fanette, who is lured by Elsie's stories of a wonderful fortune-teller. Fanette's visit is followed by a call from Ross, who is alarmed at what Elsie tells him about the impending fate of the pearls.

He hurries to see if they are safe and their hiding place is revealed to Fanette, who shoots Ross when he attempts to regain possession of them. Cunnitely she fastens the guilt on Elsie's sweetheart and makes off with the pearls.

Again Elsie has recourse to her trick and under her skillful probing Fanette discloses the hiding place. Detectives seize her and bring Sima, the Hindu, to justice as well.

"The Danger Mark" Was Photographed in Sunny Florida.

When the admirers of beautiful Elsie Ferguson, the famous Artcraft star, see her in her newest photoplay, "The Danger Mark," a picturization of Robert W. Chambers' celebrated novel at the Pastime Sunday and Monday they will see some charming Florida scenery, nearly every scene in the picture having been photographed in that state.

One of the scenes of "The Danger Mark" is a garden party and when this was being photographed in the garden of a splendid mansion at Marjory, Fla., scores of society folks prominent in New York society and elsewhere, took part therein. The costumes worn in this picture represent a fortune.

Miss Ferguson will be seen in this picture as Gerald Seagrave, a charming young society woman who has inherited an inordinate desire to drink from a dissipated ancestor. She is wealthy and much courted, and when her guardian discovers that the girl secretly indulges her craving by eating sugar steeped in cognac, she is shocked and terrified. At a Louis XVI garden fete, Geraldine drinks champagne to excess, but she escapes consequent disgrace when the man who loves her carries her to her room the other guests being quite unaware of their young host's predicament.

Miss Ferguson portrays this difficult role with discretion, taste and skill. Her emotional scenes are described as being most artistic and they lend much charm and interest to a most captivating story. The love interest is exceptionally strong and this is perhaps the chief charm of the photoplay. Miss Ferguson is capably supported by an excellent company.

SENATE PLANS OBSERVERS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Senate respondent over Wilson's failure to include a senator in the peace delegation, caused Senator Cummins to draft a resolution creating a bi-partisan committee of eight senators to "observe the peace conference." Other senators plan similar resolutions to be introduced next week.

Chamberlain Says Soldiers Should Get To Wear Uniforms

OREGON NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Nov. 29.—In response to a request for his views of an army regulation which provides that discharged soldiers may wear their uniforms only three months after their discharge Senator Chamberlain said today that in his opinion they should be allowed to wear the clothes as long as they wish. Many of the soldiers have overcoats that will be serviceable for a year or two and perhaps longer.

"The War Department reports that it has several million overcoats, trousers, coats and shirts which can yet be allotted to the soldiers," said Senator Chamberlain. "There are two reasons why the soldiers should be permitted to wear as long as they wish the uniforms they have when they are discharged. First, it will be a source of pride to many of them to wear the uniforms in which they served while in France; others will wish to put the uniforms away as souvenirs, but whatever the personal viewpoint they should be permitted to gratify it. Second, many of the men will not find it financially convenient to fit themselves out with civilian clothes within three months after their discharge.

"If any of the clothes are stored by the government they will deteriorate with time. The government should permit the men to make full use of all the clothing on hand and not needed for government purposes. There should be no waste."

WESLEY R. CHILDS

"Pop" Wesley R. Childs is the best liked Y. M. C. A. secretary in France, at least among the doughboys. "Pop" struck it rich in oil. If he had his way, the Y. M. C. A. wouldn't sell anything to the doughboys, but would give everything away free. His popularity rests on the fact that he was the first secretary to pass out free smokes and sweets.

It is said to be costing Childs about $1,000 a month to serve the Y. M. C. A. He usually hands out that much in five and ten-franc notes to "bus.ed" doughboys every month.

He has two boys in France.
